Sept. 15—Georgie Small, Brooklyn.....W 10

Nov. 11—Joe Giambra, Buffalo .....L 10
Dec. 19—Billy Graham, New York.....*W 10

*In the original official decision of the referee and judges, Giardello was awarded the verdict as follows: Judge Shortell, 7 rounds to 3 and 10 points to 4 for Graham; Judge Agnello, 6 rounds to 4 and 7 points to 4 for Giardello; Referee Miller, 5 rounds to 4 for Giardello and five points to each.

Commissioners Christenberry and Powell, after the decision was rendered, changed Joe Agnello's score card which resulted in awarding the verdict to Graham. On Agnello's score card, one extra point was awarded by the Commissioners to Graham in round four and the tenth round was taken from Giardello and given to Graham who also received two points in that round. Thus the score was changed to give Graham the official split decision on the basis of the revision of Agnello's card by the Commission to read, five rounds each with Graham ahead in points, 6 to 5, thereby reversing the original majority decision of the judges and referee.

When the case came before the State Supreme Court, Justice Botein ruled that the New York State Athletic Commission had no right to reverse the scorecard of the official and decided the actual decision to be the one originally given, in favor of Giardello.

SECTION SEVEN

COMPLETE BOXING ENCYCLOPEDIA

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES OF CURRENT AND RECENT WORLD CHAMPIONS

VIRGIL AKINS

Born, St. Louis, Mo., March 10, 1928. Height, five feet nine inches. Began his professional boxing career in 1948 as a lightweight and fought in that division with success until 1954, when he grew into the welterweight class. Had always been rated a good fighter, but was an in-and-outer until late in 1957.

His best string of victories was in 1954-55, when he went nine fights without a loss. A hard, punishing hitter with power in both his left hooks and right, which he uses effectively either as an uppercut or straight cross.

Virgil holds a victory over former lightweight champion Joe Brown, whom he defeated in ten rounds in St. Louis, on December 6, 1951. He also has defeated former lightweight champion Wallace (Bud) Smith twice in 1951. On May 2, 1955, in the St. Nick's Club in New York City, he knocked out Ronnie Delaney in the eighth round and snapped Delaney's undefeated skein of forty-six straight.

Won the vacant world welterweight title by kayoing Vince Martinez in the final elimination bout, after previously kayoing Tony DeMarco (twice) and Isaac Logart, in St. Louis on June 6, 1958, in the fourth round. He floored Martinez nine times during the title contest.

On December 5, 1958 he lost the title to Don Jordan by a decision in 15 rounds in Los Angeles, Calif.

In a return bout in St. Louis, Mo., April 24, 1959, Akins again lost the decision in 15 rounds. He continued to box through 1961 but retired in 1962 due to an injured eye.

CARMEN BASILIO

Carmen Basilio was born April 2, 1927, in Canastota, N. Y. Managed by Johnny DeJohn and Joe Netro. One of eleven children, he grew up on his father's onion farm and also worked in a wire factory.

From 1945 through November, 1947 he served with the Marines, most of it overseas in the Pacific.

Had 14 amateur bouts, winning 11. Won Adirondack Golden Gloves title, lost in finals of National AAU. Turned pro in 1948. Holds victories over Ike Williams, Billy Graham, Gil Turner, Pierre Langlois. A check of score cards reversed his announced win over Chuck Davey in 1952 to a draw. Won New York State welterweight title in fight with Billy Graham in 1953.

Dropped Kid Gavilan in welterweight title bout in 1953 but lost split decision. Won world title by knocking out Tony DeMarco in 12 rounds on June 10, 1955 at Syracuse. Knocked out DeMarco in 12 rounds in a return bout on November 30, 1955 in Boston. Lost welterweight title to Johnny Saxton via fifteen round decision, March 14, 1956, at Chicago, Illinois. Regained welterweight title from Johnny Saxton on September 12, 1956, at Syracuse, New York, when he stopped Saxton in the ninth round.

On February 22, 1957 he knocked out Saxton in Cleveland in the second round to retain his welter crown. Won middleweight title by split fifteen round decision over Ray Robinson on September 23, 1957 and vacated welterweight title. Lost middleweight crown in return bout with Robinson on March 25, 1958 in Chicago by a split decision. On Aug. 28, 1959 he was stopped by Gene Fullmer in the 14th round in a bout for the vacant N.B.A. middleweight title. On June 29, 1960, Basilio tried to regain his crown but was knocked out by Fullmer in the twelfth round. On April 22, 1961, he fought Paul Pender in Boston for Pender's share of the world middleweight title and lost the decision in 15 rounds. On April 25 Carmen announced his retirement.

Basilio is married. Hobbies are fishing and hunting. Awarded the Ed Neil trophy as Fighter of the Year in 1955 and 1957 by Boxing Writers' Association. He is an instructor of physical education at Lemoyne College in New York.

JOSE BECERRA

Jose Becerra was born in Guadalajara, Jalisco, Mexico of poor peasants on April 5, 1936. He is five feet 5 inches tall. His parents, Jesus Becerra and Maria Covarrubias, have three older sons, Jose Guadalupe, Carlos and Consuelo and a daughter named Irene. Jose attended primary school and finished the fifth grade. He started working when 12 years old in a carriage repair shop. He learned his boxing from his manager, Pancho Rosales, who for thirty-five years developed Mexican ring talent, among his boys being Raton Macias, Baby Vasquez and Kid Anahuac. He became a national Mexican figure in 1957 when in his tenth pro battle he ended a ten fight winning streak of Manuel Armenteros, a veteran. He was later stopped by Dwight Hawkins in Los Angeles in four rounds but knocked Hawkins out four months later in the ninth round.

After his first defeat he went undefeated in 13 bouts and scored 11 knockouts. Later he scored a tenth round kayo over Mario D'Agata of Italy. It was from D'Agata that Halimi won the world crown and Halimi lost it to Becerra when he was stopped in Los Angeles in the eighth round on July 8, 1959.

On February 4, 1960, he successfully defended his title against Alphonse Halimi whom he stopped in the ninth round and again defended successfully against Kenji Yonekura, May 23, 1960 in Tokyo in 15 rounds. On August 30, 1960 he was stopped in the eighth round by Eloy Sanchez in Juarez in a non-title bout and announced his retirement.

Becerra started fighting in 1956.

On Oct. 13, 1962, in Guadalajara, Becerra won a six round decision over Alberto Martinez on a benefit show staged to raise money for boxer Rudy Coronado who was injured some months earlier in a fight in Guadalajara.

JOE BROWN

When Joe Brown won the world lightweight crown from Wallace (Bud) Smith in New Orleans, he gained the coveted title despite the fact that for thirteen of the fifteen rounds he fought with one hand after having broken his right. It was a rocky road to the top for the 30-year-old ex-carpenter who on several occasions, his patience exhausted while he sought the chance to win the title, had hung up his gloves. But he forgot the heartbreaks when his hand was raised to indicate he had finally gained the goal of his ambition after dropping Smith, the defending champion, twice. The bout went the limit of 15 rounds and the date was August 14, 1956. He won by a split decision.

In a return bout in Miami Beach on February 13, 1957, Brown stopped Smith in the eleventh round to retain his crown. Then on June 19, he again successfully defended his title when he knocked out Orlando Zulueta in Denver in the fifteenth round and stopped Joe Lopes in Chicago, December 4, 1957, in the eleventh round.

On May 7, 1958, Brown stopped Ralph Dupas in the eighth round of a title bout in Houston and on July 23 at Houston he again retained his crown beating Kenny Lane in 15 rounds.

Brown, who started as a grocery boy helper, went on to carpentry and then made the pugilistic field his profession, was born on May 18, 1926, in Baton Rouge, La. He is managed by Lou Viscusi who brought Willie Pep to the top of the featherweight division. He is a good puncher, paces himself well, and carries a hefty left hook.

Joey, known as the Creole Clouter and "Old Bones" is 5 feet, 7½ inches. He has an excellent record. He spent 21 months in the United States Navy during World War II and took part in seven Pacific invasions before he was honorably discharged in 1945.

Brown started boxing while in the service. He won sixteen contests and carried off the All-Service lightweight championship. Shortly after his discharge, on January 13, 1946, he became a professional. His ability as a pugilist may be noted from the fact that during most of his pro career he was up among the rated ten best world lightweights.

At the time he won the championship his record showed a total of 85 contests of which he won 26 via the knockout route.

In 1959 Brown successfully defended his title on February 11 against Johnny Busso in Houston, winning in 15 rounds, stopped Paolo Rosi in Washington, D. C., June 3, in 9 rounds, and halted Dave Charnley, 6 rounds, on December 2.

In 1960 Brown successfully defended his championship against Cisco Andrade in Los Angeles, winning in 15 rounds.

On April 18, 1961, Brown put his title on the line for the tenth time with Dave Charnley of England. In this return bout in London, Brown retained the crown gaining the decision at the end of 15 rounds. On October 28 in Quezon City, Philippines he turned back the challenge of Bert Somodio winning a unanimous 15 round decision. Brown lost his title when he was outpointed by Carlos Ortiz in 15 rounds in Las Vegas, Nevada on April 21, 1962.

JIMMY CARRUTHERS

Born, Paddington, N. S. W., Australia, July 5, 1929. Managed by Billy McConnell and Dr. John McGirr.

Carruthers started his professional career on August 15, 1950, stopping Ted Fitzgerald in three rounds at Sydney. Won the Australian bantamweight title on a fifteen round decision over Elley Bennett on May 14, 1951. He is a southpaw.

In his fifteenth bout, Carruthers won the world bantamweight title by stopping champion Vic Toweel in less than one round at Johannesburg, So. Africa, to give Australia its first universally recognized champion. In 1953 Jimmy successfully defended his title against Vic Toweel by a knockout and Pappy Gault by a decision.

On May 2, 1954, Carruthers successfully defended his title by decisioning Chamrern Songkitrat. On May 16, 1954, Carruthers announced his retirement and went into the hotel business. He made a comeback as a lightweight in September, 1961.

JAMES CARTER
(James W. Carter)

Born, December 15, 1923, at Aiken, S. C. Height, 5 feet, 6½ inches. Weight, 135 pounds. Managed by Willie Ketchum. When he was a child, family moved to Harlem district of New York.

The flat-nosed, dark-skinned Carter learned his boxing at the Catholic Boys' Club and began fighting as an amateur at the age of 14. In 1943 he went into the Army and won welterweight title of Camp Clayborne, La. Saw service in England, France and the Philippines with the Army Engineers during the war.

Carter started his pro career in 1946 after coming out of the Army. He was known as a mechanic at his trade and a fair puncher. Though he rarely lost he was never able to make a hit in New York rings. Campaigned throughout the country and in Australia in 1949 where he lost to Norman Gent and halted Charlie Ashenden.

In 1950 he had only three fights, beating Wallace (Bud) Smith and Jesse Underwood and drawing with Tommy Campbell. The following year, before winning the title, he lost to Calvin Smith and won and lost against Percy Bassett.

His big chance came on May 25, 1951 when Ike Williams, who had not defended his title in a year and a half and was having trouble making the weight, signed to meet Carter for the crown. Williams, weakened by weight making, was an easy target for Carter and was knocked out in the fourteenth round. Carter received only $1,377.63 plus $2,250 television money for winning the title before a sparse gathering at Madison Square Garden.

Carter lost the title to Lauro Salas on May 14, 1952, in Los Angeles, Cal., in 15 rounds but Carter regained the title on October 15, 1952 in Chicago in 15 rounds and in 1953 successfully defended his crown against Tommy Collins, George Araujo and Armand Savoie, each via the knockout route.

In 1954 Carter again lost his title, this time to Paddy DeMarco on a 15 round decision and regained it on November 17 in San Francisco, stopping Paddy in the fifteenth round.

Carter, who had won the world lightweight title three times, lost it for the third time on June 29, 1955, at Boston, dropping a 15-round decision to Wallace (Bud) Smith. On October 19, 1955, he lost a return bout with Smith by unanimous decision in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Carter, after announcing his retirement, made several unsuccessful comebacks and after four consecutive losses including a kayo by Kildo Nunez, he quit for good.

TERRY DOWNES
(The Cockney Kid)

Terry Downes, born May 9, 1936, in the Paddington section of London, England, became world middleweighe champion July 11, 1961, when the defending title-holder, Paul Pender of Boston, quit at the end of the ninth round in the Wembley Pool Arena, London. Up to the time of its sudden, surprising ending, the bout was an even-up affair, a thrilling, punishing bout in which the boxing skill of the champion failed to overcome the aggressiveness of the challenger. Pender's retirement was attributed to fatigue and a deep cut above his left eye.

Downes became the first Britished to hold the middleweight title since Randy Turpin. Terry won the laurels exactly ten years to the day after Turpin had gained it from Ray Robinson, also in London.

Terry makes no pretensions to cleverness. He is strictly what the trade calls a "club fighter," a slam-bang, aggressive slugger. He learned his ring fighting while serving in the U. S. Marines, which he joined while visiting a married sister in Baltimore. Upon his discharge in 1957, he returned to England and turned professional. When he won the title, it was in his 34th bout, of which 27 were victories (23 by k.o.'s). He lost once on a disqualification and had been stopped five times, mainly because of facial cuts. His only serious defeat had been by Dick Tiger, who knocked him down three times and ripped his features so badly Downes' handlers conceded defeat after five rounds.

Downes' first championship was the vacant British title. He stopped Phil Edwards, Welsh champion, in 13 rounds in London in 1958. The following year he lost the laurels to John (Cowboy) McCormack, Scottish challenger, on an eighth-round disqualification in London. Six weeks later he regained it by stopping McCormack, also in eight rounds and in London. In 1960 he retained his champioship by again halting Welshman Phil Edwards, this time in twelve rounds in London, and followed that performance by thrashing American Joey Giardello in London. On the strength of this victory he was given a world title match with Pender in Boston in January of 1961. He lost when the bout was halted in the seventh round because of a bady gashed nose, but he made such a gallant bid for the title that he was given the return match in London.

Downes lost the title back to Pender when he was outpointed in 15 rounds in Boston on April 7, 1962.

GENE FULLMER

Gene Fullmer was born in West Jordan, Utah, July 21, 1931, the son of Lawrence "Tuff" and Mary Fullmer. He is 5 feet 8 inches tall. He started to show an interest in boxing as a boy of eight when his dad, a former boxer, taught him the rudiments of the game. Gene appeared in boxing exhibitions at church charity affairs and soon became an amateur boxer. He entered A.A.U. competition where he won the Golden Gloves Utah title four times and won the Intermountain competition five times.

He was in the 1948 Olympic trials but failed to make the team. He lost to Johnny Gonsalves in that tournament. He lost to Gil Turner in the 1948 National A.A.U. meet at Boston. Gene has two fighting brothers, Don and Jay who were good amateurs before turning professionals.

Gene was an all-around athlete in school, winning his letters in basketball, football and track. He is a graduate of the Jordan High Seminary and is an elder in the Mormon Church.

He entered the Army in 1952 and served for two years. He was in Korea for more than 12 months in the repair division of the Motorized Automobile Division. He raises Mink as a hobby and at times works in the Kennecott Copper Mines.

Gene won the world middleweight title from Ray Robinson in New York's Garden on January 2, 1957 and lost it to Ray in Chicago, May 1, 1957. On August 28, 1959 he won the National Boxing Association's Middleweight crown by stopping Carmen Basilio in San Francisco in the fourteenth round after Ray had been shorn of the crown by the N.B.A. On December 4 that year, he successfully defended the crown against Spider Webb in 15 rounds. On April 20, 1960 he went 15 rounds to a draw in a title bout with Joey Giardello in Bozeman, Montana, and on June 29 of the same year, he knocked out Basilio in a return engagement in 12 rounds to retain the N.B.A. throne.

On December 3, 1960, in Los Angeles, Gene put his N.B.A. crown on the line again in a title defense against Ray Robinson and once again the decision as in the Giardello fight was a draw.

He successfully defended his N.B.A. title again on March 4, 1961 in Las Vegas, gaining the decision at the end of 15 rounds over Ray Robinson. Gene added to his record by outpointing Florentino Fernandez in Ogden, Utah on August 5th, and then scoring a ten round knockout over welterweight champion Benny Paret on December 9 in title bouts. He was named as the "Fighter of the Year" and winner of the Edward J. Neil Trophy for 1961.

On October 23, 1962, Fullmer lost his title when he was outpointed in 15 rounds by Dick Tiger of Nigeria at Candlestick Park, San Francisco, Calif.

Rocky began his ring career as an amateur in 1941. He won the Metropolitan A.A.U. 147 pound crown, then turned pro in the summer of 1942. His slambang, unscientific style of scrapping made him a great club fighting favorite around New York.

Among his knockout victims are Joe Curcio, Billy Arnold, Al Davis, Freddie Cochrane, Harold Green, Marty Servo, Tony Zale, Joe Agosta, and Charley Fusari.

He won the middleweight title from Tony Zale on July 16, 1947 in Chicago by a six round knockout and lost the title to Zale in Newark when Tony reversed the decision, stopping Rocky in the third round.

After his retirement, he turned to television and the movies. His autobiography, "Somebody Up There Likes Me," was a success as a novel and movie.

FIGHTING HARADA

Fighting Harada, christened Masahiko, is the first teen-ager to win a world championship since Tony Canzoneri came to the front in 1928. Harada, who defeated Pone Kingpetch, stopping him in the eleventh round in Tokyo, October 10, 1962, was nineteen and a half years old at the time, three months more than Tony was when he won the featherweight crown. Kingpetch was stopped with only one more second to end the round.

Harada is the second Japanese to win a world title, Yoshio Shirai preceded him when he won the flyweight diadem from Dado Marino.

Harada's father was a tree surgeon. The champion has three brothers and two sisters. He was born on April 5, 1943 in Tokyo and attended the Fukazawa High School. He then stopped Gaspar Ortega in the twelfth round on June 3, 1961 in Los Angeles, Calif. On July 13, at Las Vegas he retained his title by outpointing Ralph Dupas in fifteen rounds.

EDER JOFRE

Eder Jofre was born in Sao Paulo, Brazil, March 26, 1936. From his youth he took a fancy to eating vegetables and to this day he is a vegetarian, the only champion other than Freddie Welsh to be classed as such.

Jofre, who in his studies at school learned to speak English, has had a high school education. He was a star soccer football player and amateur boxer who was a winner in the Pan-American championships and also carried off the Brazilian bantam crown. In 1956 in the Australian Olympic Games, Jofre represented his country in the bantam class and was eliminated in the quarter finals by Claudio Barrientos of Chile in a close contest. Returning from the games, he turned professional.

In his first pro fight he knocked out Raul Lopez in the fifth round and a month later, repeated.

In 1960, after winning the South American championship by gaining the decision in 15 rounds over Ernesto Miranda, he fought Miranda in a return bout and stopped him in the third round. The Sanchez fight was one of two elimination bouts ordered by the N.B.A. and European Boxing Union to obtain a successor to Jose Becerra who had retired. Sanchez was stopped in the sixth round. Then came the knockout of Billy Peacock in two.

An attempt to have Jofre and Alphone Halimi, winner of the European elimination meet for the vacant crown failed when Halimi declined to face the Brazilian. Piero Rollo, Champion of Italy was substituted and was kayoed in the tenth round in Rio de Janeiro. With that victory, Jofre received recognition as world bantam champion. At the time he had a record of thirty-six victories in thirty nine fights, the other three being draws. He is a clever boxer and a hard hitter. Jofre retained his title by knocking out Johnny Caldwell and Herman Marques, each in the tenth round, the former on January 18, 1962 and the latter on May 4, 1962.

Ingemar won the Scandinavian Heavyweight Championship March 12, 1953, defeating Erik Jensen in six rounds. His knockouts of Gunter Nurnberg, Hein ten Hoff and a victory over Joe Bygraves of England put him in line for a shot at the European title which he won on September 30, 1956, stopping Franco Cavicchi of Italy in the thirteenth round. That enabled him to regain the faith his people had lost in him with his Olympic disqualification in the Sanders bout.

In successful European title defenses he stopped Henry Cooper in 5 rounds and Joe Erskine in 13 then came his sensational knockout of America's top contender, Eddie Machen in one round. It was that knockout that earned for him the shot at Patterson's title which he won by a knockout in the third round and scored seven knock downs in the Yankee Stadium bout.

CHARLES (SONNY) LISTON

Charles Sonny Liston who won the world heavyweight championship, September 25, 1962 in Comiskey Park, Chicago, Illinois, by knocking out Floyd Patterson in 2:06 of the opening round, is one of the giants of pugilism both in hitting power and in stature. Standing 6 feet 1, and weighing between 212 and 218 when in fighting trim, he has the second largest reach of any previous title holder, 84 inches, and a fist of 15½ inches, giving him an advantage few heavyweights have had. With huge thighs and tremendous power, he is a throwback to Jack Johnson who was similarly built.

He can be jovial and mean, depending on the person to whom he is speaking. Outside the ring his personality changes. Inside, he is a terror. When he won the crown, he did it in the fastest time ever accomplished by a challenger. He was the first challenger to win the title in one round. Though Tommy Burns and Joe Louis turned the trick in faster time, they were champions.

Liston gained the title at the age of 28. He came to fame after a tempestuous life during which he served several prison terms. It was the aid of a chaplain that steered him on the path that set him up for a title shot. He had 35 professional fights, including the championship match, and the Patterson bout he considered his easiest. He comes from a large family, the total number unknown even to him. He was born in Pine Bluff, Arkansas, June 22, 1932.

Liston has an accurate left, jolting and fast. When he won the crown he had amassed a record of 24 knockouts in 35 fights of which he lost only one.

That record enabled his manager to press the issue for a world championship match and on March 18, 1959, Moore gained his goal when he stopped Hogan Bassey, of Nigeria in Los Angeles in the thirteenth round to win the world featherweight championship. On August 19, 1959 he stopped Bassey in a return match in 11 rounds.

He held public office. He attended Staley College in Brookline but quit after a year and a half. He ran for Park Commissioner but lost.

He took part in professional boxing for eleven years before Dame Fortune favored him and he defeated Sugar Ray Robinson for the middleweight title on January 22, 1960. But in all parts of the world except in parts of the U.S., over which the National Boxing Association had control, Pender by his victory became the recognized successor to Robinson's crown.

In 1961, Pender stopped Terry Downes of England in the tenth round in Boston in a title match and on April 22 he won the unanimous decision in another championship match over Carmen Basilio, in Boston.

YOSHIO SHIRAI

Yoshio Shirai, world flyweight champion, was born in Tokyo, Japan, in 1923. At the age of twenty, while working as a helper in his father's contracting business, he took up boxing under the tutelage of Toyo Sato. He stands five feet 6 inches.

Shirai never engaged in amateur bouts. Until he was inducted into the Japanese Army in 1943, he had eight pro bouts and won all. In 1946, when honorably discharged, he went back to boxing. He won his first bout, then was knocked out in the sixth round by Noboru Kushida for his first setback.

Like Dado Marino, who was developed by Sam Ichinose in Hawaii, Shirai was discovered by Kinoshita of Oji Boxing Club. Later, in 1947, he received further coaching from an American civilian with the U. S. Army in Tokyo, Dr. Cahn, who later managed him.

On December 4, 1951 he gain international prestige by stopping Dado Marino in 1:11 of the seventh round in Honolulu. Following that victory he won a ten round bout from Hiroshi Horiguchi, stopped Kiyochi Muto in six and then won the title from Marino in 15 rounds via the decision route. He successfully defended his title against Marino on November 15 at Tokyo, winning a 15 round decision. He also defended it against Terry Allen and Tanny Campo in 1953.

Shirai retained his crown against the challenge of Leo Espinosa in a close fight in 1954. He then fought twice in Argentina, drawing with Pascual Perez in 10 and winning in 10 from Alberto Barenghi. On November 26 he lost his world flyweight title to Perez on a 15 rounds decision at Korakuen Stadium, Tokyo, Japan.

In 1955 he was unsuccessful in a title bout against Perez, being knocked out in five rounds and retired.

DICK TIGER
(Richard Ihetu)

Born Amaigbo, Orlu, Eastern Nigeria, August 14, 1929. One of six children (four boys, two girls) both to agricultural parents. Short for a middleweight (5 feet, 8 inches), he invariably faced taller opponents early in his career, and to offset their advantages in height and reach he developed a crouching, leaping style which was likened to that of a tiger; hence his ring name.

"Outgrew" his crude Nigerian style with experience in Britain and the United States, and became an accomplished all-around mechanic—a strong, durable, aggressive combination boxer-fighter. After brief amateur career in Nigeria, he turned professional in 1952.

After eliminating all opposition in his native land, he went to England late in 1955, won the British Empire middleweight title by knocking out Pat McAteer in nine rounds in Liverpool in 1958, and made his first trip to the United States in 1959.

Became World Boxing Association champion October 23, 1962, by beating Gene Fullmer in 15 rounds in San Francisco. Complete professional record to end of 1962: Total bouts: 61; won 47 (21 by k.o.), drew 2, lost 12. Is married, and father of four children (three girls, one boy). Lives with his family in Aba, in Eastern Nigeria.

RANDY TURPIN
(Randolph Adolphus Turpin)

Born, June 7, 1928, at Leamington Spa, England. Height, 5 feet 10½ inches. Weight, 159 pounds. Managed by George Middleton. Won five national amateur titles of Britain. Started pro career in 1946. Served in Royal Navy as sea cook during World War II.

After the death of the British Empire middleweight champion, Dave Sands, Turpin was matched with George Angelo for the vacant crown and Randy won in 15 rounds. The bout took place in London on October 21, 1952.

His rise in the game was rapid and reached its peak on July 10, 1951 when he defeated Ray Robinson on points at Earls Court, London, England, to win the middleweight title, which ranks as one of the greatest upsets of the decade.

A succession of injuries to his right hand made him develop a potent left, a punch which was popularly called the "Alakasam."

In a return match with Ray Robinson, at Polo Grounds, in New York, Turpin lost the crown when he was halted at 2:52 of the tenth round. Gross receipts set a record for non-heavyweight bout, $767,626. Turpin's purse, over $200,000 with a share of motion picture receipts, is the largest ever received by a British fighter.

He was defeated by Carl Bobo Olson in the final elimination for the world middleweight title on October 21, 1953, in 15 rounds. Previously he defeated Charley Humez in 15 rounds in London, in the final of the European elimination to decide Ray Robinson's successor. In 1954 he was halted in a round by Tiberio Mitri in Rome, in a European title bout.

He held the British Empire and British light heavyweight titles. On October 18, 1955, he was knocked out in the fourth round by Gordon Wallace of Canada and announced his retirement, but later made another return in an attempted comeback and regained the British light-heavyweight championship. Randy then was knocked out by Yolande Pompey and again retired.

JERSEY JOE WALCOTT
(Arnold Raymond Cream)

Born in Merchantville, N. J., January 31, 1914. Now living in Camden, N. J. Height 6 feet. Weight, 194 pounds. Managed by Felix Bocchicchio. Earliest known professional records date back to 1930, however, Walcott probably fought before then. Age has always been disputed, claims being made that he is several years older. Took fighting name of original Walcott whom he idolized.

A high school graduate, he is a good, smooth talker but somewhat shy. Is married and father of six children. Disillusionment made him quit the ring several times between 1930 and 1943. A hard puncher in his early career he acquired a unique style of boxing later on that defeated the best of heavyweights and eventually won for him the title.

In 1945 he started his rise to the top, knocking out Steve Dudas, Johnny Denson, Tommy Gomez and Curtis Sheppard and beating Joe Baski, Lee Q. Murray, Jimmy Bivins and Lee Oma. After defeats to Joey Maxim and Elmer Ray he decisioned them in returns and was matched with Joe Louis for the title, losing on a split decision after having the champion down. Louis stopped his second bid for the crown on June 25, 1948, halting him in eleven rounds.

After Louis had vacated the title, Walcott and Ezzard Charles fought for N.B.A. recognition in 1949, and Jersey Joe lost a close decision. He then stopped Olle Tandberg in Stockholm, Harold Johnson, Omelio Agramonte and Johnny Shkor in the States and defeated Hein Ten Hoff in Germany, before losing in an upset to Rex Layne in the Garden.

In his fourth try for the title, on March 7, 1951 at Detroit, he lost again to Charles but on July 18, 1951 he halted the champion in seven rounds at Pittsburgh to win the championship. On June 5, 1952, Walcott outpointed Ezzard in Philadelphia in 15 rounds.

On September 23, 1952, in the Municipal Stadium of Philadelphia, Walcott lost the title to Rocky Marciano who stopped him in the 13th round by a knockout.

He was stopped by Rocky in Chicago in a return bout in 2.25 of the opening round on May 15, 1953. Walcott went into the Motel business following his retirement. He also became a parole officer in his city. He took part in Bud Shulberg's movie, "The Harder They Fall," as a trainer of boxers.

Y., to win the welterweight crown and on August 17, 1938, he took the lightweight championship by outpointing Lou Ambers in Madison Square Garden. Late in 1938 he relinquished his featherweight title.

Armstrong won the Edward J. Neil Trophy for 1940 and was "The Ring Magazine's" Fighter of the Year Award in 1937. He engaged in 26 title bouts. His battles with Owen Moran were classics. His ten round no decision bout with Jem Driscoll on February 19, 1909 at New York is rated as one of the best exhibitions of ring science ever seen in New York.

With the crown vacant, Ted Kid Lewis claimed the title on defeating Britton on August 31, 1915 at Boston, Mass. On April 24, 1916, Britton beat Lewis in 20 rounds in New Orleans for the title. Refused permission to box beyond six rounds by New York Commission upon arrival in the United States, he cleaned up opposition with quick knockouts and soon became a headliner. He was an extremely clever boxer.

After Charley Phil Rosenberg was deprived of his title by the New York Commission, several eliminations were staged to obtain his successor. On June 18, 1929 Brown beat Vidal Gregario in New York in a fifteen rounder and was crowned king of the division.

He held the title until 1935, despite the fact that New York and the National Boxing Association on several occasions declared the throne vacant because of Brown's refusal to fight in America.

He did practically all of his boxing in various parts of Europe, principally Paris. He was shorn of his crown by Baltazar Sangchilli in Spain, on June 1, 1935 and retired, but made several unsuccessful comebacks.

Started his boxing career in the Navy, his first professional fight being in 1918. Buff won the American flyweight title in a bout with Frankie Mason on February 11, 1921, at New Orleans, La., and the world bantamweight title from Pete Herman over fifteen rounds on September 23, 1921, at New York City.

He lost both crowns in 1922, the bantamweight crown to Joe Lynch on July 11 at New York City on a 14 round kayo, and the American flyweight title to Pancho Villa on September 14, at Brooklyn, N. Y. on an 11 round knockout.

After retiring in 1926 Buff reenlisted in the Navy.

Among others he fought were Midget Smith, Abe Goldstein, Charley Ledoux, Jack Sharkey, Young Zulu Kid and Pal Moore.

He died January 14, 1955 in East Orange, New Jersey.

FRANKIE BURNS

Burns was born in Jersey City, N. J., June 24, 1889 and came from Irish-American parentage.

He started his fistic career in 1908. He faced the world's best fighters and had a fine record but never he'd a championship though he was a strong contender for world honors for many years.

Burns fought such stars as Young O'Leary, Packey Hommey, Johnny Daly, Monte Attell, Digger Stanley, Johnny Kilbane, Johnny Ertle, Joe Lynch, Johnny Coulon, Pete Herman, Jack Sharkey, Jem Kendrick, Young Wagner, Charley Goldman, Tommy Houck, Eddie Sherman, Tommy O'Toole, Eddie Campi, Jimmy Murray, Young Zulu Kid, Battling Reddy, Jabez White, Charley Beecher and Packy O'Gatty, among others.

There are few losses in his record. The only knockout he suffered was at the hands of Kilbane on September 16, 1919, in 5 rounds, in Jersey City.

He fought Pete Herman in New Orleans, November 15, 1914 and when the gong sounded for the thirteenth round, Red Walsh, Herman's manager, tossed in the sponge. Herman was badly beaten. In 1917, after fighting a thrilling bout with Jack Sharkey that went the limit, Burns knocked out Young Zulu Kid, one of the hardest hitters in the division, in the fourth round.

In 1918, just ten years after he started his career, Burns tackled Johnny Ertle, a claimant to world honors and stopped him in the seventh round.

One of his toughest battles was with Johnny Coulon for the bantamweight title in New Orleans, on February 18, 1912. It went twenty rounds with Coulon getting the decision.

Burns, after retiring, went into business in Jersey City where he died on April 10, 1961 at the age of 71.

EDDIE CAMPI

Rated one of the finest all-around mechanics in the history of the bantamweight division, Campi (correct family name DeCampus) was born July 4, 1893, in that hotbed of great fighters, San Francisco. Eddie began his ring career in 1908 and quickly established himself as a topliner. Out of a total 104 bouts, he suffered only eight defeats. Two of them, however, were serious—they kept him from coveted chances at the world title.

In an elimination match in 1914 to determine a challenger for the then champion Johnny Coulon, Campi was stopped in twelve rounds by Kid Williams in Vernon. Williams went on to beat Coulon. Later that year, campaigning for another match with Williams, Campi was outpointed in twenty rounds by Pete Herman in New Orleans—and it was Herman who got the Williams match and became champion.

Among the prominent ringsters Campi defeated during his busy career were Roy Moore, Jimmy Walsh, Willie Meehan (who eventually grew all the way from bantamweight to heavyweight), Frankie Burns, Benny McCoy, Harry Bramer, and former champion Coulon. Campi fought his last bout in 1918. The following year he was fatally injured in a hunting accident near Hollister, California.

TONY CANZONERI

Born November 6, 1908, Slidell, Louisiana. Italian-American. Height 5 feet 4 inches. Weight 135 pounds. Managed by Sam Goldman.

He was one of the greatest lightweights of all time. He started his boxing career as an amateur when he weighed only 95 pounds.

Canzoneri moved to Brooklyn at an early age. He fought in the flyweight and bantam divisions and won the New York State amateur bantam crown in 1924.

Tony held eight titles including his amateur championships. As a professional, he was featherweight, junior welterweight and twice holder of lightweight crowns. He was a bootblack in his youth. He fought Bud Taylor for vacant N.B.A. bantam title and earned a draw in ten furious rounds.

Canzoneri started title grabbing in 1928. He beat Benny Bass for the featherweight championship following an elimination after Johnny Dundee's retirement. Louis Kid Kaplan won the tourney by knocking out Danny Kramer. Kaplan outgrew the class.

Benny Bass won the Philadelphia tourney and Red Chapman won in New England. Bass beat Chapman, and Canzoneri, New York's representative beat Bass in fifteen rounds on February 10. Canzoneri lost the title to Andre Routis on September 28, 1928, 15 rounds.

Canzoneri knocked out Al Singer in one round, November 14, 1930, to win the world lightweight crown. He lost it to Barney Ross in Chicago, June 23, 1933.

With the advancement of Ross to the welterweight division, Canzoneri entered a tournament to decide Barney's successor and defeated Lou Ambers, May 10, 1935, in New York in 15 rounds, to regain lightweight laurels. Ambers turned tables on Tony, winning the championship in return engagement September 3, 1936, 15 round decision, in New York.

As a junior welterweight, in 1931, Tony beat Jackie Kid Berg for the title. Tony lost it to Johnny Jadick after which the class was eliminated from boxing.

Canzoneri rewon the junior welter title in 1933 and lost the world lightweight crown to Barney Ross, September of that year.

Canzoneri retired in 1939 after being knocked out by Al Davis in 3 rounds on November 1 and became an actor. In 1955 he opened a restaurant on Broadway and 51st Street.

Shared Ring's Fighter of Year Award with Barney Ross in 1934.

In 1956 he was elected to Boxing Hall of Fame. Died December 9, 1959.

GEORGES CARPENTIER
(The Orchid Man)

Georges Carpentier was born January 12, 1894, at Lens, France. Weight, 175. Height 5 feet, 11½ inches. Managed by Francois Descamps.

Carpentier, known as "The Orchid Man," started his professional career in 1907 and retired in 1927. In 1912 he lost on a foul in 19 rounds to Frank Klaus in a bout advertised as for the middleweight title. In his first American fight he defeated Battling Levinsky on October 12, 1920 in Jersey City, N. J., on a four round knockout to win the light heavyweight title.

In his next start, at Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City, N. J., for the heavyweight title, he was stopped in four rounds by Jack Dempsey in the first "Million Dollar" gate. Carpentier lost his light heavyweight title to Battling Siki by a knockout in the sixth round, on September 24, 1922, at Paris, France.

The "Orchid Man" served in the French Army in World War I, as a Lieutenant in the Aviation Corps.

He fought in every division from flyweight through heavyweight.

GEORGE K.O. CHANEY

A fine record of eighty-six knockouts in a sixteen year career, was the mark set by George Chaney, referred to as the "Modern K.O. King." No fighter since the start of the present century carried a greater kick in either fist than did Chaney.

Chaney was born in 1893, in Baltimore, of Irish parentage. He scaled 118-135 pounds and was 5 feet 1½ inches tall. He started his professional boxing in 1910 and quit in 1925.

At the age of thirty-one he had rolled up a total of ninety-seven knockouts in 200 battles, a most remarkable record.

George was a son of swat from the very start of his career. He carried T.N.T. in either hand and his southpaw blows put many opponents to sleep.

Among the stars whom he met in the ring were Charley Goldman, Pete Herman, K. O. Eggers, Al Delmont, Danny Ridge, Phil McGovern, Abe Attell, Young Britt, Johnny Dundee, Johnny Kilbane, Rocky Kansas, Benny Valgar, Lew Tendler, Phil Bloom, Joe Tiplitz, Joe Welling, Willie Ritchie and Danny Kramer.

KID CHOCOLATE
"The Cuban Bon Bon"

Kid Chocolate was born Eligio Sardinias at Cerro, Cuba, January 6, 1910. Height 5 feet 6 inches.

He started a business career early as a newsboy then turned to amateur boxing. He fought in 100 amateur bouts, and scored 86 knockouts. He was then signed by Luis Guitteriez, famous Cuban sports writer and turned professional.

He made good with a vengeance from the start. After stopping 21 opponents he came to America. He started his U. S. campaign in 1928 at Commonwealth Club of New York.

He was a double title holder. The Kid held the featherweight and junior lightweight championships. He won the feather title on October 13, 1932 when he scored a knockout over Lew Feldman in final New York elimination in 2.45 of twelfth round. He knocked out Benny Bass in Philadelphia on July 15, 1931 to win junior lightweight crown.

The biggest purse he got was $49,600 from the Al Singer contest which he won in 12 rounds. He earned $345,000 in his American ring campaign.

His record shows a total of 161 ring battles of which he won 81 by decisions. He scored 64 knockouts, lost 8 decisions, drew six times and was knocked out two times.

When he retired he was made an athletic director of Cuban boxing and was placed on a monthly government pension.

Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame, 1959.

ELKY CLARK

Elky Clark had a most interesting career as a fighter. He stood out as a freak but rated high as a boxer in international circles. He was married and had four children before he engaged in a bout with Fidel La Barba of Los Angeles for the world flyweight crown. At the time Elky was twenty-nine years old. He had been fighting for six years and held the British and European Flyweight titles and the Scottish bantamweight title. He and Fidel fought 12 rounds in Madison Square Garden and the American won, thus gaining possession of the world title.

Before entering into boxing, Clark played a dulcimer for a living. He played his banjo in pubs and the patrons of the taverns in Glasgow were so delighted with his tunes that he became most popular with them. Then when he turned to boxing, they were his ardent supporters. He was not as good as Jimmy Wilde, but his general ring ability gained for him the praise of the European and American scribes. It was after the retirement of Wilde that Clark competed in a tournament staged by the National Sporting Club of London and came through with flying colors to win the Lord Lonsdale belt. He died on September 22, 1956, at Glasgow, Scotland.

JAMES J. CORBETT
(James John Corbett)

Known as "Gentleman Jim." Born, September 1, 1866, San Francisco, California. Participated in the first of the "big gloves" contests when he won the heavyweight crown from John L. Sullivan at New Orleans, La. in 1892. He kayoed the Boston Strong Boy in the 21st round. Purse of $25,000 and a stake of $20,000. Managed by William A. Brady.

Corbett, who rose from a bank teller to a world champion, was a father of a new school of boxing, science instead of pure brawn. Lost title to Bob Fitzsimmons in 1897, 14 rounds at Carson City, Nevada, with a solar plexus blow. Fought James J. Jeffries twice, losing the first time at Coney Island, May 11, 1900 by a knockout in 23 rounds and again in San Francisco, August 14, 1903 by a knockout in ten rounds.

Was the most successful of all boxer-thespians. He starred in "Gentleman Jack," the "Cadet" and "Cashel Byron's Profession." Appeared in many plays. Died on February 18, 1933 at Bayside, Long Island, N. Y.

Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame in 1954.

JOHNNY COULON

Born in Toronto, Canada on February 12, 1889, of Irish-French descent. Height, 5 feet. Weight, 118 pounds.

Johnny has been a resident of Chicago for many years. In fact, the Windy City claims him as its own because of his long established residence there.

He started his fighting career in 1905, claimed the bantam title in 1908, when Jimmy Walsh of Boston had outgrown the division, held it until June 9, 1914, when he was knocked out by Kid Williams of Baltimore in three rounds.

Coulon has the distinction among modern champions of having twice defended his crown in twenty round bouts within a period of a fortnight, quite a feat. In the first, he won from Frankie Conley, the Wisconsin Italian, at Vernon, Cal., and in the second, with Frankie Burns, the clever Jersey City boy, was defeated at New Orleans.

Coulon fought for several years after losing his title. He quit only after his defeat at the hands of Charley Ledoux in France in 1920, a knockout in the sixth round. Thereafter, he went into vaudeville, then refereed amateur bouts and later opened a gymnasium.

LES DARCY

No Australian boxer was more popular or thrilled the people of his native land more than did the youthful Les Darcy who became a pugilistic idol Down Under before he had reached the age of manhood. Les, christened James Leslie Darcy, was born in Woodville, New South Wales, on October 31, 1895. He began his boxing career as an amateur when only fifteen years old and it wasn't long before the Australians realized that they had in this boy a future champion. A year later, he joined the professional ranks.

With the exception of Jeff Smith, the clever American middleweight, young Darcy polished off most comers in a flashy manner, particularly American invaders. Bob Whitelaw, an Australian, and Fritz Holland, another American, were the only others to take his measure, Les losing to Bob in 20 rounds shortly after he started his pro career and Holland winning on a foul in 18 rounds, then losing to Les in 20. Darcy avenged the Whitelaw defeat with a five round knockout and also stopped Holland in 1915 in 13 rounds when Les had reached top form as a fighter.

Among his American victims were Frank Loughrey, Eddie McGoorty (who was halted twice in 15 and then in 8 rounds), Jimmy Clabby, whom he twice licked in 20 rounds, George Chip, who was knocked out in 9 rounds, and Buck Crouse, who was halted in two.

In 1917, when World War I was on, Darcy unfortunately left his country to come to America and when he arrived in the United States he was hounded, prevented from boxing and wound up in Memphis, Tenn. Gov. Whitman of New York charged that he was a slacker and that charge and the general attitude of Americans broke his heart. He became ill and died in a Memphis hospital, but not before he had joined the Tennessee National Guard in appreciation for the courtesy extended to him by the Governor of that state.

While in the hospital, his regiment was Federalized by the United States War Department. Hence, when he passed away on May 24, 1917, he was an American soldier.

In 1957 he was elected to the Boxing Hall of Fame.

JACK DELANEY
(Ovila Chapdelaine)

Jack Delaney was born Ovila Chapdelaine on March 18, 1900 at St. Francis, Canada. He weighed 175 pounds and was 5 ft., 11½ inches tall. He was managed by Al Jennings and Pete Reilly.

Delaney started his professional career in 1919 and retired in 1932. On December 11, 1925, he challenged Paul Berlenbach for the light heavyweight crown, losing a fifteen round decision at New York City.

He won the title from Berlenbach on July 16, 1926 in fifteen rounds, in Brooklyn, N. Y., but never defended it, preferring to campaign as a heavyweight.

Among others whom he fought were Jimmy Slattery, Tiger Flowers, Tommy Loughran, Johnny Risko, Mike McTigue, Maxie Rosenbloom, Jimmy Maloney, Paulino Uzcudun, Tom Heeney and Jack Sharkey.

Delaney died on November 27, 1948 at Katonah, New York.

JACK DEMPSEY
(William Harrison Dempsey)

Known as the "Manassa Mauler." Born, June 24, 1895, Manassa, Colo. He won the title from Jess Willard, July 4, 1919, at Toledo, Ohio, when he provided the fireworks for the celebration by knocking out Willard in 3 rounds.

On September 23, 1926 he lost heavyweight crown to Gene Tunney at Philadelphia in a rainstorm. He failed to regain the title from Tunney in 10 rounds the following year at Chicago, precipitating the famous "Long Count" controversy.

He became a referee and proprietor of the Jack Dempsey Restaurant in New York City.

Elected to "Boxing Hall of Fame" in 1954. For complete story of his life see Nat Fleischer's book, "Jack Dempsey, the Idol of Fistiana."

JACK DILLON
(Ernest Cutler Price)

Jack Dillon was born Ernest Cutler Price on February 2, 1891 at Frankfort, Indiana. His nationality was Scotch-Irish-American. He scaled 158 pounds and was 5 ft., 7½ inches tall. He was managed by Sam Marburger and Steve Harter.

Known as "The Giant Killer," Dillon, who started his career in 1908, claimed the vacant light heavyweight title when he defeated Al Norton on April 28, 1914 at Kansas City, Mo. He lost the crown to Battling Levinsky on October 24, 1916 on a twelve round decision at Boston, Mass.

Among others he fought were George Chip, Frank Klaus, Leo Houck, Jack (Twin) Sullivan, Jim Flynn, Charley Weinert, Billy Miske, Gunboat Smith, Mike Gibbons, Harry Greb and Al McCoy.

Dillon died on August 7, 1942 at Chattahoochee, Florida.

GEORGE DIXON

George Dixon was born in Halifax, Nova Scotia, July 29, 1870. Height, 5 feet, 3½ inches. Weight, when he started his career, 87 pounds. Weight, at height of his career, 122 pounds. One of the greatest fighters of all time. Held paperweight and then the bantamweight championship of world. Later abdicated the latter crown and won featherweight title. Managed by Tom O'Rourke.

Fought over a stretch of 20 years. Started professional career in 1886 and wound up in 1906.

Began his career by stopping Young Johnson in Halifax in third round, November 1, 1886. First appearance in Boston, on September 21, 1887 against Elias Hamilton.

Was called Little Chocolate. A marvel in cleverness and a hard hitter.

Won bantamweight title in 1890, when he stopped Nunc Wallace in London in eighteen rounds.

On July 28, 1891, knocked out Abe Willis, Australian feather king in five rounds, then retired from bantam class and entered featherweight division. On September 6, 1892, knocked out Jack Skelly at New Orleans in eight rounds, to gain recognition as featherweight champion. He lost to Frank Erne in 20 rounds on November 27, 1896 at 122 pounds, but defeated Erne in return engagement on April 7, 1897 in 25 rounds. Lost title when stopped by Terry McGovern in 8 rounds January 9, 1900.

Fought last bout, December 10, 1906. Died in New York January 6, 1909.

Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame in 1956.

JIM DRISCOLL

Born, December 15, 1881 at Cardiff, So. Wales. Height 5 feet 6 inches. Weight 126 pounds. Managed by Jimmy Johnston.

He started his career in 1901 and quit in 1919 after being stopped in 16 rounds by Charles Ledoux in London.

It was on November 13, 1908 that Driscoll made his American debut at the Fairmont A.C. of New York City. Matty Baldwin was his opponent, and although Matty was a terrific hitter, the bout went the limit with Driscoll giving the New Englander a boxing lesson from start to finish.

It was on February 19, 1909 that he met the great Abe Attell, featherweight extraordinary. That bout, following contests with Leach Cross, Johnny Marto and Tommy Langdon, all heavy hitting lightweights, found Driscoll the victor by a wide margin.

Driscoll was a revelation in America. He fought such stars as Leach Cross, Grover Hayes, Johnny Marto, Matty Baldwin, Charlie Griffin and Attell. He drew in 20 rounds with Owen Moran in London on January 27, 1913, in a British Empire featherweight title bout.

He served during the War, from 1914 through 1918. He died on January 31, 1925 at Cardiff, Wales, from pneumonia.

Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame in 1956.

JOHNNY DUNDEE
(Joseph Carrora)

Johnny Dundee, dubbed the "Scotch Wop", was one of the greatest featherweights of all time. He fought every boxer of note both in his own division and in the lightweight class and stood out among the top ranking pugilists. He was a main event fighter for almost twenty-two years.

His real name is Joseph Carrora. He was born on November 22, 1893 in Shaikai, Italy and came to America at an early age. He started boxing in 1910 and won his first fourteen bouts, all in New York. Among the stars whom he fought were Benny Leonard, Willie Jackson, Freddy Welsh, Joe Mandot, Rocky Kansas, Lew Tendler, Ever Hammer, Joe Rivers and Leach Cross.

He was fast and a sharp hitter. He was a wizard in fighting off the ropes. He never tired. He possessed great stamina and a fighting heart. His bouts with Sammy Mandell, Tony Canzoneri, Tod Morgan, Kid Sullivan, Eddie Cannonball Martin and Sid Terris were all top events.

On January 15, 1917 he suffered his greatest fistic shock when he was knocked out by Willie Jackson in Philadelphia in one round. He didn't quit the ring until 1932. After his retirement he went into business in East Orange, New Jersey.

In 1957 he was elected to the Boxing Hall of Fame.

Gans died on August 10, 1910 at Baltimore, Maryland from tuberculosis.

Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame in 1954.

FRANKIE GENARO

He was born in New York on August 26, 1901. As a boy he had ambitions to become a jockey and for a time served as a stable boy. He liked boxing and at the age of eighteen entered a tournament at the Crescent A.C. for his first contest. He won the N. Y. and National flyweight titles during the first few months of his fighting career. Then entered the bantam class and gained considerable success.

He was a member of the Olympic team that carried off the honors in the Antwerp Games. Other members of that great team were Sam Mossberg and Eddie Eagan, later New York Boxing Commissioner.

As a pro had 17 contests before losing his first fight. He defeated Pancho Villa in a flyweight contest in Madison Square Garden in 15 rounds. The bout was billed for the American title.

In July, 1925, when Pancho Villa, the world title holder died, Genaro laid claim to that title and won eight bouts in a row to receive recognition. Then he went to Los Angeles where he fought Fidel La Barba and La Barba relieved him of the crown.

MIKE GIBBONS
("The St. Paul Phantom" "The Wizard")

Mike Gibbons was born on July 20, 1887 in St. Paul, Minn. His weight was 147 pounds and height 5 ft., 9 inches.

Gibbons began his ring career in 1908 and with the exception of 1920 during which he had no fights and in 1918, when he fought only once because he was in the armed forces as an instructor of boxing, he was active until the middle of 1922. He fought the cream of the welters and middleweights and for a time rated the top man of his division. He laid claim to the world welterweight title in 1910 after Stanley Ketchel had been killed.

More than half of Mike's bouts were no decision contests but the majority were classy affairs due to his extreme cleverness. He had a pretty left hook which, when unhooked, could drop an opponent. Among the ringmen whom he faced were Jimmy Clabby, Packey McFarland, Harry Greb, George Chip, Ted Kid Lewis, Bill McKinnon, Marty Rowan, Willie Lewis, Paddy Lavin, Mike Donovan, Tommy Maloney, Eddie McGoorty, Frank Mantell and Jack McCarron—all top ranking fighters.

Mike Gibbons is listed among the names in ring history that are synonomous with greatness. He was called the "St. Paul Phantom" and the "Wizard" because of his speed and the beauty of his technique. When he was at the height of his glory, the middleweight and welterweight divisions, in which he competed, were loaded with stars. He was the nearest approach to the superb artistry of Tommy Ryan that the middleweight division boasted. From 1911 to the outbreak of World War I, he was the trump card for American promoters.

After his retirement in 1922 he became a teacher of boxing, then was appointed a member of the Minnesota Boxing Commission. Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame, 1958.

Gibbons died on August 31, 1956, at St. Paul, Minnesota.

TOM GIBBONS

Tom Gibbons was born on March 22, 1891, in St. Paul, Minn. He is the brother of Mike, one of the cleverest middleweights, a boxer of considerable skill after whom Tom patterned his fighting career. He started as a middleweight and wound up his career as a heavyweight. His greatest feat was to last fifteen rounds in a world heavyweight title bout with Jack Dempsey, a contest that took place at Shelby, Montana, and broke the town due to the heavy guarantee paid to Dempsey.

Until 1921, Tom had registered only eight knockouts, but with that year, he started on a rampage and in two years registered twenty-five additional kayos. In his bout with Dempsey he wasn't given a chance, yet he forced Jack to travel the entire route to gain the verdict. The biggest setback of his career came when he lost a fifteen round decision to Harry Greb in Madison Square Garden on March 13, 1922.

Gibbons, like his brother, was scientific but lacked a heavy punch as a middleweight, but gained punching power when he advanced into the next higher division. Some of the better fighters he fought were Billy Miske, Bob Roper, Bill Brennan, Battling Levinsky, Greb, George Chip, Georges Carpentier, Gene Tunney, Kid Norfolk and Willie Meehan. He attended college in St. Paul where, after his retirement, he became sheriff and an active participant in many charities. Retired as sheriff after 24 years, in 1959. He died on November 19, 1960 at the age of 69 in St. Paul, Minn.

HARRY GREB

"The Pittsburgh Windmill"

He was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., June 7, 1894, of Irish-German parents.

Greb started his boxing career as a middleweight and fought in the top two divisions, also. He held the world middleweight and American light heavyweight crowns. He won the former from Johnny Wilson and the latter from Gene Tunney. Managed by George Engel.

He engaged in many thrilling encounters. His most vicious was with Mickey Walker which he won in 15 rounds. When he fought Gunboat Smith, a heavyweight, he was only a middleweight yet stopped the Gunner in one round. He fought Tunney five times, Gene winning twice, losing once and the other two were no decision contests.

He was an indefatigable worker, a windmill in action. He feared no one. He tried hard to get Jack Dempsey to meet him but without success.

He died from an eye operation on October 22, 1926. Was elected to the Boxing Hall of Fame in 1955.

YOUNG GRIFFO

He was born Alfred Albert at Miller's Point, Sydney, New South Wales, Australia, in 1871. As a pugilist, he fought both in the bare knuckle contests and in glove bouts and was recognized as one of the world's cleverest boxers.

He passed his boyhood around the Australian docks and eventually drifted into the prize ring. He engaged in his first pro battle at the age of seventeen and from the beginning of his career he exhibited the cleverness that gained for him a place among ring immortals.

In Australia he fought for five years, beating such stars as Abe Willis, Billy Murphy and Mick Ryan, before embarking for the United States. In 1892, with several other Australian top fighters, he got aboard a ship headed for America but just before the boat sailed, he became homesick and jumped overboard and swam back to shore. The following year, however, he made the journey, never again to return to his native land.

His first American appearance was against Young Scotty, a Negro lad whom he beat in six rounds in Chicago. Thereafter he faced many American opponents in cities throughout the East. Included among the stars whom he faced were Johnny Van Heest, Johnny Griffin, Owen Ziegler, George Kid Lavigne, Joe Gans, George Dixon, Ike Weir, Solly Smith, Jimmy Dime, Kentucky Rosebud, Jack McAuliffe, Walter Campbell and Jack Everhardt.

He was a heavy drinker and were it not for that he might have won a world crown. One of his best battles was with McAuliffe who could scarcely lay a glove on him, yet was given the verdict by his friend Referee Maxie Moore. That contest took place at Coney Island, N. Y., on August 27, 1894. McAuliffe was lightweight champion at the time.

Stories about Griffo's escapades could fill a book. His wonderful cleverness and his drinking sprees gained for him considerable attention. After retirement he lived in New York where he was a familiar figure in Times Square. He died on December 7, 1927 and was buried in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Griffo was elected to Boxing Hall of Fame in 1954.

PETE HERMAN

Born in New Orleans, Feb. 12, 1896. Italian-American. He was managed by Sam Goldman. Weighed 112 to 116 pounds and was 5 feet 2 inches in height.

He started his boxing career in 1912. He won the world bantamweight title from Kid Williams in a 20 round bout at New Orleans on January 9, 1917 and lost it to Joe Lynch on December 22, 1920 in Madison Square Garden.

On July 25, the following year, Herman regained the crown when he defeated Lynch in Brooklyn in 15 rounds.

Two months later, on September 23, he dropped the title to Johnny Buff in the Garden in 15 rounds.

Herman fought for the last time on April 24, 1922 when he whipped Roy Moore in a ten rounder in Boston. He became blind and retired. He is the owner of a night club in New Orleans and was appointed to the State Boxing Commission.

Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame, 1959.

JAMES JACKSON JEFFRIES

Known as the Boilermaker and the California Grizzly. Born April 15, 1875 at Carroll, Ohio. Started fighting in 1896. Won the heavyweight title from Bob Fitzsimmons on June 9, 1899 by a knockout in the eleventh round. This was only his thirteenth professional fight.

Retired undefeated in 1904 but made a comeback when urged to do so and was knocked out by Jack Johnson at Reno, Nevada, July 4, 1910, in the fifteenth round. Managed by William A. Brady.

His greatest fight was with Tom Sharkey at Coney Island, a 25 round victory fought on November 3, 1899. Another great battle was that with Corbett at Coney Island, May 11, 1900, in which he stopped Corbett in the twenty-third round.

Jeffries after his retirement, lived on his farm at Burbank, Calif., where for a time he promoted amateur fights. He died there after a long illness on March 3, 1953.

Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame in 1954.

JACK JOHNSON

Born, March 31, 1878, Galveston, Texas. Height, 6 feet, 1¼ inch. Weight, 195-220 pounds. Managed by Sam Fitzpatrick.

Son of a school house janitor. Worked as father's helper, then in cotton fields and on wharf, before leaving home to roam the country.

Became a stable boy at race track. Travelled North and in Boston, took a fancy to Joe Walcott and helped him train. Started his fistic career in 1897 and didn't quit for upwards of twenty years.

Fought the greatest men of his time. Known as "Lil Artha." Engaged in many return battles with Hank Griffin, Frank Childs, Sam McVey, Joe Jeannette and Sandy Ferguson, among other stars. Began climb toward top in 1906 and when Tommy Burns beat Marvin Hart, to gain the title which Jim Jeffries abdicated, Johnson challenged him and followed Tommy to Australia where they clashed on December 26, 1908 and Johnson won the world heavyweight crown, stopping Burns in the fourteenth round.

Johnson knocked out Stanley Ketchel the following year after Ketchel put Johnson down. Then in 1910 Jack battered Jim Jeffries into submission in Jeffries' comeback attempt. The bout was halted in fifteenth round at Reno, Nevada. Tex Rickard was the referee.

In 1912, stopped Jim Flynn in nine rounds, then went to England and Paris and remained abroad for several years. Accepted challenge from Jess Willard and was stopped in 26th round at Havana to lose title.

Last bout was in 1928. Fought in 112 contests, losing only seven.

Was one of pugilism's greatest. Exceptionally clever and best feinter in game. Had a wonderful left jab.

Died in auto accident at Raleigh, N. C., June 10, 1946.

Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame in 1954.

PETER KANE

A native of Golborne, Lancaster, England, where he was born February 28, 1918, Kane authored two noteworthy chapters in boxing history. Not only did he become world flyweight champion, but after his ring career was apparently finished by eye trouble, he staged a remarkable comeback that netted him the European bantamweight title. An exceptionally hard puncher for a little fellow, Kane began his ring activities in 1934 and ran off a string of 41 straight victories, no less than 33 by knockouts, before suffering his first defeat. That was when Benny Lynch stopped him in the 13th round of a bout for the world flyweight championship in Glasgow in 1937.

Early in 1938 Kane held Lynch to a draw in a 15-round non-title match in Liverpool, and when Benny retired later that year, Kane became an outstanding claimant to the title. He and the American contender, Jackie Jurich, met in Liverpool for the vacant laurels, and Kane won the decision in 15 rounds. Peter reigned until 1943 when Jackie Paterson relieved him of the title by a sensational one-round knockout in Glasgow.

After serving his country through World War II, Kane had an operation performed on his eye for a detached retina and launched a ring comeback in 1946. It culminated in his winning the European 118-pound championship the following year when he beat the Frenchman, Theo Medina, in fifteen rounds in Manchester. After a couple of successful defenses, Kane lost his laurels in 1948 to the Italian, Guido Ferracin, in Manchester, and a few months later, after losing a second time to Ferracin, Kane announced his retirement. During his busy career, Kane accounted for a toal of 85 victories (51 by knockouts) against only two draws, seven defeats and one "no contest" in 95 starts.

LOUIS KID KAPLAN

Louis Kid Kaplan, who won the world featherweight championship by stopping Danny Kramer of Boston on January 2, 1925 in the final of an elimination to decide the successor to retired Johnny Dundee, was born in Russia in 1902. He came to America when five years old. His parents took him to Meriden, Conn., where his dad went into the junk business and it was from that city that Louis went down to New York to gain top honors in his division. The bout took place in Madison Square Garden and his victory was extremely popular.

He was a boy of nineteen when he fought his first contest. It was at the Lenox A.C. of Meriden and he was returned the victor. Even in his early fighting days he engaged the cream of his division. In his first year as a pro he fought Freddy Jacks, Billy Defoe, Al Shubert, Dutch Brandt, Hughey Hutchinson, Earl Baird, Eddie Kid Wagner and Johnny Shugrue, each a talented opponent.

Two contests in 1925, each with Babe Herman of California, were among his most thrilling. In the first, fought at Waterbury, the result was a draw and their second, fought in Madison Square Garden, resulted in a victory for Kaplan in fifteen rounds. The bouts were world championship affairs.

Among the classy contests in which he engaged were bouts with Billy Petrolle, Jackie Fields, Jimmy McLarnin, who stopped him in eight rounds, Mike Dundee, Johnny Jadick, Joe Glick, Eddie Kid Wolfe, Andy Callahan, Gene Delmont, Andy Chaney, Kid Sullivan, Pal Moran, Jimmy Goodrich and Sammy Mandell.

He gave up the featherweight title in 1927 and continued to fight as a lightweight until 1933. He had an outstanding record among the featherweights.

STANLEY KETCHEL

Known as the Michigan Assassin. A terrific hitter. Often called the greatest of all middleweights. Stanley Ketchel was christened Stanislaus Kiecal. He was born at Grand Rapids, Michigan, on September 14, 1887. He was of Polish descent, powerful in physique and a courageous battler.

First began fighting in his sixteenth year. First major battle came on February 12, 1906, at Butte, Montana when he held Jack Sullivan to a draw in twenty rounds. Then his big chance came on July 4, 1907, on which day he met Joe Thomas. The latter at this time was generally considered the best of the middleweights. The bout went twenty rounds to a draw.

Their second fight took place at San Francisco, September 2, 1907, and this time Ketchel scored a knockout in the thirty-second round. Their third engagement took place at San Francisco on December 12, 1907, and Ketchel gained the verdict at the end of twenty rounds.

Regained the middleweight title after he had lost it to Billy Papke by a knockout. Stopped Papke just one round sooner than Papke stopped him. Fought Jack Johnson, then heavyweight champion of the world when Johnson scaled 205½ pounds and Ketchel only 170¼. He was knocked out by his heavier opponent in the twelfth round after he had dropped Jack in that same round.

Ketchel scored 46 knockouts, fourteen of which came in succession. Was shot to death by Walter Dipley at Conway, Mo., October 15, 1910.

Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame in 1954.

JOHNNY KILBANE

The featherweight class for many years boasted of some of the cleverest of all fighters, among whom were such stars as Billy Murphy, Johnny Griffin, George Dixon, Frank Erne and Abe Attell. When Attell was in his prime, the field of featherweights was composed of an unusual crop of heavy hitters, yet it remained for another clever boy, one almost the equal of Attell, to dethrone him in a twenty-round bout, at Los Angeles.

That boxer was Johnny Kilbane, who held the crown for eleven years. He won the championship on February 22, 1912, and lost it to Eugene Criqui of France at the Polo Grounds of New York City on June 2, 1923. Criqui stopped Kilbane in the sixth round.

Kilbane was born in Cleveland on April 18, 1889 and began his pro career in 1907. He came from Irish stock. Managed by Jimmy Dunn.

Died, May 31, 1957, Cleveland, Ohio. Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame in 1960.

FRANK KLAUS

Frank Klaus was born on December 30, 1887, in Pittsburgh, of German-American parentage. Height, 5 feet 7½ inches. Weight, 160 pounds. Managed by George Engel.

He began his career in 1904 and ended in 1920.

The fight that brought Klaus most fame was that at Dieppe, France, June 24, 1912. with Carpentier. The Frenchman was so badly whipped that his manager, Francois Descamps, to save him from a knockout, leaped into the ring in the nineteenth round and claimed a foul. Klaus won that fight and with it the prestige that went with a victory over such a star.

He died on February 8, 1948, at Pittsburgh, Pa.

FIDEL LA BARBA

He was born September 29, 1905 in New York City of Italian descent, but went to California at an early age and made that his home. Managed by George Blake. He won many amateur titles and finished up his amateur career as an Olympic champion. He retired undefeated as flyweight champion in 1927 to enter Stanford University.

As a pro he held Jimmy McLarnin to a draw. He had a good left hook. He turned in his greatest fight against Kid Chocolate in a featherweight championship contest on December 9, 1932 in Madison Square Garden. Employed a left hook and weave style.

He wrested the flyweight title from Frankie Genaro on August 22, 1925 and defended it successfully against Elky Clarke of England in 12 rounds on January 21, 1927. Turned to journalism after retirement and graduation from Stanford.

SAM LANGFORD
(The Boston Tar Baby)

Born February 12, 1880, Weymouth, Nova Scotia. Height, 5 feet 7½ inches. Weight, 126-180 pounds. Powerfully built. Reach, 73 inches. He had a waist of 32 and a chest of 44.

He started his career as a featherweight in 1902 and the following year defeated Joe Gans and drew with Jack Blackburn. In 1904 he drew with Joe Walcott, and in 1906 at Chelsea, Mass., he lost a thrilling bout in fifteen rounds to Jack Johnson. Jack refused to fight Langford again.

In 1908 he started cleaning up the White Hopes, defeating Sandy Ferguson in 12 rounds; halting Jim Barry, Jim Flynn and Tony Ross and fought a six-round, no decision bout with Stanley Ketchel in 1910.

Langford fought Joe Jeannette, Harry Wills and Sam McVey often. He and Wills fought 22 times. He retired in 1924.

His record shows a total of 251 professional fights of which he won 36 by decisions, scored 99 knockouts, drew in 31, lost 20 decisions, and was knocked out by four opponents, engaged in two no contests and 58 no decision bouts, and won one on a foul.

Cataracts on his eyes brought blindness. He was an extraordinary fighter with a most remarkable record, although he never held a title.

Langford lived in Boston, Mass., where friends staged a benefit to gather funds for his needs.

Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame in 1955.

He died on January 12, 1956, at Cambridge, Mass.

GEORGE (KID) LAVIGNE

When one speaks of travelling pugilists, he must include one of the greatest lightweights of all time, George (Kid) Lavigne, who fought in many parts of our country and between bouts enjoyed trips to England and France. After retirement he opened a school for boxing in Paris where he taught novices the rudiments of an art he knew so well and practiced with efficiency in the United States.

Like Young Griffo and other great ring men who couldn't stand prosperity and success, Lavigne, dubbed the Saginaw Kid, was a living example of the fact that no fighter could enjoy wine and women and ply his trade with success. For years he carried on in the best fashion of his profession. Then he reached the top rung of the ladder and won the world lightweight championship and invited his downfall by ceasing to care for himself physically.

For years he fought without knowing the bitterness of defeat. He thought himself invincible. With the exception of a few draw bouts, several of which were halted by the police, he didn't lose a contest from 1885 when he started his career until 1899 when he dropped his first bout to Mysterious Billy Smith and followed another loss to Frank Erne, the bout in which the lightweight crown changed hands. A knockout at the hands of George (Elbows) McFadden in 19 rounds, followed, all in the same year.

He won the vacant lightweight title from Dick Burge in London, stopping the Britisher in the seventeenth round on June 1, 1896.

Lavigne was born in Bay City, Michigan, of French-American parentage, on December 6, 1869. Sam Fitzpatrick, who later managed Jack Johnson, handled the Saginaw Kid's affairs. He died in Detroit, Mich., April 6, 1936.

On December 14, 1894, Lavigne knocked out Andy Bowen in New Orleans in the eighteenth round and Bowen died from a brain concussion.

Among the Saginaw Kid's greatest contests were those with Jack Everhardt for the title, which he won by a kayo in 24 rounds; Kid McPartland for the crown, winning in 25 rounds; and his famous battle with Joe Walcott in San Francisco which he won in the twelfth round. That championship bout ended with both battlers battered badly.

Exhibitions with Battling Nelson, Joe Gans and Ad Wolgast ended his fighting career. He died in Detroit on April 6, 1936.

Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame, 1959.

BENNY LEONARD
(Benjamin Leiner)
("The Ghetto Wizard")

Benny Leonard (Benjamin Leiner) was born in New York City on April 7, 1896. He received his schooling in New York public schools and high school. He started boxing when a kid. He learned his fisticuffs in street battles.

Leonard made his debut as a professional when fifteen at the Fairmont A. C. under Billy Gibson, later his manager and manager of Gene Tunney. Benny took the name of Leonard after announcer, unable to pronounce Leinert, called him by the name.

He fought the greatest lightweights and welterweights of his period and was recognized as one of the greatest scientific fighters and most talkative boxer of modern times. He often has been ranked with Joe Gans and Young Griffo as most scientific. He could jab and feint his way out of trouble, and if that wouldn't suffice, he would talk his way out of a jam.

Leonard was knocked out on four occasions during his entire career of twenty-two years. When he first started, he was kayoed by Mickey Finnegan in two rounds. Later he was stopped by Frankie Fleming and Joe Shugrue as a lightweight and by Jimmy McLarnin when Benny was trying a comeback as a welterweight.

Leonard scored many knockouts. He was a master on offense as well as defense. With Jack Johnson, he was recognized as one of the greatest feinters in ring history.

He fought two ten round no decision bouts with Freddie Welsh, the lightweight king before stopping the champion in the ninth round in New York to win the world crown. He held the championship until 1925 when he retired undefeated.

He made an unsuccessful comeback in 1931. His last fight was in 1932 when he was knocked out by Jimmy McLarnin.

Leonard was one of the leading New York ring officials. He collapsed and died at the St. Nicholas Arena ring, April 18, 1947, while refereeing a bout.

He served in two World Wars. Leonard held the lightweight crown 7 years. He was one of two lightweight champions to retire undefeated. The complete story of his life appears in "Leonard the Magnificent" by Nat Fleischer.

He was elected to the Boxing Hall of Fame in 1955.

BATTLING LEVINSKY

Battling Levinsky was born Barney Lebrowitz on June 10, 1891, at Philadelphia, Pa. Nationality, Jewish-American. Weight, 175. Height, 5 feet, 11 inches. Managed by Jack Hanlon and Dan Morgan.

Levinsky started fighting in 1906, using the name of Barney Williams, which he kept until 1913. He retired in 1929.

He challenged Jack Dillon for the light heavyweight title on April 25, 1916, losing a fifteen round decision at Kansas City, Mo., but defeated Dillon for the title the same year, on October 24, at Boston, Mass., in 12 rounds.

Levinsky lost the crown to Georges Carpentier on a four round knockout on October 12, 1920, at Jersey City, N. J.

On January 13, 1922, he challenged Gene Tunney for the vacant American light heavyweight title at New York City, N. Y., losing at the end of 12 rounds.

Levinsky died on February 12, 1949, at Philadelphia, Pa.

HARRY LEWIS

Harry Lewis, who once claimed the world welterweight championship after he had knocked out Honey Mellody and Frank Mantell, was one of the best of his class in general all-around ability. He was a sensation in Paris where they give him credit for having popularized the sport. He fought many battles in Paris, London, Liverpool and other parts of England and in most of those contests he emerged the victor via the knockout route.

Harry Lewis was born in New York City on September 16, 1886 but moved to Philadelphia at an early age and remained in Pennsylvania, making that state his abode. He was christened Henry Besterman and like many other internationally famous pugilists of his time, he was managed by world-traveller Al Lippe.

Lewis embarked on his fistic career at the old Southern A.C. in 1904 and skyrocketed to prominence in bouts with Joe Gans, Young Erne Eddie Hanlon, Jim Bonner, Kid Goodman, Mike (Twin) Sullivan, Frank Mantell, Unk Russell, Jack Blackburn, Jimmy Gardner, Willie Lewis, Frank Klaus and Willie Fitzgerald, among other stars. His knockout victims included Dixie Kid, Johnny Summers, Mantell and Billy Glover.

Lewis laid claim to the welter title in 1908. On December 13, 1911, he lost a decision in 20 rounds to Georges Carpentier in Paris. He also lost a 20 round bout in Paris to Leo Houck seven months before the Carpentier affair.

In 1906 there was a tragedy in the career of Lewis. He had fought Mike Ward on November 15 and knocked Ward out in the ninth round. The day after the fight Ward died from a brain concussion.

In 1913, following a blow on the jaw in the fifth round of his contest with Joe Borrell in Philadelphia, his last fight, Lewis collapsed from a blood clot and almost died. For many years thereafter he was stricken with partial paralysis. He died in Philadelphia on Washington's birthday, 1956, in the Episcopal Hospital and was buried in Roosevelt Cemetery, Bucks County, Pa. He was 69 years old.

TED KID LEWIS
(Gershon Mendeloff)

Ted Kid Lewis was born in London, England, on October 24, 1894.

Twice holder of the world's welterweight championship, former winner of the Lord Lonsdale belt in the welterweight and middleweight divisions in England, Ted Kid Lewis holds a unique record in boxing history.

In this country, Lewis' best work in the ring was accomplished as a welterweight. He engaged in 20 bouts with Jack Britton between 1915 and 1921. Lewis won three bouts; Britton won four; there was one draw and twelve were no-decision bouts.

He started boxing in 1910 and quit in 1929. He began as a bantamweight and wound up boxing light heavies and heavyweights. Was managed by Jimmy Johnston in the United States.

After the world war, Lewis went back to England, where he engaged in a number of contests. Later he went to Vienna, where he acted as tutor of boxing.

From the time he began his ring career in 1910 until he retired, he engaged in more than 400 battles.

WILLIE LEWIS

Willie Lewis, one of the most brilliant welterweights ever developed in New York, was born on May 21, 1884. He started his fistic career in New York City in 1900. He fought both as a welterweight and as a middleweight and was equally good in both divisions.

He engaged the top men in each class and rolled up an enviable record despite the fact that a number of knockouts are registered against him, among them defeats by Sam Langford, Mike Gibbons, Joe Tipman, Honey Mellody, Stanley Ketchel, Frank Klaus and Al McCoy. In a return bout in Paris, he stopped Mellody in four rounds.

Willie was both a powerful hitter and clever boxer. On May 22, 1912, Lewis lost the decision to Georges Carpentier in 20 rounds in Paris. He and Harry Lewis fought two sensational 20 round draws in Paris, one on February 19, 1910 and the other on April 23 of the same year.

Lewis never was a champion but he fought those who were tops in two divisions both in our country and abroad. He, like his namesake, Harry Lewis, were pioneers of boxing in Europe and did much to plant the seed in France that produced such stars as Carpentier, Marcel Moreau, Eugene Criqui, among many others, to keep French boxing in the spotlight.

Willie was Irish and a product of the Gashouse District of New York, a tough neighborhood. He began boxing as a featherweight when he was only fifteen years old. He fought Joe Gans a non-decision bout of six rounds in the old Madison Square Garden in 1906, a contest which was credited to him as a victory by the scribes.

Willie could box and punch and was game. Often as a middleweight he gave away twenty or more pounds to fight men in the light heavyweight and heavyweight divisions.

After retiring, Willie became a bartender. He died in New York City, May 17, 1949, in the Polyclinic Hospital after a long illness.

TOMMY LOUGHRAN

Tommy Loughran was born on November 29, 1902, at Philadelphia, Pa. Nationality, Irish-American. Weight, 175. Height, 5 feet 11 inches. Managed by Joe Smith.

Loughran started his professional career in 1919 and campaigned steadily until his retirement in 1937. After Jack Delaney relinquished the title, Loughran and Mike McTigue met for the vacant crown on October 7, 1927, at New York City with Loughran taking a fifteen round decision. He successfully defended the title against Jimmy Slattery, Leo Lomski, Pete Latzo (twice), Mickey Walker and Jimmy Braddock before giving up to campaign as a heavyweight.

On March 1, 1934, he met Primo Carnera for the heavyweight title at Miami, Fla., losing a fifteen round decision. He was outweighed by 86 pounds, the weight being 270 to 184, a record for a title bout.

Loughran was one of the cleverest boxers in modern ring history.

In 1942 Loughran enlisted in the United States Marine Corp. Now engaged as a sugar broker.

Ring Fighter of Year, 1929 and 1931.

Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame in 1956.

BENNY LYNCH

Benny Lynch was Scotland's first world champion. He held the flyweight title. He was born on April 2, 1913, in Glasgow, and died on August 6, 1946. He outpointed Small Montana of the Philippines at Wembley, London, to gain universal recognition as champion.

Benny boxed under his real name. He was born in the heart of the thickly populated industrial section of the Clydesdale city famed for its ships and engineers. At the age of eight he won his first honors, the four stone championship in amateur competition. After 37 bouts as an amateur he turned pro. He won all but two of his amateur contests.

He won the Scottish championship when he beat Jimmy Campbell of Glasgow in 15 rounds at the Olympic Stadium of that city. Then he whipped the Italian champion, Carlo Cavagnoli; Maurice Hugenin of France; Valentin Angelmann, the French title holder; Pedrito Ruiz, Spanish champ and Tut Whalley of England to rise to the top of his division as a challenger for the crown.

In 1935 he drew with Jackie Brown of Manchester, the champion, in an overweight match and on September 8 of that year, in a return engagement, he relieved Brown of his crown, flooring the king ten times.

Had Lynch guarded his health, he would have lasted long. He was the conqueror of every champion in every country and was a worthy title holder, but his love for liquor eventually felled him.

JOE LYNCH

Born in New York City, November 30, 1898. Weight, 118 pounds. Height, 5 feet, 8 inches. Managed by Eddie Mead.

He began his career in 1916, and was one of the outstanding boys in the bantam division throughout his career. He won the crown from Pete Herman in 1920, in Madison Square Garden in a fast fifteen round bout but lost it to Herman in a return engagement on July 25, 1921, in Brooklyn. Herman two months later lost the championship to Johnny Buff. Lynch in turn, on July 10, 1922, stopped Buff in 14 rounds to regain the crown.

Lynch had an excellent right hand, one of the best in the business and he used it effectively against his opponents. When hurt, he did his best fighting. He would tear in and carry the battle to his rival. At long range he used a "one-two" blow, a left jab followed by a hard right.

After his retirement he bought a farm and a gymnasium at New City, N. M., and later was appointed postmaster of that city.

KID McCOY
"The Corkscrew Kid"

Christened Norman Selby, McCoy was born on October 13, 1873, at Rush County, Ind. He was a natural middleweight but fought men in the heavyweight and light heavy division.

He was 5 feet, 11 and scaled 160 pounds. He started his career in 1891, and retired in 1916, after a tour of Europe.

At one time he claimed the light heavy crown. He was the original globe trotter. He introduced boxing into many parts of Africa and Europe.

He knocked out Tommy Ryan at Maspeth, L. I., in 15 rounds to win the welterweight title on March 2, 1896, after which he went into the higher divisions because of weight increase. He then fought Jack Root for the light heavyweight crown on April 22, 1903, at Detroit, but was outpointed.

He committed suicide in Detroit, Mich., April 18, 1940.

In 1957 he was elected to the Boxing Hall of Fame.

PACKEY McFARLAND
(The Stockyards Lightweight)

Patrick F. McFarland was born on November 1, 1888, in Chicago, back of the Stockyards. Though he was brought up in that tough district, he was far from being a toughie. He was a quiet fellow outside the ring, and had a good business head. McFarland stood 5 feet, 8 inches in height and scaled between 137 and 140 pounds. He seldom fought within the lightweight limit. He had a hard time making the weight and refused to do so.

Packey started his ring career in 1904 at the age of fifteen. That year he lost to Dusty Miller, the only fight that ever went against him. Only two fighters were able to floor him, Ray Bronson and Cyclone Jimmy Thompson, and he said that only Kid Burns ever gave him a shiner.

McFarland was without question one of the greatest lightweights of all time though he never held the crown because he couldn't make the then required weight of 133 pounds. He knocked out Jimmy Britt, drew in 20 and 25 rounds with Freddy Welsh and beat him in ten. He gave Jack Britton a boxing lesson, though Jack was one of the cleverest welters of his time, and fought thrilling bouts with Leach Cross, One Round Hogan, Matt Wells, Tommy Murphy, Dick Hyland, Dave Deshler and Owen Moran.

He died September 23, 1936, after an illness of two months from a heart attack. Elected to the Boxing Hall of Fame in 1957.

EDDIE McGOORTY

Eddie McGoorty was one of the best known middleweights during a period in boxing history when that class was loaded with top talent. He was among the many middleweights who, following the death of Stanley Ketchel in 1910, laid claim to the world crown. But other than in Australia where he was extremely popular, he was not recognized as a champion in any other part of the world.

McGoorty, whose correct name was Eddie Van Dusart, was born on July 31, 1889, in Eureka, Wisconsin, where he started his boxing career as an amateur. He won the Wisconsin State 130-pound crown when only 15 years old, defeating three opponents in one evening to gain the laurels. He started his professional career in 1905 and had his last contest against Bud Gorman at Oshkosh, Wis., a ten rounder, on March 9, 1922.

He rose to the heights in the middleweight sector through the power of his left hook, a blow that made him famous. London, Paris, Dublin, and Australia and New South Wales were among the foreign places in which he engaged in matches.

Mike Gibbons, Jack Dillon, Les Darcy, Bob Moha, Harry Greb, Bombardier Billy Wells, Chuck Wiggins, Billy Papke, George Chip, Jimmy Clabby, Dave Smith, Frank Klaus, Cyclone Johnny Thompson and Mick King were among the stars of this country and abroad whom he faced in the ring. Les Darcy stopped him twice, in 15 and 8 rounds, respectively.

During World War I he saw service in France and upon his return, he opened a gymnasium in Chicago.

McGoorty died from tuberculosis in the Soldiers' Home Hospital of Milwaukee Wisconsin, on November 2, 1929.

TERRY McGOVERN

John Terrence McGovern, born in Johnstown, Pa., March 9th, 1880. Won the featherweight championship when he whipped George Dixon. Terry started fighting at 17, and during the outstanding part of his career was under the management of Sam Harris and Joe Humphreys.

George Dixon was knocked out in a New York fight by McGovern, in 8 rounds, on January 9th, 1900. Overnight the Irish whirlwind was made into a hero. That same year McGovern knocked out Eddie Santry, Oscar Gardner, Frank Erne, and Joe Gans. McGovern's fight with Gans in Chicago was branded as a fake, and it killed the game in Chicago.

In 1901, McGovern went to San Francisco and there knocked out Aurelio Herrera in 5, and Oscar Gardner in 4 rounds. His second setback was when Young Corbett of Denver knocked him out in Hartford, Conn., on November 28, 1901, in two rounds. The Denverite again kayoed McGovern at Mechanic's Pavilion in San Francisco on March 31st, 1903.

The bulldog whirlwind Irishman beat Eddie Hanlon in the East and fought no-decision battles with Battling Nelson and James Edward Britt. Later, McGovern wasted away through fast living, was so sick mentally that he had to be confined to a sanatorium. He passed away at 37 on February 26, 1918. He was elected to the Boxing Hall of Fame in 1955.

JIMMY McLARNIN

Jimmy McLarnin, known as Baby Face McLarnin, was born in Belfast, Ireland, December 17, 1905. He began his professional career in 1923 after he had fought as an amateur and had received special training from Pop Foster, a veteran of the old school who was like a father to Jimmy. McLarnin owed all to Foster, who guided him cautiously until he had reached the heights and when Pop died, he left his fortune to Jimmy.

On May 29, 1933, McLarnin achieved the goal of his ambition when he knocked out Young Corbett III in Los Angeles in one round to win the world welterweight crown. A year later, he lost that title to Barney Ross in the Garden Bowl of Long Island City in a 15 round bout.

Then came a return match at the Polo Grounds of New York City and Jimmy regained the throne by outpointing Ross in fifteen rounds and on May 28, 1935, Ross rewon the title in 15 rounds.

Included in his battles were thrillers with Joe Glick, Ray Miller, Billy Petrolle, Tony Canzoneri (whom he fought twice) and Lou Ambers. He won and lost in his bouts with Tony but beat Ambers. In the contest with Miller, a hard hitting affair, Ray stopped McLarnin in the eighth round and Jimmy later decisioned him in ten.

His knockouts of Sergeant Sammy Baker in a round, Al Singer in the third, Ruby Goldstein in the second and Sid Terris in the opener, made him the talk of the fistic world. He fought Sammy Mandell twice, losing to him in 15 rounds in a world lightweight title bout and later defeating him in ten in Chicago. He lost to Billy Petrolle in their first fight but beat him twice thereafter. When he knocked out Benny Leonard in the sixth round he put an end to the comeback of the former lightweight title holder.

Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame in 1956.

CHARLES MITCHELL
(Charles Watson Mitchell)

Born, Nov. 24, 1861, at Birmingham, England. Height, 5 feet, 9 inches. Weight, 158-175 pounds. Died April 3, 1918.

Recognized as the British champion, Mitchell came to America in 1883. He had one unimportant fight then met the all-powerful John L. Sullivan, who swung too many punches for him. The fight was stopped in the third round. At that time Mitchell was a 158-pounder.

A rematch was arranged for Chantilly, France, on the Baron Rothschild estate. Mitchell had gained some weight, hitting about 175. That fight, on March 10, 1888, went 39 rounds, 3 hours, 11 minutes, 55 seconds to a draw. Mitchell's friends laid claim to the title because of the draw, but it was never recognized.

In 1894, Mitchell, near the end of his career, was knocked out by Jim Corbett in three rounds. They fought for a purse of $20,000, a side bet of $5,000 and the title.

Mitchell was of Irish parentage. He picked up the fight game in 1878, winning in Billy Madden's London championship competition. He had draws with Herbert Slade and Jake Kilrain. Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame, 1957.

MEMPHIS PAL MOORE

Christened Thomas Wilson Moore, he was born in Kenton, Tenn., July 28, 1894. Never a champion himself, Moore made a career of beating champions. Unfortunately, he was never given an official crack at a world title, most of his victories having been scored in no-decision and over-weight matches.

During his long career, which began in 1913 and ended 20 years later, Memphis Pal (so called to distinguish him from another Pal Moore, a ranking Philadelphia lightweight) fought no less than 32 bouts with 13 rivals who were, had been or later became world champions, the list including Kid Williams, Pete Herman, Joe Lynch, Johnny Ertle, Johnny Buff, Jimmy Wilde, Eugene Criqui, Sammy Mandell, Bud Taylor, Frankie Genaro, Benny Leonard, Jimmy Wilde and Fidel La Barba.

A superb boxer with a baffling will-o'-the-wisp style, Moore engaged in more than 200 bouts and one of his proudest boasts was that he was never counted out. His ring career ended, Moore returned to Memphis where he became a successful real estate operator until his death March 15, 1953.

OWEN MORAN

He was one of England's greatest lightweights and featherweights. Known as "The Fearless." Twice fought for the British featherweight title. In 1913, his first big fight, he drew with peerless Jim Driscoll at the old National Sporting Club.

He was one of the toughest, roughest fighters of his weight and very courageous. One of his three visits to America lasted five years, during which he fought the top talent and beat our most formidable fighters. Among his outstanding bouts were those with Battling Nelson, whom he knocked out in the eleventh round in 1910, and against Ad Wolgast, who kayoed the Englishman in 13 rounds. He started his pro career at the age of 16.

He fought Abe Attell five times. Two contests, one 25 rounds and the other 23 rounds, each to a draw, were also top performances. For six years, from 1904 through 1910, he was rated one of the world's best.

He died in Birmingham on March 17, 1949.

BATTLING NELSON
"The Durable Dane"

Born, June 5, 1882 in Copenhagen, Denmark. Height 5 feet 7½ inches. Weight 133 pounds. Managed by Billy Nolan.

Battling Nelson was known as the Durable Dane because of his remarkable endurance. He was a rough and tumble fighter of the boring-in school. He lacked science but could hit hard.

He began his career in 1896.

It was on September 3, 1906 at Goldfield, in a bout promoted by Tex Rickard, that Nelson was disqualified for fouling Joe Gans in a lightweight title bout that ended in the 42nd round. They met again on July 4, 1908 at San Francisco and this time Nelson won the title by scoring a knockout in the 17th round. A third contest was arranged for September 9, 1908 at Colma, Calif., and Nelson retained his crown, halting Gans in the 21st round.

Nelson lost his championship to Ad Wolgast by a knockout in the fortieth round on February 22, 1910 at Point Richmond, Calif., with Eddie Smith the referee. The Durable Dane quit the ring in October 1913, then made a comeback in August of the following year and on and off he engaged in contests through 1923 when he hung up his gloves.

He died on Feb. 7, 1954, at Chicago, Ill.

In 1957 he was elected to the Boxing Hall of Fame.

O'Brien started his professional career in 1896 and fought for seventeen years through 1912.

He won the light heavyweight title by stopping Bob Fitzsimmons in the thirteenth round on December 20, 1905, at San Francisco but continued fighting heavyweights, never defending his title and holding it until his retirement.

Twice O'Brien challenged Tommy Burns for the heavyweight title, drawing in twenty rounds on November 28, 1906, and losing a twenty round decision on May 8, 1907, both at Los Angeles.

In his bout with Stanley Ketchel, on March 26, 1909, at New York City, O'Brien was knocked out in the final round but was saved by the bell.

Papke knocked out Stanley Ketchel in the 12th round on September 7, 1908, to win the world middleweight title. On November 26, 1908, Ketchel turned the tables on Papke, knocking him out in the eleventh round at San Francisco to regain the throne. On July 5, 1909, he lost a terrific battle of 20 rounds to Ketchel at Colma, California.

After Ketchel's death in 1910, Papke claimed the crown. He was outpointed in 20 rounds by Cyclone Johnny Thompson in Australia, on February 11, 1911, and after Thompson had outgrown the class, Papke again claimed the throne.

Frank Mantell disputed that claim and beat Papke in 20 rounds on February 22, 1912 in Sacramento.

Papke committed suicide on November 26, 1936.

JACK ROOT

Old timers look upon the present crop of pugilists as a mediocre lot compared to what they had seen in the golden era of pugilism. They point to the days of Kid McCoy, Jack

Root, Tommy Ryan, Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, George Gardner, Tommy West, Joe Walcott, Sam Langford and Stanley Ketchel, among other greats, who fought both in the middleweight and light heavyweight ranks at a time when the field was so heavily loaded with top talent that every one of the above seemed good enough to sit on the throne.

Jack Root, the oldest living ex-champion, occupied a unique role in the history of pugilism, in that he not only was a top ranking middleweight but was the first to hold the title in the light heavyweight division. That class came into being in 1903 when Lou Housman conceived the idea that a grade should be established between the middle class then set at 156 pounds and the heavyweights.

It was on April 22, 1903, that Root defeated Kid McCoy in Detroit, Mich., in a bout advertised as for the new crown but he didn't hold the championship long for on July 4 of the same year, George Gardner knocked Root out at Fort Erie in the 12th round to relieve Jack of his laurels. Root, an Austrian by birth, was born on May 26, 1876.

He started his career in 1897 and until he was stopped by Gardner, he didn't lose a contest, though he tackled the cream of his division, including such stars as Jack Moffat, Australian Jim Ryan, Billy Stift, Frank Craig, Tommy West, Alec Greggains, Tommy Ryan and Kid Carter.

In 1905, after Jim Jeffries had retired, a bout was arranged between Root and Marvin Hart which was refereed by the retired heavyweight king and which was advertised as a world championship match to decide Jeffries' successor. Root was halted by Hart in the twelfth round.

Following that bout he engaged in only one more contest the following February and after defeating Fred Russell in a ten rounder, he quit and went into the show business.

Root bought several movie houses and when the business began to thrive, he sold out and became a wealthy man. He resides in Los Angeles. Root is a millionaire.

He was elected to Boxing Hall of Fame in 1961.

BARNEY ROSS

Barney Ross was born on New York's lower East Side, December 23, 1909, and was christened Barnet Rosofsky.

He moved to Chicago when a youth and attended school there. He graduated from Foster Grammar school and Medhill High. He took up boxing after school hours and made good as an amateur. Ross displayed considerable skill. He trained under the watchful eye of Packey McFarland, former lightweight star, who was in charge of the Catholic Youth movement in the Windy City.

Barney began his amateur career in 1926. The following year he completed in the Golden Gloves tournament and in 1929 won the Western and Inter-City featherweight titles.

Ross started his pro career in 1929 as a lightweight and gained the top rung of the ladder when he won the title from Tony Canzoneri in Chicago in 1933. In beating Canzoneri, he not only won the lightweight title but the then recognized junior welterweight crown as well.

He won the welterweight title from Jimmy McLarnin in 1934, after he had given up the lightweight crown. He lost the welterweight title back to McLarnin later that year. The following summer he regained the welterweight title from McLarnin and held it until defeated by Henry Armstrong in 1938. He retired from the ring after that bout and served in the U. S. Marines during World War II, being cited for bravery at Guadalcanal where he was wounded in action.

During his career he scored victories over such outstanding ringmen as Young Terry, Sammy Fuller, Billy Petrolle, Billy Shaw, Bobby Pacho, Battling Battalino, Harry Dublinsky, Lou Jallos, Goldie Hess, Johnny Farr, Tommy Grogan, Ceferino Garcia, Ray Miller, Frankie Klick and Pete Nebo.

TOMMY RYAN

It has been said for Tommy Ryan, by men who should know, that he was the greatest fighter for his weight boxing has known.

He was a wily scrapper and a great hitter and as welterweight champion he stood preeminent in a day of great fighters.

He was born March 31, 1870, at Redwood, N. Y. Mother, English; father, French. He was christened Joseph Youngs. Weight, 142 pounds at start of career. Height, 5 feet, 7¾ inches.

It was on July 26, 1894, at Minneapolis, that Ryan took the welterweight championship by beating Billy Smith in twenty rounds. Tommy and Smith met again, at Coney Island, New York, on May 27, 1895, but the police interfered in the eighteenth round and it was called a draw.

On March 2, 1896, Kid McCoy stopped Ryan in fifteen rounds and took the title. Ryan then entered middleweight division and laid claim to the crown after Fitzsimmons had retired. He beat all other claimants and was generally recognized as the best. In 1907 he retired. Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame, 1958.

Ryan died at Van Nuys, California, August 3, 1948.

He won the world heavyweight title on a foul from Jack Sharkey in final of elimination tournament at Yankee Stadium in 1930 and lost it to Sharkey in Garden Bowl in 1932 in fifteen rounds.

On June 19, 1936, Schmeling knocked out Joe Louis in the 12th round at New York City, thereby placing himself in line for a title bout. He subsequently was knocked out in a return match, this time for the heavyweight championship, by Joe Louis in 2:04 of the first round.

During his career he faced opponents such as Paolino Uzcudun, Jack Sharkey, Max Baer, Joe Louis, Johnny Risko, Mickey Walker, Young Stribling and Steve Hamas.

He served as a paratrooper with the German Army in World War II. After the war, he became a referee in Germany and the owner of a mink farm and a soft drink business.

Was Ring's Fighter of Year in 1930.

JEFF SMITH

Jerome Jeffords, who fought under the name of Jeff Smith, was born in New York City on August 23, 1891. He was a famous middleweight who like many of his colleagues of his era, was a world traveller who performed in many parts of the globe. He engaged in a number of contests in France and Australia and rolled up an enviable record. Like McGoorty, Darcy, Mike Gibbons, Frank Mantell and others, he laid claim to world honors following Ketchel's death, but failed to gain public recognition.

He was a master boxer who competed in the roped square for eighteen years. Though never crowned king of his division, he was one of the world's best.

In 1915, he defeated Les Darcy, in Sydney, Australia, the boy from Down Under refusing to continue after the fifth round, claiming he had been fouled. In a return bout, he lost on a foul to Darcy in the second round.

Jeff and Greb fought seven times, five no decision bouts, a loss of 10 and a draw of 15 rounds. He also fought a no-decision 15 round contest with Gene Tunney in New Orleans in 1924, before Gene had won the heavy crown. At the time Gene outweighed Jeff by 186 to 154 pounds.

Jeff and Tommy Loughran fought twice, and in one bout, he dropped the clever Tommy. Other famous middleweights and light heavies with whom Smith was matched were Bob Moha, Mike Gibbons, Leo Houck, Frank Mantell, Willie Lewis, Eddie McGoorty, Young Ahearn, Mike McTigue, George Chip and Jimmy Clabby.

Smith, after retiring, served as an instructor in boxing at Fort Dix and his three sons were in the Armed Forces. He died in Levittown, N. J. on February 3, 1962.

MYSTERIOUS BILLY SMITH
(Amos Smith)

He was born in Eastport, Maine, May 15, 1871, but lived during the early part of his youth in Saint John, New Brunswick, Canada. He was an Irish-American. Height 5 feet 8½ inches and weight, 145.

He started professional boxing in 1891. He was rated high in the ranks of the ring greats. He claimed the world welterweight title in 1892 when Paddy Duffy, the champion, retired. He made his claim stand up by defeating Danny Needham, stopping him in 14 rounds in San Francisco in a contest recognized as for the crown. He lost the title to Tommy Ryan in Minneapolis in 1894 in a twenty round bout refereed by Joe Choynski. But in 1898, he regained the crown, by defeating Matty Matthews in 25 rounds. He won from the great Joe Walcott in 20 rounds and then lost the title to Rube Ferns on a foul in the twenty-first round of their bout in Buffalo on January 15, 1900.

Smith had a remarkable record and has been called by oldtime scribes one of the greatest of all welterweights.

He died on Oct. 15, 1937, at Portland, Ore.

CHARLES B. (BUD) TAYLOR
(The Blond Terror of Terre Haute)

Bud Taylor was born in Terre Haute, Indiana, on July 5, 1903, and grew up in a sector where youngsters had to fight for their rights. He therefore turned to boxing at an early age and, in 1920, he turned to professional boxing. Three years later he became recognized as a headliner. In 1925 he whipped Jimmy McLarnin and lost on a foul to him.

He was a stiff right hand puncher. In 1924 he knocked out Frankie Jerome in New York and Frankie died after the fight. Two years later, he killed another fighter in Milwaukee. Clever Sencio, died following a ten round bout with Bud.

In 1931, after being stopped in two rounds by Benny Bass and losing in eight to Lew Massey, Taylor hung up his gloves. He became a manager and promoter. He died in Los Angeles, Calif. on March 9, 1962.

LEW TENDLER

"The fighter who was talked out of a world championship."

That's how sports writers refer to Lew Tendler, Philadelphia southpaw, the lightweight who tossed away a championship when he permitted Benny Leonard, on the verge of a knockout, to induce him to pause in his attack sufficiently to enable the champion to recover and save his crown. It was a case where quick thinking kept the championship in Benny's hands.

Tendler was one of the hardest hitters among the lightweights. He was born on September 28, 1898 and started his career as a bantam in 1913. At the age of five he was selling newspapers. At fifteen, he was earning $17.00 as a main event fighter. Ten years later, he was in the six figure class getting $116,000 for one battle. When he retired at the age of thirty, he had earned a million dollars in boxing and following his retirement, he became a successful businessman as a restaurateur. He fought the top men with success.

That's the story of Lew Tendler, the Philadelphia southpaw.

He was one of the world's best left hand hitters in the game.

In 1928 he ended his career with three bouts. He knocked out Jack McFarland in eight rounds, lost in 10 to Ace Hudkins and then stopped Nate Goldman in five, before calling it quits.

He was elected to Boxing Hall of Fame in 1961.

GENE TUNNEY
(James Joseph Tunney)

Born, New York, N. Y., May 25, 1898, of Irish parentage. Height, 6 feet, ½ inch. Weight, 192 pounds.

After attending parochial school, as a youth he worked in a steamship office. Tunney fought around the small clubs of New York until the World War. He enlisted in the Marines and was in France, where he won the regimental boxing championship in the A. E. F.

He won the vacant American light heavyweight title in a bout with Battling Levinsky, January 13, 1922, in Malison Square Garden, and lost the title to Harry Greb on May 23, 1922. He was badly whipped in that fight. Tunney regained the crown from Greb on February 23, 1923.

Gene's knockout of Tommy Gibbons in twelve rounds on June 5, 1925, cleared the path of challengers and brought Tunney into the spotlight for a shot at Dempsey's heavyweight title. He won the heavyweight title on a ten-round decision at Sesquicentennial Stadium, September 23, 1926 and successfully defended the crown against Dempsey at Soldier's Field, Chicago, on September 22, 1927, in the "Battle of the Long Count."

Tunney fought only once more before retiring as undefeated world heavyweight champion, knocking out Tom Heeney at Yankee Stadium, July 26, 1928, in eleven rounds. Tunney collected the largest sum up to that time for one fight, $990,445 for second bout with Dempsey. He also figured in a fight that lost the greatest amount in history, that with Heeney. Tex Rickard dropped $152,000 on the show. Tunney received $525,000 as a guarantee for that bout. He lost only once in his entire career, to Greb. He participated in 100 bouts.

After his retirement he became an executive in many concerns, among them the Denham Tire Co., the Stamford Construction Co., and the Morris Plan.

Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame in 1955.

(Francisco Guilledo)

He was born in Iloilo, Philippine Islands, August 1, 1901. Weight 110 pounds. Height 5 feet 1. Managed by Frank Churchill.

In America he fought the cream of the talent in both flyweight and bantam divisions with success. His record was a splendid one. He was a fast, two fisted battler, an excellent boxer and carried a stinging jab.

He started his career in 1919. He participated in 103 fights. He scored 22 knockouts, won 49 bouts, lost four, drew in four and engaged in 23 no decision fights and lost one on a foul.

On July 4, 1925 he lost a ten round bout to Jimmy McLarnin. He had an ulcerated tooth that brought on blood poisoning which resulted in his death following that bout.

Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame, 1961.

JOE WALCOTT

Joe Walcott, known as the "Barbados Demon." Born in Barbados, April 7, 1872. Height, 5 feet, 1½ inches. Weight, 132-145 pounds. British subject. Parents, West Indians.

Came to America in 1887. Settled in Boston. Arrived in Boston Harbor as a cabin boy on a brigantine when he was only 15 years old.

He was a physical marvel. Could withstand terrific punishment and hand out plenty. His greatest feat was the knockout of Joe Choynski, a heavyweight, in seven rounds in 1900.

His greatest fights were with George Kid Lavigne.

Walcott won the world welterweight championship by defeating Rube Ferns in five rounds at Fort Erie, Ontario, December 18th, 1901 and lost the title to Dixie Kid at San Francisco on April 30, 1904, on a foul. His record is one of the greatest in the history of pugilism.

His professional record shows 171 battles excluding several hundred which he had on the stage against all comers. Walcott was killed in an automobile accident in 1935 in Massillon, Ohio, and is buried in Dayton, Ohio. He was elected to the Boxing Hall of Fame in 1955.

MICKEY WALKER
(The Toy Bulldog)

Mickey Walker was born in Elizabeth, New Jersey, July 13, 1901. Went to school and after graduation took up the study of architecture in Columbia night school. During the war he tried to enlist but was too small and worked in the shipyards as an iron worker. After the war became a boxer. He made rapid progress in the pro field.

He started his career in 1919 and was knocked out in one round by Phil Delmont. But from then on, he did remarkably well against the cream of the welterweight talent. In his third year he fought Dave Shade, twice, and Jack Britton.

He won the welterweight title from Britton in the Garden November 1, 1922 in 15 rounds and lost it to Pete Latzo in Scranton, Pa., in 10 rounds, May 20, 1926.

On December 3, 1926 he won the middleweight championship from Tiger Flowers in Chicago in ten rounds. In a title bout in London with Tommy Milligan, he stopped the British contestant in the tenth round.

Later he gave up the title to enter the higher division and fought Tommy Loughran for the light heavyweight crown on March 28, 1929 but lost in ten rounds. He went on from there to fight heavyweights and drew with Jack Sharkey in 15 rounds but was stopped by Max Schmeling in 8 in a vicious encounter. He lost a 15 round title bout with Maxie Rosenbloom. In 1935 he retired to study art and moved to Hollywood where he met with success in his new venture. He later returned to New York where he engaged in several enterprises.

His autobiography, "Will to Conquer" was published in 1953.

He was elected to the Boxing Hall of Fame in 1955.

FREDDY WELSH
"The Welsh Wizard"

Freddy Welsh, christened Frederick Hall Thomas, was born in 1886 at Pontypridd, Wales. Weight, 133 pounds and height, 5 feet 7 inches. He was managed by Harry Pollock.

His first fights were staged in 1905 in Philadelphia and during that year and the entire following year he fought many times in the Quaker City. In 1907 he went back home to campaign with considerable success. He was a very clever boxer.

Welsh won the lightweight title from Willie Ritchie on July 7, 1914 and lost it to Benny Leonard who stopped him in 9 rounds in New York on May 28, 1917.

Thereafter Welsh fought only six more times. He opened a gymnasium in Summit,

New Jersey, and for a time was a lecturer on physical education. He operated a health farm that was successful until the depression days set in when he was forced to dispose of it. He died on July 29, 1927. He was one of Great Britain's greatest boxers.

Elected to Boxing Hall of Fame in 1960.

CHARLEY WHITE

Charlie White, born Charles Anchowitz in Liverpool, England, March 25, 1891, was one of the best left hook artists the ring had during the last half century. He was a lightweight who stood high in his profession.

White was a busy battler from the time he started his career in 1906 until he quit at the end of 1923, though he did make a comeback seven years later when he was halted by Henry Perlick in two rounds and hung up his gloves for good. Of the 170 fights in which he engaged, White ended 51 of them by knockouts and sixty-five were no-decision bouts because when he was in his prime, boxing was illegal in many states and where permitted, decisions were prohibited. Among the stars whom he fought were Abe Attell, Danny Webster, Matt Wells, Freddie Welsh, Pal Moran, Joe Welling, Ted Kid Lewis, Benny Leonard, Matty Baldwin, Ad Wolgast and Jack Britton. Several fights are not listed.

By far his most sensational battle was with Benny Leonard at Benton Harbor, Mich., on July 5, 1920, when he suffered his first knockout, Benny putting him away in the ninth round after saving his title by a hairline when he was put down over the ropes. Only one time other than in the comeback attempt, was Charlie put away and that by Pal Moran in New York's Madison Square Garden on October 5, 1923. Patsy Haley, the referee, stopped the bout.

After his retirement, Charlie opened a gymnasium in Chicago where he taught physical training and catered to business men and women. Later he went to Hollywood where he took charge of many movie stars, keeping them in physical condition.

JIMMY WILDE

Born, May 15, 1892, Quaker's Yard, Pontypridd, Wales. Weight, 108 pounds. Height, 5 feet, 2½ inches. Held world's flyweight championship.

There never was a boy his weight who was cleverer or hit harder than this Welsh Terror.

They called him a freak because of his tapering body, broad shoulders and an anaemic appearance that was deceiving.

Started career in 1911. Retired in 1923 after losing title to Pancho Villa in New York City. He was stopped in seven rounds. He won the crown by knocking out Young Zulu Kid in eleven rounds.

Among the great boxers he met were Pete Herman, who stopped him in the seventeenth round, Battling Murray, Bobby Dyson, Joe Lynch, Jack Sharkey, Young Zulu Kid, Mike Ertle, Pal Moore, Mickey Russell, Frankie Mason, Tom Noble, and Tancy Lee.

KID WILLIAMS
(John Gutenko)

Born in Copenhagen Denmark, on December 5, 1893, and was christened John Gutenko.

He started his ring career in this country in 1910, and it didn't take long for him to make his mark. He became champion and a big money maker.

He knocked out Johnny Coulon at Vernon, Calif., in 3 rounds on June 9, 1914, to win bantam title. He lost on a foul to Johnny Ertle in St. Paul, September 10, 1915, but did not lose title due to a disputed claim. He was outpointed by Pete Herman, January 9, 1917, in 20 rounds, Herman winning the crown.

Williams retired in 1929. He engaged in 204 pro fights.

MIDGET WOLGAST

Midget Wolgast was born in Philadelphia, Pa., July 18, 1910. He was an Italian-American, christened Joseph Robert Loscatzo. He rose from the ranks of amateurs to become one of the top flyweights and a claimant to world honors.

Following the retirement of Corporal Izzy Schwartz in 1930, Wolgast was matched with Black Bill in a bout recognized by the New York Commission as for the championship, but the N.B.A. differed and recognized as its title holder Frankie Genaro. Genaro and Wolgast met on December 26, 1930 in New York City and the bout resulted in a draw. Genaro then went to France where he faced Young Perez in what was designed by the European Boxing Union and the National Boxing Association as a world championship bout and Perez won the crown. Wolgast, in the meantime, continued to box all comers in America and on September 16, 1935, he lost a ten rounder to Small Montana in Oakland, Calif., and with it any further claim to world laurels. At the time he was, however, the American flyweight king.

Wolgast was the eldest of a family of ten children, six boys and four girls. His father was born in Naples and boxed under the name of Mickey Williams.

Midget started his pro career in 1927 when he fought Willie Davies and won in ten rounds. Thereafter he was kept busy and travelled to all parts of the country, gaining many victories. Two months after winning the New York version of the world title, he defended it successfully by stopping Willie La Morte in six rounds. One of his outstanding performances was turned in against Jackie Brown in London on October 30, 1933, winning the verdict in 12 rounds in a big upset.

Wolgast ended his career in 1940, fighting as a lightweight.

He died in Philadelphia, Pa. on October 19, 1955.

FAMOUS POSTPONEMENTS

On September 11, 1899, at Tuckahoe, New York, Terry McGovern and Pedlar Palmer were to have fought for the world bantamweight championship. It rained and the bout was held the following day, with McGovern scoring a knockout in the first round.

A severe thunderstorm twice within a short space of time halted proceedings in rings in New York State in the summer of 1948 and the bouts had to be carried over until the next evening.

On June 29 at Syracuse, Sonny Horne and Joey De John were going at it hot and heavy for two rounds while the storm attempted to cool them off. Before the third round was started, the promoters and the officials at ringside agreed to continue the fight the following night and to start from the third round on. Twenty-four hours later, De John went on to take the decision.

At the Queensboro Arena on July 19, Willis "Red" Appelgate, substituting for Lee Oma, was pitted against Bill Weinberg of Boston. A sudden storm that hit only parts of New York City, made the boys take cover after three rounds of milling, and the fight was carried over until the following night, when the remaining seven rounds were fought, with Weinberg winning the ten round decision.

Odd postponements such as the above seem to come in pairs for tracing back to 1946 we find in the months of July and August in New Jersey and New York two similar incidents.

On July 9, 1946 Freddy Archer and Jorge Morelia were battling it out at the Meadowbrook Bowl at Newark. After two rounds had been completed, a heavy storm forced all hands to cover, whereupon the promoters, backed by the decision of Commissioner John Hall, ordered the abbreviated contest to be resumed the following night.

When the men entered the ring for the second time, the gong sent them off for round three. Archer won the ten round decision—though it took him two nights to do it.

A month and a half later, on August 22, young Bernard Docusen was making his second start in a New York ring in a match against Henry Jordan at Ebbets Field. One round had been completed when a heavy downfall washed out the show. When they resumed action the following night, the bout was started anew and Docusen slammed Jordan around the ring for ten rounds.

The first time in modern history that a heavyweight championship match was postponed occurred in Joe Louis' first defense of his title in 1937. On the day the fight was scheduled to come off, August 26, Louis and Farr weighed in, Louis at 198, Farr at 207. Threatening weather made it necessary to reschedule the bout for Aug. 30, a Monday. At the new weigh-in, Louis had lost a pound, at 197, and Farr had shrunk two-and-a-half pounds, coming down to 204½.

The second postponement of a heavyweight title fight happened on June 23, 1948 when the Louis-Walcott fight at Yankee Stadium was twice called off. After being postponed in the afternoon due to rain the bout was rescheduled for the following night. A thunderstorm again forced postponement. At 7.05, Thursday night the skies opened up and poured forth with torrential rains. At 8.15 it was announced that the fight would be held the following day Demands for refunds were heavy. It finally was staged on June 25.

In Philadelphia, September 23, 1926, Dempsey and Tunney fought their ten-round title fight in a heavy rain. As the fight had started before the downpour, it was not called off. Tunney won the title in that fight.

On June 9, 1948, the Graziano-Zale middleweight title fight at Ruppert Stadium, Newark, was delayed a day due to inclement weather.

On June 17, 1948, the Ray Robinson-Bernie Docusen welterweight title fight at Comiskey Park in Chicago was put over until June 21, 1948 due to weather and then was postponed again until June 28 because of both the weather and Robinson's inability to make the weight.

The Louis-Walcott fight mentioned above was the third title bout in a row to be postponed.

The Zale-Graziano fight above was the second of their three fights that had been postponed. Zale's first defense of his title, scheduled for July 25, 1946 against Graziano at the Yankee Stadium was postponed after Zale suffered an attack of neuritis the day before the fight. It was not held until September 27, 1946.

This postponement was no new experience for Mike Jacobs, since a skin ailment forced Zale to put off for two months in 1941 the bout in which he beat Georgie Abrams to win the crown and which Jacobs promoted. In Jacobs' first promotional undertaking, Barney Ross, who, like Zale, was managed by Sam Pian and Art Winch, was seized with neuritis and had to postpone a meeting with Billy Petrolle from December, 1933 to January, 1934.

Lou Ambers was to defend his lightweight title against Henry Armstrong at the Polo Grounds on August 10, 1938 but previous to that date and for a week following, there was a continuous rain in New York. The fight was finally brought indoors, to Madison Square Garden, on August 17, 1938 with Armstrong winning the title.

On September 17, 1934 Barney Ross lost his welterweight title to Jimmy McLarnin in the "jinx" Madison Square Garden Bowl. This fight was originally scheduled for September 6 but was postponed four times due to rain and threatening weather and on the day that the fight actually came off there were afternoon rains at the fringes of the metropolitan district which killed off the last day sale. The gross receipts were $138,902.62.

As the prelims began, there were dark and menacing clouds which followed morning rains and a mist-like drizzle. At the original weigh-in, the afternoon of September 6th, Ross weighed 140; McLarnin 145¾. At the final weigh-in, Ross weighed 140¼; McLarnin 146¼.

The four postponements set a record for a world championship fight.

The Jimmy McLarnin-Sammy Mandell title fight staged in New York City on May 21, 1928, was postponed several times, from a Thursday (May 17) to the following Monday, due to inclement weather. It was staged at the Polo Grounds.

The second Lee Savold-Bruce Woodcock fight, for the British version of the heavyweight title, was a long-range postponement. The pair originally met on December 6, 1948 at London, Woodcock winning in an unsatisfactory fight on a foul in four rounds.

Rematched for September 6, 1949, Woodcock was injured on August 4 when he drove a truck into a tree. The fight was then set back a month and finally rescheduled for June 6, 1950 when it came off at White City, London, before a crowd of 50,000 persons. Savold scored a four round knockout.

The world welterweight title bout between Kid Gavilan and Billy Graham, scheduled for Saturday night, October 4, 1952, at the Gran Stadium, Havana, Cuba, was postponed to Sunday, October 5, due to a heavy downpour.

The postponement of the September 1, 1954, Kid Gavilan-Johnny Saxton world welterweight title bout, scheduled for Shibe Park, Philadelphia, due to Gavilan's illness, necessitated the holding of two six round fights at The Met, a local Philadelphia fight club, at which time the fans—some 2,000 of them—were admitted free. The show also became the first with a "studio-home" audience for a nationally televised boxing event. The fight for the title was finally staged on October 20, with Saxton winning the title.

The second Marciano-Charles fight was postponed twice. Originally scheduled for September 15, it finally came off at the Yankee Stadium on September 17, 1954.

Paddy DeMarco's return title engagement with Jimmy Carter, from whom he won the championship, was twice postponed. Originally scheduled for the Cow Palace, San Francisco, on June 2, 1954, it was called off when DeMarco developed a virus. It was rescheduled for September 22 and was again postponed when the champion injured his left hand. They finally met on November 17.

The fight between Yoshio Shirai and Pascual Perez for the world flyweight title was originally set for October 25, 1954 at Korakuen Stadium, Tokyo, Japan. When challenger Perez injured his ear in training the bout was postponed to November 25. A heavy downpour of rain cancelled the fight for twenty-four hours and it was fought on November 26, Perez winning the title.

The Perez-Leo Espinosa flyweight title bout originally scheduled for December 21, 1955 was postponed to Jan. 4, then to January 7 and was held on January 11, 1956.

The world heavyweight title bout between Rocky Marciano and Archie Moore, set for Tuesday, September 20, 1955, was postponed one day due to threat of Hurricane Ione. The bout was postponed early in the morning of the day it was scheduled for and as the hurricane by-passed New York the weather held good. However, the delay helped the box office, rather than hurt it, and on Wedensday evening, September 21, a cool but pleasant night, the bout was staged before over 61,000 persons who had paid $948,117.

The world middleweight title bout between Bobo Olson and Ray Robinson, scheduled for November 4, 1955, at Chicago, was postponed until December 9, 1955, due to an ankle injury by Robinson.

The Carmen Basilio-Johnny Saxton world welterweight title bout, at Chicago, Ill., scheduled for February 15, 1956, was postponed to March 14, 1956. Basilio was suffering from a "mild case of influenza" and asked for the delay on the advice of his physician.

The world middleweight title bout between champion Ray Robinson and challenger Gene Fullmer, scheduled for December 12, 1956, at Madison Square Garden, New York, N. Y., was postponed on December 3, when Robinson came up with a bad head and chest cold. The examining physician, Dr. Alexander Schiff, said it was inadvisable for the champion to go through with the bout at that time and that he was in no condition to even continue his training. The title bout was postponed until January 2, 1957, at the same venue.

Don Jordan was matched to fight Virgil Akins for the welterweight title on March 6, 1959. The bout was postponed until April 3 and then again to April 24. It was fought in St. Louis and Jordan retained the title.

Alphonse Halimi of France, world feather champion, was to have faced Joe Becerra of Mexico on May 6, 1959. The bout was postponed to June 3 and then again to July 8 when Becerra knocked out Halima in Los Angeles, in the ninth round to win the world crown.

Rain caused a postponement of the world heavyweight title bout between Ingemar Johansson of Sweden, challenger, and Floyd Patterson from June 25 to June 26, 1959, at Yankee Stadium of New York.

The heavyweight bout between Eddie Machen of Redding, Cal., and Reuben Vargas of Richmond, Cal., was delayed from April 29 to May 20, 1959. It took place in San Francisco and Machen won in 10 rounds.

The world light heavyweight title bout between Archie Moore and Yvon Durelle, scheduled for Montreal on July 15, was rescheduled for July 29 when Moore claimed an injured heel and was shifted again to August 12 because of the illness of Archie's wife who had to undergo a brain operation.

Originally scheduled for April 20, the world flyweight title bout between Pascual Perez of Argentina and Kenji Yonekura of Japan, was postponed to June 3 and again to August 1 and his title bout with Sadao Yaoita scheduled for October 5 was postponed to October 22, to November 5, 1959.

The world flyweight title bout between Pascual Perez and Pone Kingpetch, in Bangkok, Thailand was postponed from April 2, 1960 to April 10, and then finally to April 16. Kingpetch won a split decision to capture the title.

The return bout between middleweight champion Paul Pender and Sugar Ray Robinson was postponed from April 29, 1960, to June 10, with Pender winning a split decision in their Boston, Mass. match, retaining his crown.

The bantamweight title match in Tokyo, Japan, between champion Joe Becerra and Kenji Yonekura was postponed from May 20, 1960 to May 23, with Becerra winning a decision to retain his title.

The middleweight (NBA) title match between Ray Robinson and Gene Fullmer was postponed from October 8 to December 3, 1960.

The Benny Paret vs. Federico Thompson world welter title bout was postponed from October 15, 1960 to December 10, 1960.

The middleweight (NBA) title match between Gene Fullmer and Ray Robinson was postponed from February 25 to March 4, 1961.

*Lack of opposition caused Jeffries to retire in March 1905. He named Marvin Hart and Jack Root as the leading contenders and agreed to referee their fight at Reno, Nev., on July 3, 1905, with the stipulation that he would term the winner the world champion. Hart, 190 (28), knocked out Root, 171 (29), in the twelfth round.

†Burns claimed the title after defeating Hart. Another claimant was Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, who had fought a 20-round draw with Burns at Los Angeles on Nov. 28, 1906, with Jeffries as the referee. Burns, 180 (25) eliminated O'Brien, 167 (29), by beating him in 20 rounds at Los Angeles on May 8, 1907. Charles Eyton was the referee.

‡Tunney retired after his bout with Tom Heeney in New York on July 23, 1928. Tunney, 192 (30), knocked out Heeney, 203½ (30), in the eleventh round.

(Tommy Ryan won vacant middleweight title on June 18, 1898 and was undefeated in title competition through his last bout on March 4, 1907, for a total elapsed time of 8 years, 8½ months. However, at the end of 1904 Ryan retired and did not fight for three years and maintained he still held title on comeback in 1907. Also, though his last recorded bout was on March 4, 1907, he did not officially retire at that time and was in training and had several bouts scheduled after that date, though none came off.)

FAMOUS ONE ROUND KAYOES

Joe Louis got the one round knockout fever in his first pro fight when on Independence Day, July 4, 1934 he set off a fist-full of fire crackers in the face of Jack Kracken in the first round at Chicago. He chalked up ten such kayoes in his seventy-one pro fights. During twenty-five defenses of his title he had turned the trick on five occasions in the stylish times of 2:56, 2:29, 2:20, 2:09 and 2:04!—amazing performances.

Fair-to-middling hitting but the elusive time of 1:27 evaded the champion. Why 1:27? Well back on St. Patrick's Day some fifty years ago, another champ, Tommy Burns, who also knew how to end things quickly, starched Irish Jem Roche in 1:28 of the first round at Dublin, Ireland, the record for the shortest fight in a heavyweight championship fight.

In establishing the record time of 1:28 Burns was merely improving on a record he himself had made, for on July 4, 1907 at Colma, Calif., he had knocked out Australian Bill Squires in 2:09 of round one. Squires, built up as the Australian champion, proved no match for Tommy Burns, then on his round-the-world bicycle evading Jack Johnson. However, Squires was zealously supported before the fight by those who believed him to be a reclaimer of British ring prestige.

Burns moved out boldly at the bell. He crouched behind a long left, cocking his right. Squires, displaying the true British style of prize fighting, had his head high, his left extended only a short distance and his right close to his body.

Burns feinted. Squires moved into the trap and the champion sprung it, crashing over a ponderous right. Squires quavered. Again and again Burns landed with his right in rapid-like order. The Australian seemed wholly incapable of blocking the blow.

Stunned and perhaps panic-stricken by the lightning-like attack, Squires took drastic punishment before collapsing at Burns' feet. He crumpled into a heap and was counted out in less than two minutes by the former world heavyweight champion, Jim Jeffries, who acted as third man in the ring.

Joe Louis bettered Tommy Burns' second-best mark of 2:09 when in his second match with Max Schmeling, he advanced with savage fury in the opening round to all but annihilate the German in 2:04. Perhaps no challenger had ever been more decisively overcome and defeated as was Herr Max in that June 22, 1938 meeting. Feb. 22, 1908, Stanley Ketchel kayoed Mike Twin Sullivan in a round for vacant middleweight title.

There is a fallacy of the ring that "good fighters never are knocked out in the first round." But a quick search of the records reveals that a number of near greats and greats have gone down to ignominious defeat in that session. Schmeling, besides his one round loss to Joe Louis, also was finished in round one by Gypsy Daniels. Louis, in his second meeting with Buddy Baer, finished him in one.

Al Hostak did it to Freddie Steele. Jimmy McLarnin surprised by trouncing Young Corbett in that manner. Tnoy Canzoneri needed only 1:06 to finish Al Singer and Joe Gans, forty-six years ago, did it to Frank Erne.

Al Singer, four months before his astonishing defeat at the hands of Canzoneri, had lowered-the-boom on Sammy Mandell in one. Fifty years ago, Pedlar Palmer arrived here from Britain with a great record and Terrible Terry McGovern finished him in round one.

Bob Fitzsimmons finished the Irish champion, Peter Maher, in the famous fiasco at Langtry, Texas, in one round of what was billed as "for the heavyweight championship of the world," though no title was involved. In 1907 Jack Johnson knocked out Peter Felix in one round in Australia though Felix was well past his prime.

Jack Dempsey, the one-round knockout champion, early in his career was stopped by Jim Flynn in one frame, and a year and a day later, Jack came back to reverse the outcome, finishing Flynn in one.

Fred Fulton, Carl Morris and Arthur Pelkey were others who were rocked to sleep by Dempsey in the first round. Counting his exhibitions, Dempsey scored well over sixty one-round kayoes.

Jimmy Carruthers of Australia won the bantamweight title in the seventeenth shortest world championship match when he knocked out Vic Toweel in 2:19 of the first round at Johannesburg, So. Africa, in 1952.

Rocky Marciano stopped Jersey Joe Walcott on May 15, 1953, in 2:25 of the opening round.

Davey Moore retained world featherweight title by kayoing Danny Valdez in 2:48 of the first round at Los Angeles, Calif. on April 8, 1961.

Gus Lesnevich knocked out Billy Fox, March 5, 1948, at Madison Square Garden, N.Y.C., in 1:58.

Gus Lesnevich kayoed Melio Bettina in 59 seconds, Madison Square Garden, N.Y.C., May 23, 1947. (Bettina was counted out twice.)

Ray Robinson stopped Flash Sebastian, August 29, 1947, in 1:02, in Madison Square Garden, N.Y.C. bout.

Lee Savold kayoed Gino Buonvino, March 19, 1948, at Madison Square Garden, N.Y.C. in 54 seconds.

RAY ROBINSON vs. RANDY TURPIN (2nd)—RECORD GATE

A record for gate receipts for a non-heavyweight bout was set on September 12, 1951, at the Polo Grounds, New York City, N. Y., when Ray Robinson regained the world middleweight title by stopping Randy Turpin in ten rounds.

Only 11 fights, 10 of which were heavyweight championship affairs, grossed more. The purses of the fighters, including film and Theater-TV rights, were the largest ever received by these two fighters and Turpin's also constituted a record for a British fighter, any division.

Here is the official breakdown:

Paid attendance	61,370
Gross gate	$767,626.17
Overall gross (including U. S. film and Theater-TV rights)	992,630.00
Gross Theater-TV	25,000.00
Gross U. S. films	200,000.00
Net gate receipts	607,195.00
Federal tax	127,026.73

ZALE vs. GRAZIANO BOUTS SETS RECORD

In the fight between Tony Zale and Rocky Graziano for the world middleweight championship, staged at the Yankee Stadium on September 27, 1946, champion and challenger received more money than ever had been obtained by fighters in a middleweight bout. Though Zale had contracted for 32½ percent and Graziano for 27½, an agreement was made whereby if Zale retained his title, he was to split the percentage with each receiving an equal amount—30 percent. The gross gate was $342,497 and each fighter obtained $78,892.87. In their second bout in the Chicago Stadium on July 16, 1947, these fighters set a new indoor record for receipts of $422,009.18.

BATTLES OF THE LONG COUNT

Paled into insignificance in the matter of time was the famous Dempsey-Tunney "Long Count" battle of 1927 when on March 12, 1948 at Madison Square Garden, New York, Marcel Cerdan, of France sent Laverne Roach to the canvas in the second round and a split second later went sprawling himself. Cerdan was up quickly and while Timekeeper Jack Watson and Referee Arthur Donovan argued whether or not Roach was officially knocked down, the seconds speedily ticked away.

Nat Fleischer, Editor of The Ring Magazine, sitting at ringside, timed the length of the knockdown to be 32 seconds.

When Jack Dempsey sent Gene Tunney to the canvas in their Chicago fight and then failed to go to a neutral corner, the length of the knockdown was timed at 14 seconds by some experts and 16 by others. Nat Fleischer timed it 14 seconds.

On May 19, 1902 at Philadelphia, Kid McCoy was floored in the second round by Kid Carter and while the count was long and drawn out in an attempt to save McCoy from a knockout, no official time for the knockdown is known beyond the fact that it occured "before two minutes of the round had been fought" with the bell saving McCoy.

July 27, 1921, Official Timekeeper Art Foote, announced that on his revised figures middleweight champion Johnny Wilson was down for counts of 13 4/5 seconds and 11 seconds during first two knockdowns of seventh round, in his title bout with Bryan Downey at Cleveland. Referee Jimmy Gardiner awarded the fight to Wilson on a foul over Downey after Martin Killilea, Wilson's manager, claimed Downey had struck Wilson at the count of seven on the third knockdown. Gardiner twice counted nine over the prostrate Wilson on the first knockdown.

LAST ROUNDS OF FAMOUS HEAVYWEIGHT FIGHTS

The heavyweights have always held the stage in pugilism and their battles have created world wide interest. Below are the finish of forty-eight of the most famous heivyweight battles since the day when John L. Sullivan and Charley Mitchell fought their unforgettable 39 round draw at Chantilly, France in 1888.

The round in which the knockout was scored, the last round that often held the balance of the decision; the round in which the title was won or lost, or successfully defended; the concluding round in a battle of the behemoths vieing for a shot at the championship—all these are graphically told in the blow-by-blow accounts related here.

SULLIVAN-MITCHELL
March 10, 1888

Chantilly, France, Baron Rothchild's Estate

Round 39—When the men came out to the centre of the ring to resume their stalling tactics the crowd became impatient and cries were heard, "Call it a draw."

The round lasted thirty-five minutes. Frequently Mitchell, for a change, would take a walk around the ring, while Sullivan stood still. At least four times they retired to their corners to get the clay off their boots and refresh themselves until one would challenge the other.

A draw had been suggested and declined, till between four and five o'clock all got impatient, as the finish seemed at least two hours off. However favorable to Mitchell, the latter at last said:

"Well let's shake hands or fight on, as John likes." Here Baldock, who had been very troublesome, rushed in and joined their hands and both retired from the ring. Mitchell was very much bruised on the body, his left eye closing. Sullivan was also bruised on the body and his mouth much punished.

Decision was a draw.

CORBETT-JACKSON
May 21, 1891
California A.C. of San Francisco

Round 61—When the men came up for the sixty-first round it was plain to be seen that both were fighting and staying upon their feet merely on nerve. Jackson swung at Corbett and missed and had all he could do to keep from toppling over, while Corbett essayed to counter, but reeled around the ring. The most the contestants could do was to tap each other lightly. The entire round went on in this fashion, and as the daylight was disappearing almost as fast as the strength of the fighters, the referee sent both men to their corners at the end of the round and the historic fight was over.

Decision was a draw.

CORBETT-SULLIVAN
September 7, 1892
Olympic Club of New Orleans

Round 21—Corbett left his chair, rushed at Sullivan and was upon John L. like a flash, raining on him a shower of lefts and rights. Under the panther-like assaults of Corbett the old lion was backed to the ropes. Then Jim curled up a nicely timed right hand smash to the jaw. The mighty John L. pitched forward on his face.

John came up O. K. again. He led with a weak left. Corbett was watching for an opening. The house was now all Corbett.

John sparred for Jim, but Jim jabbed him as he pleased. Fiercely Corbett fought the almost helpless champion to the ropes and banged him with right and left at will.

Sully fell three times. He tried to get up, and fell supinely back again, clearly knocked out.

Blood was pouring from his mouth and nose as he was lifted into his corner.

CORBETT-MITCHELL
January 25, 1894
Duvale A.C. of Jacksonville, Fla.

Round 3—Mitchell responded very slowly. He seemed stiff and sore. Corbett sprang at him and rushed him into a corner. He punched Charley in the nose, drawing blood. Then he swung his ponderous left on the jaw and dropped Mitchell. Mitchell was dazed and wanted to nurse his ten seconds. This seemed to madden Corbett. He wanted to get at his victim, but his seconds jumped into the ring and dragged him away. The instant Mitchell was up Corbett was at him, smashing him in the mouth, causing the blood to gush forth from his mouth and nostrils.

Beaten, bleeding, Mitchell slowly turned on the floor and staggered to his feet. Corbett saw that the moment for a final hit had arrived. Swinging that awful right hand, he smashed a terrible blow on Mitchell's jaw. The Englishman fell heavily on his side, rolled over on his face senseless and knocked out.

FITZSIMMONS-CORBETT
Carson City, Nevada

Round 14—Corbett landed that left jab again on Fitz's head. Fitz countered with a terrible right swing on Corbett's neck, and he had Corbett going back for a few seconds. Fitz landed a terrible left-hand jab on Corbett's stomach, and Corbett went to his knees with a frightful look of agony on his face. The timekeepers called the seconds, "One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten," but Corbett came to his feet and rushed to Fitz and endeavored to strike him. Time 1:40.

JEFFRIES-FITZSIMMONS
June 9, 1899
Coney Island A.C., N. Y.

Round 11—Fitz came up slowly, but assumed the aggressive. Jeff stood off, evidently waiting for a knockout. They clinched three times. Coming to close quarters, Jeff put two nard rights over Fitz's heart, sending him back. Then Jeff sent a straight left to the neck, which he followed with a left to the chest. Fitz crowded in. He tried his right for the jaw, but was short. Jeff then jabbed his left to the head and sent his right to the point of chin and it was all over.

JEFFRIES-CORBETT
May 11, 1900
Seaside A.C., Coney Island, N. Y. City

Round 23—A dozen times Corbett had failed to get away from the sneaking Jeffries's left for the stomach. There was no mark on his pale face, but around the mouth and eyes he was flying the signs of weariness after 22 rounds of fast, clever, excellent boxing. And in the twenty-third round the grizzly finally got the panther against the wall.

Three times Corbett drove his hook against the bleeding face and the throng that had begun to love him for his wonderful fight cheered frantically in the hope that he would live through the storm. Jeff worked him over near the ropes. He feinted with a right, and for the first time Corbett's uncanny seventh sense failed to warn of the nearness of the ropes. He drew back, but his shoulders struck the top one and he was hurled back full into the whizzing left that found his jaw at last after a thousand misses.

He dropped like a wet towel and never stirred until he had been carried to his corner. And big Jim Jeffries had driven one more rivet into his hold on the title.

JEFFRIES-FITZSIMMONS
San Francisco A.C.

Round 8—Bob stood up straight, feinting with his left and drawing Jeffries on. Jeffries smiled through his bloody features, ducking a left swing and landing a hard left on the ribs. Jeffries forced the fighting at this stage, crouching low and carrying his right high and left far back. They rushed to a clinch. As Fitzsimmons stepped back he smiled and spoke to Jeffries, and before he could get out of reach Jeffries quickly hooked his left on the jaw, and Fitz went down on his back, and before he could get up the referee counted him out.

JEFFRIES-CORBETT
August 14, 1903
Yosemite A.C. of San Francisco

Round 10—Jeffries stood straight up and came after his man without hesitation. Corbett seemed to be making a waiting fight. They exchanged lefts to the face, and Jeffries made a vicious effort. Jeffries sent a left hook to the stomach, and Corbett went down for nine seconds. He got up and received a left in the stomach and a right on the jaw. He went down, and after the count of seven Tommy Ryan threw up the sponge. Corbett was suffering with pain and a chair was brought for him. After a minute's rest he recovered, got up and shook hands with Jeffries.

JOHNSON-BURNS
Rushcutter's Bay Arena, Sydney, Australia

Round 14—Johnson went right after Burns when time was called. The white man warily backed away, but Johnson, following him, dropped Burns with a heavy right to the head. "One, two, three," slowly counted the referee, and Burns remained down until eight seconds had been tolled off. When he arose Johnson flew at him like a tiger and, using both hands unmercifully, soon had the champion tottering. The police then jumped into the ring and stopped the fight.

The referee, Hugh McIntosh, immediately declared Johnson the winner. He added that he considered it the best fight he ever had witnessed in Australia, and that both men had fought most fairly.

JOHNSON-JEFFRIES
Reno Arena, Nevada

Round 15—They rushed straight into a clinch. Johnson wriggled out of it and hooked a left to the jaw, Jeffries clinching promptly. Johnson whipped three lefts to the jaw and the boiler maker reeled. The Negro, realizing that the end was near rushed his man to a point near the ropes, and with a right on the jaw, followed by a left uppercut, he knocked Jeffries flat upon his back. The white man took a count of nine. As he struggled up Johnson was on top of him, piling in blow after blow, and almost knocking Jeffries out of the ring. This time the referee's count was slower, and Jeffries managed to crawl to his feet in a dazed and helpless condition. Johnson rushed him across the ring, swinging right and left for the head. A hook on the jaw finally tumbled Jeffries in a heap in the corner.

WILLARD-JOHNSON
April 5, 1915
Oriental Park, Havana, Cuba

Round 26—Johnson rose slowly from his chair and Willard met him more than two-thirds of the way across the ring. Willard stabbed a long left in the Negro's face, sending his head bobbing back. Before the champion could recover his position Willard swung a smashing right, which landed full on Johnson's stomach. Johnson was swung against the ropes by the force of the blow and he clinched on the rebound.

As soon as Welsh had broken the clinch 'Jess' rushed again, forcing the Negro into Willard's corner, where the finish came. Johnson was slow in darting, and his strong, youthful opponent hooked a swinging left to the body. The fading champion's legs quivered and again the towering giant feinted for the body. Johnson dropped his guard and Willard won the title with a quick, hard swing to the exact point of the jaw.

The Negro's knees folded up under him and he sank slowly to the floor and rolled over on his back partly under the ropes. Welsh waived Willard back and began to count. Up and down swung the referee's hand, but Johnson never moved, his eyes were glassy, only the whites being visible.

DEMPSEY-WILLARD
Toledo Arena, Ohio

Round 3—Dempsey sprang at the helpless champion with tigerish ferocity at the call to battle for the third round and plied him with a succession of jaw breaking uppercuts that brought the blood from the champion's mouth. Willard tottered about the ring, his face in a pitiful condition, covered with blood and bruises, while his great stomach rose and fell like the billows on Maumee Bay. This was conclusive proof that the champion's wind was not in good condition.

Following the uppercuts Dempsey hooked his left to the face, driving the champion about the ring in a helpless condition. Once again the challenger's heavy exertions told on him and he sparred for time, which was heartily appreciated by the champion.

Just before the minute's rest had elapsed Jack Hemple, one of Jess's seconds, tossed a towel from the champion's corner into the ring as an open confession that Willard could fight no more and that Jack Dempsey was the new heavyweight champion of the world.

As the towel fluttered down into the centre of the ring there was a great roar of voices all over the mammoth arena acclaiming the new title holder. Hundreds of admirers of Dempsey went over the top into the ring in a frantic effort to congratulate the new pugilistic title holder.

DEMPSEY-CARPENTIER
Boyles' Thirty Acres, Jersey City, N. J.

Round 4—Dempsey opened with a heavy right smash to the body and followed with a volley of rights and lefts to the body and chin. Carpentier came in close and Dempsey knocked Carpentier down with a right hander to the jaw and Carpentier took the count of nine while lying on his right side.

Just as the referee counted nine, the Frenchman got to his feet with a sudden jump and resumed the battle, which was setting strongly against the European champion.

Carpentier made a dying effort with his famous right hand punch, but it was blocked by Dempsey. The Manassa Mauler then rushed at his opponent and with a series of heavy rights to the ribs and a left uppercut to the chin, he soon had Georges on the run.

Jack drove a savage right hander over the Frenchman's heart. Carpentier doubled up in pain and Dempsey again swung his right against the jaw of the challenger and for the second time the Frenchman measured his length on the canvas covered floor.

Carpentier remained quite still after his second knockdown. He never made a movement until the referee had reached the count of eight. Carpentier then raised his legs in an effort to get on his feet, but his limbs straightened out and while his body was swaying in an evident attempt to regain his feet, he was counted out.

DEMPSEY-FIRPO
September 14, 1923
Polo Grounds, N. Y.

Round 2—Dempsey rushed out of his corner. The champion, highly excited, glided in close on the waiting Firpo and raked him with short-arm lefts and rights. Dempsey glided pantherlike after his prey but was met with a crashing right to the body and jumped into a clinch.

On the break, Dempsey stepped quickly back and landed two damaging left hooks. Dempsey dug his left into the body, then shot two right uppercuts and followed with a left to the body as Firpo jumped into a clinch. Dempsey shook him off and drove in short-arm blows. Firpo sank to the canvas.

The count reached five when Firpo arose. Luis lashed out a long right to the neck. Dempsey got inside a left lead with short-arm jolts. In close, Dempsey drove his left mauler deep into Firpo's midsection. On backing away, he crashed a short-arm right to the jaw.

Firpo went down like a poled steer. He lay motionless for two seconds then started to writhe and twist convulsively. He rolled over on his back. He drew up one knee in agony and was counted out.

TUNNEY-DEMPSEY
September 23, 1926
Sesquicentennial Stadium, Philadelphia, Pa.

Round 10—The crowd roared furiously for Tunney as they shook hands. Dempsey landed a hard right to the shoulder and missed another right and they clinched. The rain was coming down in a torrent as they milled around. Dempsey forced Tunney back with a left to the body, but Tunney countered with left to head.

Dempsey crowded Tunney to the ropes. Tunney had Dempsey on the verge of a knockout. Dempsey was a bleeding mess. His left eye was totally closed and bleeding.

Tunney beat Dempsey furiously, and Dempsey could hardly stand up. Tunney swarmed all over him.

Dempsey was out on his feet, but was still coming. Dempsey staggered to his corner as the bell rang. Tunney won the decision and the title.

DEMPSEY-TUNNEY
Soldier's Field, Chicago

his right to Dempsey's face and the blood began to flow.

Gene hit twice to the face and Jack hung on. Gene hit another left to the face. Gene twice sent a left to the face, then crashed home a right to the jaw and battered Dempsey's head around with both fists.

Gene hit Jack with lefts and rights and Jack got in one right to the head in return. Tunney hooked three lefts to the face and drove Dempsey to the ropes with both fists, with Dempsey standing groggily around trying to avoid Tunney's blows as the round ended.

Tunney won the decision.

SCHMELING-SHARKEY
Long Island City Bowl, L. I., N. Y.

Round 4—Schmeling's seconds had worked over him with ice and given him deep draughts of smelling salts. Sharkey stepped into Max with a left jab, then a right blow to the chin and brushed aside Max's countering left. The German rallied and fired a right hander to Sharkey's chin that shook up the American. The crowd roared as it landed. Sharkey swung both hands wildly at the crouching Schmeling's head. Sharkey settled down, took another right and smashed both hands to Schmeling's body. He crossed a right to the German's chin, but Max stayed up. As they clinched Sharkey tried to twist Schmeling. Then came a left to the body that dropped Schmeling, who lay writhing on the canvas. He could not rise, claiming he was fouled and the official verdict concurred.

SHARKEY-SCHMELING
June 21, 1932
Long Island City Bowl, L. I. City, N. Y.

Round 15—They came out swinging furiously with Max forcing Jack around. Schmeling had a little the better of the boxing and kept on top of Jack. Sharkey hooked a hard right to chin but the champion was strong and kept punching as they fought inside. Max was out for a kayo but the sailor fought back gamely, principally with his left hand. Jack took a mauling in a clinch but lifted hard right to chin. Jack tried for another haymaker but missed. They tugged at infighting with little action. Jack sent left to head and Max crossed a right to Jack's chin. Max forced Jack around, the smile of victory on his face. Jack fought back, his left hand out, and brought blood to Max's mouth with hard left. It was a dog fight now. Max had the better of an exchange at the end of the round. Sharkey insisted on going to Schmeling's corner as the round ended and spoke there to Max.

MARCIANO-LA STARZA
Polo Grounds, N. Y. City

Round Eleven—Rocky pumped a left to Roland's nose which appeared to be broken. The champ pounded another left and right to LaStarza's torn, bleeding face. Marciano smashed over a tremendous right to the chin but LaStarza gallantly fired back with a left and right of his own to the head and the fans roared. A tremendous right staggered LaStarza and then another right drove him through the ropes onto the apron of the ring. LaStarza took a nine count and then Marciano ripped after him. He pounded his helpless target with both hands and the referee halted the bout at 1:31.

MARCIANO-CHARLES
Yankee Stadium, N. Y. City

Round Fifteen—The men came out of their corners and shook hands. Charles sent a right to the head. Rocky shot a solid right to the face and Charles held. Marciano grazed Charles' face with a left and Ezzard held again. Marciano sent both hands to the head and Charles returned two solid left hooks to the face. Rocky fired both hands to the head and Ez retreated. Rocky tried with all his might to land a crusher, but Charles remained on his feet. Marciano won the round and retained his title.

MARCIANO-CHARLES
Yankee Stadium, N. Y. City

Eighth Round—They each got in hard left hooks to the jaw. Rocky was now cut over the left eye and bled from the nose cut. Charles shot a hard right to the eye cut and Rocky replied with a short right of his own. Charles smacked a right to the body and blocked Rocky's counter punches.

Rocky scored with a jab and Ezzard with a good left hook to the jaw. Rocky shook Ezzard again with a left and right to the jaw.

Another right dropped Charles for three. Rocky dropped Charles again with a flurry of punches and Marciano won by a knockout after 2:36 of the eighth.

A left hook was the blow that dropped Charles on his knees for the full count.

MARCIANO-COCKELL
Kezar Stadium, San Francisco

Ninth Round—Cockell appeared very tired as the bell sounded for the start of the round. He made feeble attempts at throwing punches. Marciano landed with a left and then an overhand right that dropped Cockell slowly. As he was going down, Marciano landed again. Cockell was down, in a sitting position for a count of seven.

Marciano landed with rights and lefts as the Britisher tried to punch back. He went down again and was up at the count of five. Referee Frank Brown stepped in at this point and stopped the fight. Elapsed time 59 seconds of ninth round.

MARCIANO-MOORE
Yankee Stadium, N. Y. City

Ninth Round—Moore's eyes were damaged but he had no difficulty seeing. Moore went back into the ropes as he took two rights. Archie fought back and got in a right to the face and left to the jaw. A left under the heart and a right to the face, followed by a left to the jaw knocked Moore down in his own corner. He held on to the ropes with both hands as Referee Harry Kessler counted to 8, and then tried to pull himself upright, but his legs went limp under him. He fell back on the ropes as the count went to ten. Elapsed time was 1:19 of the ninth round.

PATTERSON-MOORE
November 30, 1956
Chicago Stadium, Chicago, Ill.

Fifth Round—Moore missed a long right hand lead and Patterson missed two left jabs. Patterson landed with a left hook to the body and followed with two left hooks to the chin, reopening the cut alongside Moore's eye. Moore's sneaky right was blocked and Patterson chopped at the veteran's bleeding face with both hands.

Patterson slipped to the canvas as Moore missed a long right hand lead. Patterson knocked Moore down with a hard left hook to the jaw. Moore was up at the count of nine, but was quickly knocked down again with a right and left to the jaw.

Moore was counted out at 2:27 of the fifth round and Patterson won the vacant world's heavyweight title.

PATTERSON-JACKSON
Polo Grounds, N. Y. City

Tenth Round—Patterson landed three lefts to the head. Jackson looped a lazy right to the head. Jackson landed a right to the side of the head. Patterson broke through Jackson's guard with a sharp right hook. Jackson scored with four punches, the champ taking them easily as he searched for an opening. Patterson moved in with a hard right to the jaw. Patterson scrored with a hard left to the face and, as Jackson bounced off the ropes, referee Goldstein jumped in and grabbed Jackson. Hurricane objected but to no avail.

The fight was stopped at 1:52 of the tenth round, Patterson winning by a technical knockout.

PATTERSON-RADEMACHER
August 22, 1957
Sick's Stadium, Seattle, Wash.

Sixth Round—They sparred for several seconds before Rademacher landed a right to the face. Patterson hooked a left to the face. Patterson hooked another left to the face and Pete blinked. Patterson crossed a right to the head and dropped Rademacher for the count of eight. Patterson sent a hard left to the head. Rademacher took a right to the body and then fell to the canvas under a body barrage. He was still down at the count of ten.

Patterson was the winner by a knockout at 2:57 of the sixth round.

PATTERSON-HARRIS
August 18, 1958
Wrigley Field, Los Angeles, Calif.

Twelfth Round—Patterson reached out with a long left, jabbed three times to the face then crossed a right to the jaw. He pounded another hard right to the side of the face. Harris' cut left eye began to bleed again.

Patterson tossed a long right and Harris reeled against the ropes. He went down for the fourth time from a lopping right to the head and took a count of nine while resting on one knee.

Patterson cut loose with two smashing lefts and Roy was a bloody mess. Solid rights and lefts in quick succession followed, Patterson finding the target easy as he launched the final attack. The champion was short with a left and right to the head as Harris staggered to his corner. His seconds tossed in the towel as Roy sat limply on his stool after having survived four knockdowns and a savage beating. But the referee, before seeing the towel, had intervened and stopped the fight. Under California rules it was declared a knockout.

PATTERSON-LONDON
Indianapolis, Indiana

Round 11—When London came out for the eleventh round it was obvious the end had arrived. The knockdowns he suffered in the tenth round had done their damage. He had been saved by the bell at the count of five in the tenth and when the bell sounded for the eleventh, after missing London's head with a grazing right, Patterson caught Brian with a left and right to the body that floored him. A left hook dropped him again on his side and he was counted out in 51 seconds of that round.

PATTERSON-JOHANSSON
First Fight—June 26, 1959
Yankee Stadium, N. Y. City, N. Y.

Round 3—Johansson came out fast. His straight lefts hit the mark often. A minute after the round got under way, he took over.

A straight left was quickly followed by a right that struck the champion with terrific force on the chin. Then quickly came another right that put the champ down for a nine count. His legs were now rubbery and his eyes glassy.

Johansson leaped forth for the kill. He shot another right to the jaw and down went Floyd again for nine. He was wobbly when he arose. As he stepped forward, a right crashed again to the jaw and that Floyd got to his feet a third time, was a miracle.

A TNT right sent him spinning to the canvas for the fourth down and he took a seven count. Twice more he went down for counts of seven and nine, the fifth from a punch to the jaw and a shove and the sixth when Floyd started to turn his back walking toward the ropes.

Then came the final down and Referee Ruby Goldstein didn't do any more counting. He halted the one-sided affair in 2:03 of the round.

PATTERSON vs. JOHANSSON
(Second fight—June 20, 1960)
Polo Grounds, New York City, N. Y.

Round 5—Floyd opened up with a series of jabs to the face. He got inside and laced a right to the jaw. It was a beauty. Floyd missed a sweeping left to the head, then landed a left hook to the jaw and dropped Ingo for a count of nine. The blood was trickling from Johansson's mouth and from the cut over his left eye. The eye was puffed.

Now Patterson went all out. He landed a left hook to the head, then had Ingemar against the ropes. Several lefts to the jaw forced Ingo to turn his body completely around to avoid punishment. The champion held. Then with legs far apart, he tried desperately to steady and balance himself but Patterson was out for the kill.

He rushed in and a sweeping left hook dropped Ingemar flat on his back. His head hit the floor with a thud and for eight minutes he was unconscious. He didn't move as Referee Arthur Mercante counted him out in 1:51 of the fifth round. It took ten more minutes before he could leave the ring with the aid of officials and police.

PATTERSON vs. JOHANSSON
(Third Fight—March 13, 1961)
Convention Hall, Miami Beach, Florida

Sixth Round—They sparred for an opening. Johansson sent three long but light lefts to the face. Ingemar shot over a straight right to the jaw and backed Patterson against the ropes. Patterson seemed worried as a left landed on his jaw. He missed a left hook and the Swede quickly came in and sent several jabs to the face.

Floyd got in two stiff jabs but missed with a hard left hook to the body and a short right hook to the head. Ingemar moved in and tossed several rights and lefts to the body and one hard right to the jaw after which Patterson retreated and circled the ring.

Thus far the round was easily Johansson's. Patterson sent a left hook to the body but missed a right to the head.

Then came the thriller. Patterson landed a left between the Swede's eyes, and quickly followed with a downward chopping right that struck at the side of the ear. It was a stunner. Ingo went down and at the count of six he came up to one knee but he fell forward at the next count. He was still struggling to get to his feet when Referee Bill Regan counted him out. Ingemar lost by a fraction of a second. The time was 2.45.

LISTON vs. PATTERSON
September 25, 1962
Comiskey Park, Chicago, Ill.

They exchanged jabs and then traded blows to the body. Patterson leaped in with a left hook to the stomach. Liston pumped two hooks to the body at close quarters. Liston smashed a hard left hook to Patterson's jaw. They exchanged hooks to the body. Liston punished Patterson at close quarters.

A left hook dropped Patterson to the canvas. He started up at about six but never got to his feet as the referee counted 10. Time 2:06.

First bantamweight championship bout televised—the Billy Peacock-Henry Gault contest for the North American title, staged at Eastern Parkway Arena, Brooklyn, N. Y., August 17, 1953.

First time two champions weighed in for a bout on live television — Ezzard Charles, heavyweight champion, and Joey Maxim, light heavyweight champion, for their title fight on May 30, 1951, at Chicago, Ill. The weigh-in took place in a department store.

First studio championship fight—Staged by station TCN, Channel 9, in Sydney, Australia. Alan Gibbards defeated Jackie Bruce, Australian flyweight title holder in 15 rounds on points. 300 invited guests watched the fight. Jimmy Carruthers was the referee.

FAMOUS FIRSTS

The first boxer to receive a guarantee as a stand-in for a world championship match was Harold Johnson. On April 24, 1961, after he had knocked out Von Clay of Philadelphia in the second round in Philadelphia, Johnson, the N.B.A. lightheavyweight champion, was signed by the Madison Square Garden Club to be ready to take the place of Archie Moore should Archie fail to make the weight for his world title bout with Guilio Rinaldi of Italy, in a championship match scheduled for the Garden for June 10, 1961.

Johnson was guaranteed $5,000 and first chance to meet the winner, if Moore and Rinaldi fought. If Moore failed to make the weight, it was stipulated than Johnson would meet Rinaldi and that this fight would be recognized as a world championship match, since Moore would have lost his title by his failure to make the required weight.

Johnson previously had been crowned N.B.A. king when the National Boxing Association vacated Moore's throne for inactivity.

First Brazilian to win a world championship—Eder Jofre who stopped Piero Rollo of Italy to win the bantam crown on March 25, 1961 in Rio de Janeiro. The bout was held in the Botofogo Stadium.

The first time both the mandatory eight count rule and three knockdowns in one round terminating the fight was used in a championship match, was in that in which Harold Johnson of Philadelphia retained his National Boxing Association championship by knocking out Von Clay in the second round in Philadelphia on April 24, 1961.

First championship won on a disqualification under the Marquis of Queensberry Rules —On November 11, 1898 at the Lenox A.C. in New York City, George Dixon rewon the featherweight title when Dave Sullivan was disqualified by the referee when his seconds, led by his brother, Spike, entered the ring in the tenth round.

First time the mandatory eight count was used in a world heavyweight championship fight, was in the Floyd Patterson vs. Ingemar Johansson match in the Convention Hall, Miami Beach, Florida, March 13, 1961 in which Patterson knocked out the Swede in the sixth round.

The first time the "twenty seconds return" clause was inserted in the rules for a world heavyweight championship match, was in the Floyd Patterson vs. Ingemar Johansson bout in the Convention Hall of Miami Beach, Florida, March 13, 1961. The commission stipulated that in the event either fighter was knocked out of the ring, he would be given twenty seconds to return before he could be counted out.

The first time that the same heavyweights competed in bouts for the world heavyweight championship three successive times, was in the matches between Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson of Sweden. The first bout resulted in the knockout of Patterson by Johansson in the third round. The Swede won the world crown on June 26, 1959 in New York. On June 20, 1960, in New York Patterson regained the title by a knockout in the fifth round and on March 13, 1961, Patterson again knocked out Johansson, this time in the sixth round.

NEW YORK BOXING LAWS

The Horton Law—Governed boxing in New York State from November, 1896 to August 30, 1900, when it went out of existence with the Kid McCoy vs. James J. Corbett fight at Madison Square Garden.

The Lewis Law—Repealed the Horton Law in 1900

The Horton Law permitted fights to be conducted in New York State without any limit to the number of rounds to be fought and permitted decisions by referees and the posting of forfeits and side bets. The clubs did not have to pay license fees and the sport was not controlled by a state commission.

From 1900 to 1911, boxing was staged in New York on Club Membership basis.

The Frawley Law brought back boxing to New York State in 1911 and permitted boxing without decisions and limited them to ten rounds with a boxing commission in charge. The Frawley Law was repealed and went out of existence on November 15, 1917.

On February 5, 1918, The People vs. Packey O'Gatty. Anti-boxing law violation section 1710 Penal Code. Anti-boxing law violation upheld by Supreme Court Justice Peter A. Henrick, who rules that the repeal of Boxing law automatically ruled out membership boxing in New York.

The Walker Law went into effect on May 24, 1920, and the provisions included 15 rounds to a decision and supervision by a commission. It has served as a pattern for world wide boxing.

The Simpson-Brundage Bill reorganized the New York State Boxing Commission. It went into effect May 14, 1921. Under this law wrestling as well as boxing was placed in the hands of an unpaid commission and the office of the three commissioners, who were paid an annual salary of $5,000 each, was abolished. Three Deputy Commissioners at salaries of $4,000 each were appointed. The Walker Law was not changed by the reorganization.

In 1936 a bill was passed giving the Chairman a salary of $7,500 and the other Commissioners $50 for each meeting they attend.

The chairman receives $19,500 as annual salary.

In 1948 Col. Eagan adopted his 4 points scoring system supplementing the round by round scoring in New York.

In 1949 Governor Dewey appointed a nine-man Medical Advisory Board with Dr. Frank Ferlaino as its head. Dr. Mal Stevens now heads the Board.

In August, 1949, Boxing Commission adopted compulsory boxers' insurance for all fighters on each card, the fee to be taken off the net In case of death the estate receives $5,000.

In 1951 the Walker Law was amended to enable finger printing and the chairman's salary was raised to $13,500 from a previous $9,500.

In 1951 the New York Commission adopted the compulsory 8-count rule in knockdowns. This is waived in a championship fight.

The Commission also instituted a compulsory 30-days suspension for any fighter who is knocked out.

The use of 8-oz. gloves is also compulsory in all fights except championship bouts in which 6-oz. gloves must be used.

The No-foul rule was adopted March 23, 1930. The bandage rule was amended to give more to fighters on February 25, 1938.

N. Y. Legislature passed a rule signed by Gov. Lehman to tax gross receipts of all N. Y. fights, to include radio and TV with live gate on May 14, 1942.

Ban on insignia on robes or trunks was adopted on November 23, 1940.

The 3 knockdown rule was adopted on February 27, 1957.

On April 27, 1962 a rule was adopted granting permission to the ringside doctor to enter the ring during any round to examine an injured boxer and to order the referee to stop the fight if necessary.

The regulations which now rule boxing in New York and throughout America, are offshoots of those originally formulated by W. A. Gavin, a Britisher who came to the U. S. in 1919 to organize a social club featuring boxing.

Gavin came with a plan to build an International Sporting Club in exclusive Madison Avenue, along the lines of the famous National Sporting Club of London. He made contacts with men of wealth and they subscribed $1,500 each for memberships which money was to go for the purchase of a site and a building.

To carry out his plan, he announced the engagement of Tex Rickard as the matchmaker when the club was completed, thus adding interest and through Tex's contacts, getting the support of Wall Street businessmen.

Special rules for boxing were written by Gavin and his associates and within a few weeks, the hustling Englishman, aided by Tex O'Rourke whom he appointed secretary and Ned Brown, publicity director, obtained "angels" from whom he collected $382,000.

Gavin had an idea that because his organization was to be a social club with membership admission, he could carry on, but he soon learned that boxing was illegal due to the shelving of the Frawley Law and that the State legislators would first have to make it legal through a new law before he could operate.

He organized a group of 300, went to Albany and with the aid of James J. Walker, had a bill introduced to have boxing legalized. When passed, it became known as the Walker Law.

Rickard acted quickly when the bill was passed. He quit Gavin and through his friend Frank Armstrong, leased Madison Square Garden. Thus when boxing became legal in 1920, Tex had a monopoly on a million dollar industry because the Garden was the best arena to stage boxing and the biggest. Hence Gavin was shunted out of the picture and decided on a hasty exit to Engand.

When those who had bought membership demanded to know what had become of their money and an accounting was requested of the huge sum collected, Gavin took the first boat for England and left his "pals" stranded after declaring that the money was spent in "entertaining" state legislators. When asked what this entertainment was, he declared, "just common graft to have the bill passed. There is no money left."

Boxing under Rickard was an immediate success and in a short time, Massachusetts and other states followed New York's lead and boxing became legal in the majority of states where prior to the Gavin movement it was banned.

FAMOUS FIGHTING FISTS

One of the most interesting collections dealing with the history of Boxing is the exhibit of the casts of life sized FAMOUS FIGHTING FISTS. These Famous Fists may be seen at the office of the Ring Magazine, at Madison Square Garden.

The fists are the hobby of Dr. Walter H. Jacobs, a New York dentist, who boxed as an amateur and then became interested in improving the boxers' mouthguard.

The famous fists of the outstanding boxers of the past and present day are now saved for all time. Louis — Dempsey — Tunney — Armstrong — Dundee — Leonard — Zivic — Attell — Ross — Walker, Jack Johnson and 80 others are all part of the collection. The collection includes the fists of three of our last bare-knuckle fighters—Jack McAuliffe, undefeated lightweight champion (1897); Johnny Reagan, who fought the great Nonpareil Jack Dempsey 45 rounds; and Bob Cunningham who fought the last fight on the turf in America (1893).

With this collection boxing preserves the powerful fist of Paul Berlenbach, the classic hands of fast Billy Conn, the small but strong maulers of Tony Canzoneri, and many others.

Mouthpieces

Mouthpieces (or Gumshields), originated by Jack Marks, London dentist in 1902. Ted (Kid) Lewis is generally credited with having introduced mouthpieces—or "gumshields," as they are called in Britain—in boxing. As a youngster, beginning his ring career in London, Lewis frequently suffered torn lips from irregular teeth. A pal of his, an apprentice in a dental laboratory, suggested a protection, and experimented with a thin rubber cover for the teeth. It worked so well that Lewis used it regularly. That was about 1913.

When, the following year Ted went to Australia, he had his pal make up a half-dozen for him. From Australia, Lewis came on to the United States late in 1914 and used the mouthpiece in his New York debut against Phil Bloom in old Madison Square Garden on November 9th. In those days, mouthpieces were not allowed, and Lewis was in frequent arguments with opponents, referees and boxing officials, but in time the value of mouthpieces became recognized, and today they are virtual "musts" with all fighters.

James Belcher was the first to introduce a handkerchief in the ring — yellow colored — called a "Belcher", and was hung on ring post in his corner.

Automatic Timekeepers

The automatic timekeeper was first installed by the California Athletic Club and was used for eight years before any other club adopted it. The Peter Jackson-James J. Corbett fight, May 21, 1891, was the first in which it appeared. It not only timed the three-minute rounds but also sounded off the gong at the beginning and end of each round.

All of the California Club's fights thereafter were timed by this unique mechanism. It was installed to stop unscrupulous seconds and timers from cutting a bout short when a fighter was in danger of being knocked out or lengthening it. The Golden Gate A. C. and the Pacific Athletic Club, among others in California, installed the timer after its success was proved.

It was first adopted in New York in the new Madison Square Garden and because of its success is now used in every modern arena.

During the Horton Law Days of boxing in New York, many fights were cut short by gamblers to save their bets, particularly at clubs operated by Tom Sullivan where the wagering was always heavy. The Broadway A. C. and Lenox Club frequently were the centers of such accusations.

The first fighter to fly from a training camp to be weighed in for a contest was Gene Tunney, on September 23, 1926. He flew from Stroudsburg, Pa., to Philadelphia to have Commissioner Wiener weigh him in for the fight with Jack Dempsey.

In 1960 he flew twice around the world to judge title fights in Bangkok and Tokyo and in 1962 he made two more trips around the globe besides several to California and one to Brazil.

John Gaddi

John Gaddi, New York's premier amateur referee, staged one of boxing's greatest one night shows one March evening in 1916. In the finals of the New Jersey AAU tournament, held in Newark, N. J. Gaddi not only won three titles but did it all in one evening—a feat that oldtimers still talk about. He won the middleweight title, then proceeded to carry off honors in the light-heavyweight division and wound up by conquering the heavyweight crown. In 1917 he won the National AAU heavyweight title.

A great athlete, Gaddi carried his courage out of the ring and on to the field of battle. He was wounded 17 times fighting in the Argonne Forest in 1918.

James J. Coffroth—Promoter

Two championship fights were staged by Jim Coffroth two days apart. On Labor Day, September 7, 1908, at San Francisco, Abe Attell and Owen Moran fought a draw of 23 rounds and on September 9, the Mexican Labor Day, Coffroth put on the Gans-Nelson fight at Colma, California, with Nelson winning on a knockout in the twenty-first round.

James J. Coffroth staged the only world championship fight ever scheduled for twenty-three rounds, that between Attell and Moran on Labor Day, 1908. Previously, on January 1 of that year, they fought a draw of 25 rounds and in the return bout, Coffroth figured he could make the affair a better attraction by changing the limit. Instead of increasing it he made it 2 rounds less, figuring that the odd number of 23 would bring considerable publicity and it did.

Championship Weight Changes

Willie Ritchie, after winning the lightweight title from Ad Wolgast on November 28, 1912 at 133 pounds, increased the weight limit to 135 the following day and thereafter that weight became the standard championship limit for the class.

Greatest Total Weight

The greatest total weight in bout was between Ewart Potgieter, of South Africa, at 335 lbs., and Bruce Olson, of Seattle, Wash., at 266 lbs., for a total of 601 pounds, at Portland, Ore., on March 2, 1957. Potgieter scored a knockout in the sixth round.

Greatest Weight Difference

The greatest weight difference in fight in which internationally known fighters participated—140 pounds. Bout between Ed Dunkhorst and Bob Fitzsimmons, April 30, 1900.

The greatest weight difference in a world championship fight was that in the bout between Primo Carnera and Tommy Loughran at Miami, March 1, 1934. Carnera, 270 pounds; Loughran, 184 pounds.

HISTORIC DATA

Gloves

Boxing gloves were first used in 1818. A French publication of October 9, of that year, has the following: "Yesterday a great exhibition was made by English boxers. The two champions were built like Hercules and were naked to the waist. They entered the ring with their hands guarded with huge padded gloves. After a severe test, one of them, more adroit than the other, struck him so violent a blow on the breast that he fell and victory was thus decided."

Skin-Tight Gloves

Skin tight gloves were used during the skin tight gloves era of boxing in the last half of the nineteenth century and were made to order to fit snugly the hands of the men who were to use them. They were made of the best French Kid without seams in back and were made to lace without the aid of eyelets. They had lace-holes worked with silk, to fasten the gloves around the hands.

The old feather bed gloves were first tried out during the Broughton era of boxing in England. The first type gloves were 10 ounces. Then reduced to eight, then to six and to four. The stake matches were fought with 2 ounce gloves.

Last 2-Ounce Gloves Fight

The last 2 ounce gloves fight took place between Jimmy Briggs of Chelsea, Mass., and Tony Daly of Baltimore at the Windsor Theatre of Boston, Mass., on May 22, 1903, and was won by Briggs in 15 rounds.

In all contests in America, the weight of the boxing gloves is eight ounces except in championship fights in which in divisions under the light heavyweight, the weight is five ounce gloves and in the light heavyweight and heavyweight class, six ounces.

Bowen's Distance Bouts

Andy Bowen, a Mulatto from New Orleans, was one of the best lightweights the South ever produced. On December 29, 1891, he fought Austin Gibbons in a contest that went 48 rounds, with him losing. The time was 3 hours and 41 minutes.

On April 6, 1893 he fought his famous record fight of 110 rounds with Jack Burke. the fight lasting 7 hours and 19 minutes. They could not continue and the referee called it no contest.

Still another long fight was that with Jack Everhardt, May 31, 1893. That went 85 rounds and lasted 5 hours and 38 minutes, with Andy winning.

He fought Jimmy Carroll a 25 round draw at New Orleans on August 8, 1894 then lost in 18 rounds to Kid Lavigne on December 14, 1894. The following day Andy died.

He has the record for long contests.

The Jack Johnson vs. Jim Jeffries fight was the only major fistic attraction in modern ring history that was staged without any preliminary bouts.

Adoption of Knockdown Timer

Prior to the adoption of the Walker Law in New York, the referee started the count when a fighter was floored. Now in all states, the knockdown timer or timekeeper starts the count and the referee picks it up from him. California was the first state to adopt this system.

The timekeeper who has served longest in that capacity in championship and other fights, is George Bannon, who handles the watch for International Boxing Club fights in New York and for other clubs for more than half a century.

Sportswriters and Promoters

Some sports writers who gained fame as referees included Ed Smith, of Chicago, Bat Masterson, of New York; Tom Andrews, of Milwaukee; Fred Digby, of New Orleans; Ed W. Cochran, of Kansas City; George Barton, of Minneapolis; Joseph Murphy, of St. Louis; Otto Floto, of Denver; E. W. Dickerson, of Grand Rapids; Bill Crowhurst, and Billy Rocap of Philadelphia; and Nat Fleischer of New York, among others.

World's Leading Promoters

The most famous promoters in America since the Sullivan-Corbett fight were James J. Coffroth, Tom Carey, Tex Rickard and Mike Jacobs. It was Coffroth who made many revolutionary changes in the sport which were later adopted by Rickard and Jacobs.

In the bare knuckle era and until the rise of the Olympic Club which staged the Sullivan-Corbett fight in New Orleans, promoters were practically unknown. Backers put up the money and side bets were made to make a fight worth staging, with the winner usually taking all.

In Europe, Jack Solomons of England and Gilbert Benaim of France topped the bill.

Boxing Writers' Association

The Boxing Writers' Association of New York was the first organized in America. Its membership has been expanded to include writers from New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and Delaware. It was organized in 1926.

Record Reporters at Fight

The largest turnout of newspapermen to report a fight was at Miami Beach, Fla., for the fight between Young Stribling and Jack Sharkey, Feb. 27, 1929. A total of 448 reporters covered the fight and came from all parts of the world—England, France, Japan, India, Australia, Sweden, Belgium, Italy, Cuba, Brazil, Argentine, Mexico, Panama and the United States and its territories. Bill Hannigan and Nat Fleischer were in charge of the publicity and the visiting scribes.

First newspaper to assign a reporter to a fight camp to report on the training was the New York Herald. Joseph Elliot covered Tom Hyer's camp in Rockport, Md., for his fight with Yankee Sullivan on February 7, 1849.

Fights Stopped Between Rounds

There is much confusion caused when a fight is stopped during the rest period between the rounds. This is caused by the fact that New York state considers that period part of the concluded round and the new round does not begin until the bell sounds. However, in most of the other states in the U. S. and other parts of the world, the round is considered over as soon as the bell sounds. Thus a fight stopped between the fifth and sixth rounds would be listed as the fifth round if the fight took place in New York and the sixth round elsewhere.

Eight Count

In all N.B.A. territory and New York, a fighter must take an eight count when downed.

First time the mandatory eight count was used in a world heavyweight title fight, was that in which Floyd Patterson knocked out Ingemar Johansson on March 13, 1961, in the Miami Beach Convention Hall.

Champs with Unique Records

When Vic Toweel won the world bantamweight corwn within seventeen months after starting out as a professional, he set a mark. His was the shortest time within which a boxer had won a world title.

Tony Canzoneri held eight titles, including his amateur crowns. As a pro he held the featherweight title, the junior welterweight title and twice was holder of the lightweight crown. He earned a ten round draw with Bud Taylor in a bantamweight title bout. He fought in four divisions.

Canzoneri won the lightweight title on a one round knockout over Al Singer and regained the crown after Barney Ross' retirement by beating Lou Ambers.

Tod Morgan, who won the junior lightweight title by defeating Mike Ballerino on December 2, 1925, fought in the flyweight, bantamweight, featherweight, lightweight and welterweight divisions.

Georges Carpentier of France was the only fighter to campaign in all eight weight divisions.

Ted Kid Lewis fought six weight divisions, from the featherweights up.

Johnny Coulon twice defended his bantam weight crown in 20 round bouts within a space of two weeks. Won from Frankie Conley, February 3, 1912 at Vernon, Calif., and in the second Frankie Burns was beaten on February 18, 1912 at New Orleans, La.

Ray Robinson won the welter title in 1946, then gave it up when he won the middle title in 1951. He lost it to Randy Turpin and rewon it from Turpin the same year, then retired in 1952.

Made a comeback and rewon the title from Bobo Olson in 1956. He lost and rewon the title in bouth with Gene Fullmer in 1957, and later the same year, lost it to Carmen Basilio.

He rewon it from Basilio in 1958 then lost it to Paul Pender in 1960.

Tommy Freeman won the welterweight title from Young Jack Thompson in September, 1930 and during the seven months he held the crown, he defended it six times.

Fought Three Times on One Day

Battling Levinsky set a record for boxing three main-events, in different locales, on New Year's Day, 1915. In the morning he went ten no-decision rounds with Bartley Madden in Brooklyn; in the afternoon he boxed another no-decision ten-rounder with Soldier Kearns in New York, and in the evening he fought a twelve-round no decision with Gunboat Smith in Waterbury, Conn.

Use of Oxygen

James J. Corbett was the first to use oxygen in his corner. Tommy Ryan administered it to him in the 1903 fight with Jim Jeffries August 14, 1903, San Francisco, Calif

In the Jeffries-Corbett second fight (1903) Jeffries received $32,727, which up to that time was the largest purse given to a pugilist in America. Corbett received $6,250.

Tony Galento knocked out three men in one night, at Detroit, on August 6, 1931. He stopped his opponents, Frankie Kits, in one round; Joe Brian, in one round, and Paul Thierman, in three rounds.

Boxing Mythology

Pugilism comes from the Latin Pugilatus which was borrowed from the Greek, Pugno, Pignis, Pugnare, which signify anything in the form of a box. The human fist, when closed or clenched, is a closed box, according to the authorities who have traced the development of the terms pugilism to that of boxing. The Greek word pugme means a fist doubled for fighting; pugnos means a fight

In mythology, the father and god of boxing is Pollux, twin brother of Castor, legendary son of Jupiter and Leda.

A free translation of Horace is, "Pollux and wandering Hercules, by sparring, gained a place in heaven. Eryx, son of Venus, conquered all opponents with the use of the caestus until he faced Hercules, who killed him."

The Greeks and Romans fought with the caestus fastened about the hands, and often used a helmet called amphotidus, as a protection for the head.

Britain's Boxing Starts

Though boxing was known for many centuries as a form of entertainment, James Figg popularized it in England in 1718. His successor, a British champion, James Broughton, was the first to introduce gloves for fighting purposes. He opened an academy and to protect his pupils from getting black eyes, bloody noses and broken jaws, as he expressed it in his advertisements, he introduced the use of mufflers, which were similar to gloves.

First Hebrew Fighter

Daniel Mendoza, a Hebrew who toured the British Isles and Ireland with Astey's Circus, organized the first boxing gymnasium in Ireland and later taught the Irish the finer points of scientific pugilism of which he was a master. He popularized boxing in Dublin. He was the first Hebrew fighter.

First Championship Fight in Israel

On June 26, 1962 Alphonse Halimi regained the European bantamweight title by outpointing Piero Rollo of Italy in Tel Aviv.

Bill Richmond, servant of a British Army officer on Staten Island, New York, a Negro who possessed much boxing skill, was the first native American to engage in a pugilistic affair in the British Isles.

First Actor-Pugilist

The first pugilist to gain recognition as an actor, was Jack Randall, a picturesque boxer who was dubbed the "Nonpareil." He was the first to be nicknamed "The Nonpareil."

Louis Down 10 Times

Joe Louis was put down a total of ten times in his career—Max Schmeling, twice; James J. Braddock, once; Tony Galento, once; Buddy Baer, once; Jersey Joe Walcott, three times and by Rocky Marciano, twice, when Joe made a comeback attempt.

Boxers Turned Preachers

Many fighters, among them some famous ones, turned to preaching after their retirement. Among them are (in the bareknuckle days) Isaac Perkins, Bendigo, Silverthorne, Ben Hogan, James Dupe, Morris Roberts and George Giles, and (in the modern, glove era) Billy Smith, Kid Wedge, Sailor Eddie Huffman, Con O'Kelly, Willie Houck, Tommy Burns, Henry Armstrong and Charles E. Stoney Jackson.

Weight Limits in 1889

Bantamweight 108; Featherweight 115; Lightweight 133; Welterweight 145; Middleweight 154; Heavyweight over 154.

Filipino Fighters

Macario Flores, welter champion of the Philippines, was the first Filipino boxer to come to America to box in our country.

Silvino Jamito was the first Filipino to box in Australia.

Frank Malinao was the first Filipino to box in Japan.

Pancho Villa was the first Filipino to win the Oriental flyweight championship, the American title when he stopped Johnny Buff in New York on September 14, 1922 and then the world title, when he halted Jimmy Wilde at the Polo Grounds, June 18, 1922.

He also knocked out George Mendies, Australian flyweight king on December 8, 1921 in Manila.

Ceferino Garcia was the first Filipino to fight for the welterweight championship of the world against Barney Ross, September 23, 1937 and against Henry Armstrong, November 25, 1938.

Japanese Fighters

Japan's first heavyweight championship fight was staged on May 5, 1957 in Tokyo. The 10-rounder saw Noboru Kataoka beat Yutaka Nakagoshi decisively to become Japan's first heavyweight champion.

Kataoka, 25, weighed 176¼ and Nakagoshi, 25 also, scaled 188⅛. Both are ex-Sumo wrestlers. A crowd of 4,000 took in the first heavyweight title fight in Japan. It was televised.

Kataoka felled Nakagoshi in the fourth round for a 7-count. Nakagoshi in a previous match had knocked out Kataoka. The defeat was the first for Nakagoshi in five bouts.

Germany

December 3, 1910, Berlin—Berlin's first successful prize fight was at the Alhambra Theatre between the American Negro welterweight, Bobby Dobbs of New York, and Dick Green of Chicago. Dobbs was the Chicagoan's master from the outset and knocked him out in the 16th round with a hard right hand smash to the jaw.

The Berlin police only permitted the encounter after all the ticket-holders formally became members of the club under which auspices the contest was held.

The first world championship fight held in Germany was the Harold Johnson-Gustav Scholz, light heavyweight title fight in Berlin on June 23, 1962.

Shadow Boxing

Shadow boxing was first practiced in China. Historic data have been uncovered which indicates that during the reign of Emperor Hung-Ti, he had his army drill in twisting, side-stepping, dodging, bobbing and weaving against an imaginary foe. This was done to condition the soldiers and corresponded to our style of shadow boxing, now in common use at all training camps.

Former Heavyweight Champions Who Refereed Heavyweight Title Bouts

James J. Jeffries was the first former champion to referee a heavyweight title contest when he acted as the third man in the bout between Tommy Burns and Marvin Hart in Los Angeles, Calif. on Feb. 23, 1906. Jeffries also refereed the Burns-O'Brien, Burns-Squires and the contest between Hart and Jack Root in which Jim gave his title to Hart following his knockout of Root, however, Hart was never recognized as champion.

Jersey Joe Walcott became the second former champion to act as a referee when he officiated the Patterson-McNeeley fight in Toronto on December 4, 1961.

HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE BOUTS OUTSIDE U.S.A.

On December 2, 1907 Tommy Burns kayoed Gunner Moir in London, England, in 10 rounds. Later Burns kayoed Jack Palmer in London in 4 rounds on Feb. 10, 1908.

Also in 1908, he kayoed Jem Roche in 1 round in Dublin on March 17. Burns then kayoed Jewey Smith and Bill Squires in Paris on April 18 and June 13 respectively. He kayoed Smith in 5 rounds and Squires in 8 rounds.

Burns then went to Australia where he kayoed Squires again in 13 rounds on August 24, then on September 2 kayoed Bill Lang in 6 in Melbourne before meeting Jack Johnson.

On December 26, 1908, Jack Johnson stopped Tommy Burns, Sidney, Australia, 14 rounds; November 28, 1913 Jack Johnson knocked out Andre Sproul, in Paris, France, 2 rounds; December 13, 1913, Jack Johnson drew with Jim Johnson, 10 rounds, Paris, France; June 27, 1914, Jack Johnson defeated Frank Moran. 20 rounds, Paris, France.

Jess Willard knocked out Jack Johnson in the 26th round at Havana, Cuba, April 5, 1915, in a heavyweight title bout.

On October 22, 1933, Primo Carnera defended his title against Paulino Uzcudun at Rome, Italy. They also represented the most "tonnage' ever carried into a title fight. Carnera weighed 259½, Uzcudun, 229¼, for a total of 488¾ pounds

On December 4, 1961 Floyd Patterson knocked out Tom McNeeley in the fourth round at Toronto, Canada. The fight was seen on Theatre Television in both the United States and Canada.

FIRST PICTURES OF A FIGHT

The first use of a motion picture camera to film fighters in action, was the Edison Kinetoscope, at the Edison Laboratories, Llewellyn, N. J., which pictured James J. Corbett and Peter Courtney in six rounds. It was filmed in the Kinetographic Theatre, known as the Black Maria, the first movie 'house'. It was built for the Edison Company in 1893 and it was in that year that Corbett consented to go through a fight scene with Courtney for the first fight film ever made. The 'movie house' was painted black, both inside and out, and could be revolved on its base to follow the sunlight. It was called the Edison Kinetoscope.

First projection picture—1894—Woodville Latham perfected a machine similar to the Kinetoscope with an added feature of being able to project the picture on a screen. He and his sons, Grey and Otway, figured they could make more money by having more people see the picture at one time instead of awaiting their turn as was necessary with the Edison Kinetoscope.

For their first picture they used Young Griffo and Charley Barnett of New York and the picture was made on the roof of the old Madison Square Garden. It was first on display to the press on May 20, 1895 and then was released to the public, 30 years almost to the date of the demolition of the old Garden to make room for the present Metropolitan Life Insurance Company building. They also used Eugene Sandow in a series of strong man's exhibitions and filmed it for a twenty minutes reel.

First championship fight picture filmed was the Corbett-Fitzsimmons bout, March 17, 1897. Enoch J. Rector photographed it on 38 mm film for the Veriscope, a machine specially built for the occasion for use outdoors, something they didn't have before then.

In 1899 William J. Brady filmed the first picture under artificial light—the Jeffries-Sharkey fight at Coney Island. The heat of 400 arc lamps almost cooked the contestants, yet they went 25 rounds with Jeffries winning a sensational battle. Besides the lights, it was a very hot day.

The situation was not improved when Brady discovered a Vitagraph cameraman taking the pictures of the fight. He was in the twentieth row. Brady got out an injunction and the company that took the film was fined and couldn't use any of it.

First motion pictures of a fight in three dimensions (3-D), the Rocky Marciano-Jersey Joe Walcott world heavyweight title bout at Chicago, Ill., May 15, 1953.

In 1882 when Joe Goss was in America and lost in 87 rounds to Paddy Ryan, the latter laid claim to the American Heavyweight Title and it was this title that John L. Sullivan won when he beat Ryan in 1882.

Sullivan later laid claim to World's title after stopping Charley Mitchell in 3 rounds in Madison Square Garden, New York, but his claim was disputed.

When he and Corbett fought, the promoters listed the bout as a world title contest.

AMERICAN BARE KNUCKLE CHAMPIONS

American heavyweight history did not begin with the arrival of Mace, but his presence eventually made possible the establishment of a world's champion at bare knuckle fighting. The history of pugilism in the U.S.A. before the arrival of Mace follows:

1816—The first actual pugilistic encounter on American soil was in 1816 when Jacob Hyer defeated Tom Beasley. Hyer won and declared that this made him champion. He never fought again and the "title" was vacant for 25 years.

1841—Tom Hyer, son of Jacob, claimed his father's laurels. He was 22, weighed 205, was 6 feet 2½ inches tall. John McCuster disputed Hyer, and Tom beat McCuster easily.

1849—Hyer met Yankee Sullivan, an experienced English battler, who was in the U.S.A. and knocked out Sullivan on February 7, 1849, in 16 rounds, after which Tom Hyer, failing to find anyone to give him action, retired.

1852—John C. Morrissey claimed the American championship.

1853—Morrissey defeated Yankee Sullivan, October 12th, 1853, in 37 rounds.

1858—Morrissey fought John C. Heenan, in Long Point, Canada. Heenan broke his right hand in the first round of the fight with Morrissey, but carried on until the 11th, when he was forced to quit. Heenan challenged for a return match, but Morrissey refused and retired from the ring.

1859—Heenan claimed title and in 1860, unable to get action in the U.S.A., sailed for England, fighting Tom Sayers in 1860 and Tom King in 1863.

1863—Owing to Heenan's continued absence from the U.S.A., Joe Coburn and Mike McCoole became joint claimants for the American championship. Coburn knocked out McCoole in 63 rounds, May 5, Cumberland, Md.

1865—Coburn announced retirement; McCoole claimed title.

INTERNATIONAL BARE KNUCKLE CHAMPIONS

In 1869, Tom Allen, a Britisher who had settled in the U.S., claimed the American crown after defeating several opponents. This claim was disputed by Mike McCoole and a bout was arranged to settle the matter of supremacy and to determine the American champion.

1869—McCoole and Allen met June 15th near St. Louis, McCoole winning on a questionable foul in nine rounds.

1870—Mace, regarded as world's champion by succession to Tom King's vacated throne, stopped Allen, 10 rounds, May 10th, near Kennersville, La.

1871—Mace and Joe Coburn, who returned from retirement, fought twice without result. The first was halted by police. They met again near St. Louis, November 30, 1871, fought 12 rounds, withdrew from the ring and referee called it a "draw." Coburn again retired and never returned.

1873—Mace, 42 years old, retired. He devoted himself thereafter to teaching boxing in the U.S.A. and England and died in 1911 at the age of 80.

1873—McCoole and Allen, the ancient and rival claimants, returned to the ring. They battled near St. Louis, September 23, and Allen stopped McCoole. McCoole retired. Allen called himself "World's Champion."

1876—Joe Goss, rated next to Mace in England, arrived in the U.S.A., and challenged Allen. They fought near Covington, Ky., September 7th. Allen was disqualified in the 21st for fouling. That victory made Goss the world's champion under London Prize Ring Rules.

1880—(June 21) Paddy Ryan, an American, knocked out Goss in the 87th round (1 hr. 24 min.) on May 30th, near Colliers Station, W. Va., in a fight for the world's championship. Ryan thus became the first American to hold the undisputed bare knuckle championship of the world.

1882—(Feb. 7) John L. Sullivan knocked out Ryan, in 9 rounds, in Mississippi City, Miss., and became the last of the bare knuckle world champions. Sullivan was never defeated as a London Prize Ring Champion and though he lost to Corbett in the first gloves title bout, he retained his bare knuckle crown.

Sports Writers generally acknowledge Corbett as the first world champion under gloves rules, though some dispute this claim and give the crown to Jeffries.

MARQUIS OF QUEENSBERRY RULES

John Sholto Douglas, eighth Marquis of Queensberry, who succeeded to the title in 1858 and died in 1900, was responsible for putting these rules into effect to supercede the London Prize Ring code. Under the new rules a round consisted of three minutes and a rest period of one minute. The new rules were written by John Graham Chambers. The Marquis was not the author. He merely permitted his name to be used as the sponsor. The code first appeared in 1867. Chambers was a member of the Amateur Athletic Club and, as was the custom in those days, he sought a patron to lend his name and Queensberry acquiesced, thereby gaining a lasting fame he really didn't deserve. Here are the rules:

Rule 1—To be a fair stand-up boxing match in a twenty-four foot ring, or as near that size as practicable.

Rule 2—No wrestling or hugging allowed.

Rule 3—The rounds to be of three minutes' duration, and one minute's time between rounds.

Rule 4—If either man fall through weakness or otherwise, he must get up unassisted, ten seconds to be allowed him to do so, the other man meanwhile to return to his corner, and when the fallen man is on his legs the round is to be resumed, and continued until the three minutes have expired. If one man fails to come to the scratch in the ten seconds allowed, it shall be in the power of the referee to give his award in favor of the other man.

Rule 5—A man hanging on the ropes in a helpless state, with his toes off the ground, shall be considered down.

Rule 6—No seconds or any other person to be allowed in the ring during the rounds.

Rule 7—Should the contest be stopped by any unavoidable interference, the referee to name the time and place as soon as possible for finishing the contest; so that the match must be won and lost, unless the backers of both men agree to draw the stakes.

Rule 8—The gloves to be fair-sized boxing gloves of the best quality and new.

Rule 9—Should a glove burst, or come off, it must be replaced to the referee's satisfaction.

Rule 10—A man on one knee is considered down, and if struck is entitled to the stakes.

Rule 11—No shoes or boots with springs allowed.

Rule 12—The contest in all other respects to be governed by revised rules of the London Prize Ring.

LONDON PRIZE RING RULES 1838 (Revised 1853)

1. The ring shall be made on the turf, and shall be four-and-twenty feet square, formed of eight stakes and ropes, the latter extending lines, the uppermost line being four feet from the ground, and the lower two feet from the ground. In the center of the ring a mark to be formed to be termed a scratch.

2. Each man shall be attended to the ring by two seconds and a bottle-holder. The combatants, on shaking hands, shall retire until the seconds have tossed for choice of positions, which adjusted, the winner shall choose at his corner, according to the state of the wind or sun, and conduct his man thereto, the loser taking the opposite diagonal corner.

3. Each man shall be provided with a handkerchief of a color suitable to his own fancy, and the seconds shall entwine these handkerchiefs at the upper end of one of the center stakes. These handkerchiefs shall be called "colors" and the winner of the battle, at its conclusion, shall be entitled to their possession as the trophy of victory.

4. The two umpires shall be chosen by the seconds or backers to watch the progress of the battle, and take exception to any breach of the rules hereinafter stated. A referee shall be chosen by the umpires unless otherwise agreed upon, to whom all disputes shall be referred; and the decision of this referee, whatever it may be, shall be final and strictly binding on all parties, whether as to the matter in dispute or the issue of the battle. The referee shall be provided with a watch for the purpose of calling time; the calling of that referee only to be attended to, and no other person whatever shall interfere in calling time.

5. On the men being stripped it shall be the duty of the seconds to examine their drawers, and if any objection arises as to the insertion of improper substances therein, they shall appeal to their umpires, who, with the concurrence of the referee, shall direct what alterations shall be made.

6. The spikes in the fighting boots shall be confined to three in number, which shall not exceed three-eights of an inch from the sole of the boot, and shall not be less than one-eighth of an inch broad at the point; two to be placed in the broadest part of the sole and one in the heel; and in the event of a man wearing any other spikes, either in toes or elsewhere, he shall be compelled either to remove them, or provide other boots properly spiked, the penalty for refusal to be a loss of the stakes.

7. Both men being ready, each shall be conducted to that side of the scratch next to his corner previously chosen; and, the seconds on the one side and the men on the other, having shaken hands, the former shall immediately leave the ring, and there remain until the round be finished, on no pretense whatever approaching the principals during the round without permission from the referee, the penalty to be the loss of the battle to the offending parties.

8. At the conclusion of the round when one or both of the men shall be down, the seconds shall step into the ring and carry or conduct their principal to his corner, there affording him the necessary assistance, and no person whatever be permitted to interfere in this duty.

9. On the expiration of thirty seconds, the referee appointed shall cry "Time," upon which each man shall rise from the knee of his second and walk to his own side of the scratch unaided; the seconds immediately leaving the ring. The penalty for either of them remaining eight seconds after the call of time to be the loss of the battle to his principal; and either man failing to be at the scratch within eight seconds shall be deemed to have lost the battle.

10. On no consideration whatever shall any person except the seconds and the referee be permitted to enter the ring during the battle, nor till it shall have been concluded; and in the event of such unfair practice, or the ropes or stakes being removed or disturbed, it shall be in the power of the referee to award the victory to the man who, in his honest opinion, shall have the best of the contest.

11. The seconds shall not interfere, advise, or direct the adversary of their principal, and shall refrain from all offensive and irritating expressions, in all respects conducting themselves with order and decorum, and confine themselves to the diligent and careful discharge of their duties to their principals.

12. In picking up their men, should the seconds wilfully injure the antagonist of their principal, the latter shall be deemed to have forfeited the battle on the decision of the referee.

13. It shall be a fair "stand-up fight," and if either man shall wilfully throw himself down without receiving a blow, whether blows shall have been previously exchanged or not, he shall be deemed to have lost the battle; but this rule shall not apply to a man who in close, slips down from the grasp of his opponent to avoid punishment, or from obvious accident or weakness.

14. Butting with the head shall be deemed a foul, and the party resorting to this practice shall be deemed to have lost the battle.

15. A blow struck when a man is thrown or down shall be deemed foul. A man with one knee and one hand on the ground, or with both knees on the ground, shall be deemed down, and a blow given in either of these positions shall be considered foul, providing always that, when in such position, the man so down shall not himself strike, or attempt to strike.

16. A blow struck below the waistband shall be deemed foul, and when close, seizing an antagonist below the waist by the thigh or otherwise shall be deemed foul.

17. All attempts to inflict injury by gouging or tearing the flesh with the fingers or nails, and biting shall be deemed foul.

18. Kicking or deliberately falling on an antagonist with the knees or otherwise, when down, shall be deemed foul.

19. All bets shall be paid as the battle-money after the fight is awarded.

20. The referee and umpires shall take their positions in front of the centre stake outside the ropes.

21. Due notice shall be given by the stakeholder of the day and place where the battle-money is to be given up, and be exonerated from all responsibility upon obeying the direction of the referee; all parties to be strictly bound by these rules, and in future all articles of agreement for a contest be entered into with a strict and willing adherence to the letter and spirit of these rules.

22. In the event of magisterial or other interference, or in the case of darkness coming on, the referee (or stake-holder in case no referee has been chosen) shall have the power to name the time and place for the next meeting, if possible, on the same day, or as soon after as may be.

23. Should the fight not be decided on the day, all bets shall be drawn, unless the fight shall be resumed the same week, between Sunday and Sunday, in which case the referee's duties shall continue and the bets shall stand and be decided by the event. The battle-money shall remain in the hands of the stake-holder until fairly won or lost by a fight, unless a draw be mutually agreed upon, or, in case of a postponement, one of the principals shall be absent, when the man in the ring shall be awarded the stakes.

24. Any pugilist voluntarily quitting the ring previous to the deliberate judgment of the referee being obtained shall be deemed to have lost the fight.

25. On an objection being made by the seconds or umpires the men shall retire to their corners, and there remain until the decision of the appointed authorities shall be obtained; if pronounced "foul" the battle shall be at an end, but if "fair," "time" shall be called by the party appointed, and the men absent from the scratch eight seconds after shall be deemed to have lost the fight. The decision in all cases is to be given promptly and irrevocably, for which purpose the umpires and the referee should be invariably close together.

26. If a man leaves the ring, either to escape punishment or for any other purpose without the permission of the referee, unless he is involuntarily forced out, he shall forfeit the battle.

27. The use of hard substances, such as stones or sticks, or of resin in the hand during the battle, shall be deemed foul, and on the requisition of the seconds or either man, the accused shall open his hands for the examination of the referee.

28. Hugging on the ropes shall be deemed foul. A man held by the neck against the stakes or upon or against the ropes, shall be considered down, and all interference with him in that position shall be deemed foul. If a man in any way makes use of the ropes or stakes to aid him in squeezing his adversary, he shall be deemed the loser of the battle, and if a man in close reaches the ground with his knee, his adversary shall immediately loose him or lose the battle.

29. All glove or room fights to be as nearly possible in conformity with the foregoing rules.

BROUGHTON'S RULES 1743

1. That a square of a yard be chalked in the middle of the stage; and at every fresh set-to after a fall, or being parted from the rails, each second is to bring his man to the side of the square and place him opposite to the other, and till they are fairly set-to at the lines, it shall not be lawful for the one to strike the other.

2. That, in order to prevent any disputes, the time a man lies after a fall, if the second does not bring his man to the side of the square, within the space of half a minute, he shall be deemed a beaten man.

3. That in every main battle, no person whatever shall be upon the stage, except the principals and their seconds; the same rule to be observed in by-battles, except that in the latter, Mr. Broughton is allowed to be upon the stage to keep decorum and to assist gentlemen to get to their places; provided always he does not interfere with the battle; and whoever presumes to infringe these rules, to be turned immediately out of the house. Everybody is to quit the stage as soon as the champions are stripped, before they set-to.

4. That no champion be deemed beaten unless he fails coming up to the line in the limited time; or that his own second declares him beaten. No second is to be allowed to ask his man's adversary any questions, or advise him to give out.

5. That, in by-battles, the winning man to have two-thirds of the money given, which shall be publicly divided upon the stage, notwithstanding any private agreements to the contrary.

6. That, to prevent disputes, in every main battle, the principals shall, on the coming on the stage, choose from among the gentlemen present, two umpires, who shall absolutely decide all disputes, that may arise about the battle; and if the two umpires cannot agree, the said umpires to choose a third, who is to determine it.

7. That no person is to hit his adversary when he is down, or seize him by the ham, or breeches, or any part below the waist a man on his knees is to be reckoned down.

HOW A FIGHT IS SCORED

Here's how a fight is scored in New York under State Commission rules. The Judges and referee judge the fight on both round-by-round scoring and point scoring. If a fight ends in a draw so far as rounds scored are concerned, then the official records a winner based on the point score. Here is how Col. Eddie Eagan's point system works:

Numbers from one to four are used in this system as listed below. The points, one to four, take into account all the elements that go into winning a round—clean hitting, effective aggressiveness and defense.

(1) One point is scored for the boxer winning the round by a shade, zero for the loser.

(2) When the round is a clear win, two points will be credited to the winner and zero for the loser.

(3) If it is a one-sided round, the winner will receive three points and the loser none. Three points are also awarded if a fighter scores a knock-down and is well out in front.

(4) If it is a one-sided round plus more than one knock-down the winner of the round will receive four points.

In the majority of States that are members of the National Boxing Association the 5 point must system is used. In this system the winning fighter, if he shades his opponent, receives 5 points and the loser 4. A clean knockdown with a clear margin for the round gives the winner 5 to 3, and so down the line.

Massachusetts, Ohio, Texas, Miami Beach, use the 10 points must system.

New Jersey uses rounds system. California uses a five point system under which the winner of a round can get anywhere from 1 to 5 points while the loser receives none. An even round is scored 0-0.

BREAKDOWN OF OFFICIALS' CARDS IN SCORING

The Tippy Larkin-Lulu Costantino lightweight fight at Madison Square Garden, New York, on Wednesday, February 9, 1944, was the first time that the breakdown of the officials' cards were announced over the loudspeaker. Instead of merely announcing "Winner—Larkin," the announcer, George Kobb, gave the breakdown as Judge Joe Agnello, 9-1 for Larkin, Judge Sam Robinson, 8-2 for Larkin, Referee Arthur Susskind (Young Otto), 9-1 for Larkin, "Winner by unanimous decision—Tippy Larkin."

FAMOUS RING REVERSALS

JACK McAULIFFE vs. PHILADELPHIA TOMMY RYAN

September 30, 1897, Scranton, Pennsylvania

Jack McAuliffe, undefeated lightweight champion, in come-back bout, defeated at catchweights, Philadelphia Tommy Ryan, a welterweight, in a 10-round bout.

Referee Pat Murphy first gave the decision to Ryan, although McAuliffe had best of the fight. It was agreed before the fight that the decision should be a draw and that McAuliffe would not try to put Ryan out. The referee, thinking that the decision should go to Ryan if he was on his feet at the end of the tenth round, gave the Philadelphian the decision

After the fight, however, when he became acquainted with the agreement, Murphy changed the decision, giving it to the furious McAuliffe.

In the second round McAuliffe floored Ryan, giving him a chance to get up and recover.

This is the first reversal under the Marquis of Queensberry Rules in America.

WILLIE LEWIS vs. DIXIE KID

April 29, 1911, Paris, France

Dixie Kid (Aaron L. Brown), former holder world welterweight title, defeated Willie Lewis, 20 rounds.

The referee gave Lewis the decision.

The next day the referee's decision was reversed by a jury of Parisian sportsmen in favor of Dixie Kid.

PACKEY O'GATTY vs. ROY MOORE

January 21, 1921, New York, New York

Packey O'Gatty defeated Roy Moore, the St. Paul bantamweight, on a foul in 3 rounds of a scheduled 15-round bout. Upon leaving the ring, referee Ed Pollack was congratulated by Deputy Commissioner Walter Hook. The next day Hook held up O'Gatty's purse; changed the decision to "No-Contest"; suspended O'Gatty, the winner; his manager, Jimmy Twyford and the referee for 90 days. O'Gatty and Twyford instigated legal action against the Commission for interfering with the decision of the referee.

The case was tried before Justice John MacCrate in the State Supreme Court, Brooklyn, New York, on April 11, 1921. Justice MacCrate ruled that the referee's decision under the Walker Law should stand.

Thus, the O'Gatty-Moore match resulted in the first reversal of a referee's decision under the Walker Law. The legal action definitely established a referee's verdict as final. O'Gatty had a special Bill passed by a State to gain payment for the bout.

Senators James J. Walker and Jeremiah F. Twoomey drew up a Bill, which passed the Senate, and Governor Nathaniel Miller signed it on March 18, 1922. This resulted in New York State, for the first time in its history, paying a boxer his purse, $1,252.50.

MIKE McTIGUE vs. YOUNG STRIBLING

October 4, 1923, Columbus, Georgia

Mike McTigue, world light-heavyweight champion, and Young Stribling fought 10 rounds to a draw. Referee Harry Ertle was surrounded by a mob of infuriated partisan fans who convinced Ertle to change the verdict. He did, and proclaimed Stribling the winner and new world light-heavyweight champion.

Three hours later, when Ertle, McTigue and his manager Joe Jacobs were safely out of Georgia, Ertle telephoned the press services and Georgia papers that he had nullified the verdict in Stribling's favor and that the original draw decision was correct.

Young Stribling, for three hours, was the world light-heavyweight champion.

JOE DUNDEE vs. CHARLIE O'CONNELL

February 25, 1925, New York, New York

(The Boxing Board had passed a rule a few months before, making it obligatory for a referee to disqualify a boxer who went down without being hit.)

Joe Dundee of Baltimore, who later became welterweight title holder, was floored by Charlie O'Connell of Cleveland for a nine-count. Dundee was groggy when he arose and, without being struck, went down to one knee. Referee Jim Crowley immediately disqualified Dundee and awarded the decision to O'Connell. The referee and the two fighters had just left the ring when Deputy Commissioner John J. Phelan, then a Colonel, but later a General, rushed to the ringside, roaring: "All of you get back into the ring and continue the fight."

The referee remained adamant and said his decision would stand. The fighters re-entered the ring and the bout went on, under protest of the referee. O'Connell received the decision at the end of the 10 rounds.

TOMMY LOUGHRAN vs. RAY IMPELLETTIERE

November 22, 1933, New York, New York (At the Bronx Coliseum)

Tommy Loughran's lower lip was bleeding so badly in his fight with Ray Impellettiere that, in the sixth round, referee Pete Hartley stopped the fight. Boxing Commissioner Bill Brown ordered Hartley to let the fight go on. Loughran won the decision in 10 rounds.

RAY ROBINSON vs. GERHARD HECHT

June 24, 1951, Berlin, Germany

World middleweight champion Ray Robinson was disqualified for using kidney blows on Gerhard Hecht and was the loser on a foul. A riot followed. Twelve hours later Robinson was given a clean bill of health by the Berlin Boxing Commission, which reversed the referee's decision to "No-Decision."

CARMEN BASILIO vs. CHUCK DAVEY

May 29, 1952, Syracuse, New York

The official verdict originally gave Carmen Basilio the decision over Chuck Davey in a 10-round bout, but discrepancies on the referee's card resulted in a reversal to a draw by Commissioner Robert K. Christenberry.

JOEY GIARDELLO vs. BILLY GRAHAM

December 19, 1952, New York, New York (At Madison Square Garden)

Joey Giardello won over Billy Graham in a 10-round bout. Referee Ray Miller's score card was 5-4-1 for Giardello; Judge Charles Shortell, 7-3 for Graham and Judge Joe Agnello (Joe Coster), 6-4 for Giardello. Commissioners Bob Christenberry and C. B. Powell, at the ringside, changed Agnello's card to 5-5 rounds and 6-5 points for Graham, which gave him the bout.

On February 17, 1953, before State Supreme Court Justice Bernard Botein in New York City, the ruling was reversed, which gave Graham the decision over Giardello after the latter had been voted the victor in a split decision.

This marked the second time in the history of New York State Boxing that a boxer brought successful court action against the Commission for a reversal of a decision.

JOEY GIARDELLO vs. WILLIE VAUGHN

March 27, 1957, Kansas City, Missouri

The official verdict gave Willie Vaughn of California the bout over Joey Giardello by two to one. The referee Ray Sissom's card was incorrectly marked and the verdict was officially changed to "No-Decision" by the Boxing Commission. It was a 10-round bout.

WILF GREAVES vs. DICK TIGER

June 22, 1960 (Edmonton, Alberta, Canada)

The fight was announced as a draw. After rechecking the card of referee Johnny Smith, who had scored the bout 5-5-5, it was discovered he had scored it 6-4-5 for Greaves thus giving the decision to Greaves, and along with the verdict the British Empire Middleweight Title. The two judges voted as follows: Dr. Les Willocks, 7-5-3, Greaves; Dr. Louis Schwartz, 9-6, Tiger.

BASILIO-DAVEY FIRST FIGHT

(May 29, 1952, War Memorial Auditorium, Syracuse, N. Y.)

Referee Palmer—Rounds: Davey 3; Basilo 3; Even 4.

Judge Fazio—Rounds: Davey 5; Basilio 5.
Points: Basilio 6; Davey 5.

Basilio was first declared the winner but a check of the officials' scorecards revealed that Referee Palmer's point score, favoring Basilio, was incomplete. The New York State Athletic Commission eventually tossed the referee's card out and based the revised decision, a draw, on the cards of the two judges.

GIARDELLO-VAUGHN

(March 27, 1957, Municipal Auditorium, Kansas City, Mo.)

	Referee Sissom										Judge Robbins
Giardello	5	4	5	5	4	4	4	5	4	5—45	5	4	5	5	4	5	5	5	4	5—47
Vaughn	5	5	4	4	5	5	5	5	5	4—47	4	5	3	3	5	4	4	4	5	4—41
	Judge Brown
Giardello	5	5	5	5	4	5	4	4	4	4—45
Vaughn	4	4	4	5	5	5	5	5	5	5—47

Though the fight was being scored under the 5-point system (winner of the round receives 5 points, the loser 4 points or less),

Referee Sissom inadvertantly scored the rounds under the 10-point divisable system (even round 5-points for each fighter, the winner of a round to get 6 or more points, the loser 4 points or less).

On his revised card (above), one point was taken away from Vaughn in the 2nd, 5th, 6th, 7th and 9th rounds; one point was taken away from Giardello in the 3rd, 4th, and 10th rounds. The Missouri Athletic Commission later declared the referee's card void and the bout officially recorded as ending in "no decision."

GOLDEN GLOVES COMPETITION

Conceived by the late Arch Ward, Sports Editor of the Chicago Tribune, First Golden Gloves Chicago tournament took place in 1926.

In 1927, Paul Gallico, Sports Editor of the Daily News of New York, an affiliate of the Chicago Tribune, launched the Golden Gloves in New York.

The following year, the Inter-city Golden Gloves championships were staged for the first time.

In subsequent years one newspaper in each major city where amateur boxing took place, was granted the right to stage a tourney for its locality with the champions chosen to compete in Madison Square Garden for the Eastern titles and those in the Mid-West, central part of the U. S. and the Far West finalists competing in Chicago for the Western championships.

Then came the national finals with the East vs. West champions competing alternately in Chicago and New York for the right to face a picked European team, alternating yearly in American and in Europe.

Golden Glovers, some of whom won sectional and national titles before turning professional, have gone far as pros. Those who won world championships, either universally recognized or recognized either by the National Boxing Association or the New York Commission follow:

THE TUNNEY-MULDOON TROPHY

The Tunney-Muldoon trophy was established in October 1928 by Gene Tunney following his retirement as heavyweight champion. It is a beautiful granite and bronze statue on which stands a boxer and on the sides of the base are plaques containing the names of world heavyweight kings from John L. Sullivan through Joe Louis. None of the champions following Louis are as yet listed.

A Board of Trustees, named by Tunney when he made the gift and had the trophy placed in the entrance of Madison Square Garden in December, 1928, consisted of Herbert Bayard Swope, Executive Editor of the "Evening World"; Judge Jeremiah Mahoney of the New York State Supreme Court; George L. "Tex" Rickard; John McE. Bowman, President of the Bowman-Biltmore Hotels Corporation and Bernard Gimbel, a close friend of Tunney and merchandise king. William Muldoon, Chairman of the New York Boxing Commission, was selected by Tunney as Chairman of the Board.

The Board of Trustees, at its first meeting, voted to have the names of John L. Sullivan, James J. Corbett, Robert Fitzsimmons, James J. Jeffries, Jack Johnson, Jess Willard, Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney inscribed on the bronze tablet, eliminating Tommy Burns, but when a controversy was raised over the status of Burns, Nat Fleischer, Editor of The Ring Magazine, was added to the personnel of the Board of Directors to act in an advisory capacity and through his efforts, the name of Burns as a universally recognized title holder, was placed among the champions.

After the death of Rickard the list of title holders was brought up to date, with Joe Louis the last name inscribed. On one bronze tablet are the names of Sullivan, Corbett, Fitzsimmons, Jeffries, Burns, Johnson and Willard. The second bronze tablet bears the inscriptions of Dempsey, Tunney, Schmeling, Sharkey and Carnera and the third tablet has the names of Baer, Braddock and Louis.

The bronze and marble trophy, according to the deed of gift, "is to be 'awarded' to each champion heavyweight who may never gain possession of it but may have his name inscribed upon the bronze with the years in which he held the crown and the trophy should remain in an appropriate place where it shall stand as a model for perseverance, honesty and courageousness, a gift to the public from the donors, William Muldoon and Gene Tunney."

It represents the highest ideals in the field of sport, ideals so well practiced and preached by the donors.

THE NONPAREIL'S GRAVE

During the past year many requests were received asking where a copy of the poem, "The Nonpareil's Grave," written by "MacMahon," could be obtained. The poem, concerning Jack Dempsey, the Nonpareil, has been acknowledged as one of the most famous ever written about a boxing celebrity. It was written by MacMahon, a newspaper man in Portland, Oregon, following futile attempts to discover Dempsey's burial place.

Admirers in New York, where the boxer had lived for many years, had assumed that relatives or friends in Oregon, where he had died, had taken care of the plot, but when many of his old comrades reported they could find no trace of it, a search was made by MacMahon who, after locating the sacred ground, wrote the story of his discovery in the form of a poem. He did not sign it, but had it published anonymously, quit his job as a reporter and it was not until many years later, after his death on December 10, 1899, that through papers he had left, a copy of his poem with his name, was discovered. Here is the poem:

Far out in the wilds of Oregon,
On a lonely mountain side,
Where Columbia's mighty waters,
Roll down to the ocean side;
Where the giant fir and cedar
Are imaged in the wave,
O'ergrown with firs and lichens,
I found Jack Dempsey's grave.

I found no marble monolith,
No broken shaft, or stone,
Recording sixty victories,
This vanquished victor won;
No rose, no shamrock could I find
No mortal here to tell
Where sleeps in this forsaken spot
Immortal Nonpareil.

A winding wooden canyon road
That mortals seldom tread,
Leads up this lonely mountain,
To the desert of the dead.

And the Western sun was sinking
In Pacific's golden wave,
And those solemn pines kept watching,
Over poor Jack Dempsey's grave.

Forgotten by ten thousand throats,
That thundered his acclaim,
Forgotten by his friends and foes,
Who cheered his very name.
Oblivion wraps his faded form,
But ages hence shall save
The memory of that Irish lad
That fills poor Dempsey's grave.

Oh, Fame, why sleeps thy favored son
In wilds, in woods, in weeds,
And shall he ever thus sleep on,
Interred his valiant deeds?
'Tis strange New York should thus forget
Its "bravest of the brave"
And in the wilds of Oregon,
Unmarked, leave Dempsey's grave.

TECHNICAL TERMS USED IN BOXING

Television fight viewers frequently are confused by the technical terms used by announcers. For the benefit of such persons, here are the definitions of terms used in boxing:

Bell—The gong that is used to indicate the start and finish of a round.

Blocking Punches—This is a defensive form of fighting. When used, a boxer prevents serious damage by warding off the attack, either by catching the blows with open gloves, stopping them with arms, elbows, shoulders or closed fists.

Bobbing and Weaving—A swaying movement of the body used in an effort to confuse an opponent.

Clinch—To hold or hug an opponent.

Counter Fighter—A boxer who continuously waits for his opponent to lead before delivering his own punch.

Crouch—A position in which the body is stooped low or bent and from such a position the boxer tosses his punches.

Decision—The official verdict at the end of a bout. It is decided by a referee and two or three judges, based on the locality in which the contest is staged. In some places three judges are used and the referee has no say in the verdict.

Defensive—A fighter not engaged in attacking his opponent but in protecting himself from his opponent's blows.

Elbowing—Placing the elbow against the throat of an opponent.

Feint—To lead toward one part of the body with the intention of striking another if the opponent shifts his guard to offset the original motion.

Foul—Any act by a contestant which is contrary to the rules of boxing.

Glass Jaw—A boxer who is easily knocked down or out by a blow on the chin or jaw.

Handlers—The fighter's seconds.

Haymaker—A knockout blow.

Heeling—The use of the palm of the inside of the glove with the open hand.

Hook—A punch delivered at close range from the side with the elbow hooked.

Infighting—Fighting at close range.

Jab—A straight punch, in the case of a right handed fighter, delivered with the left hand either to head or body.

Kidney punch—A blow in the back over the kidneys. During a clinch such a punch is a foul blow and is not permitted. If, however, a kidney punch lands that was tossed while neither fighter was holding, it is a fair blow.

Leading—Setting the pace or taking the initiative.

Left hook to the jaw—A punch delivered while the body is slightly turned to the right and as the blow lands on the jaw, the arm is bent.

Left hook to the body—The same as the right to the body, but instead of the body being slightly twisted toward the left, it is twisted toward the right and the punch, when it lands, is done with the arm bent.

Offensive—Signifies that the fighter is attacking his opponent.

One-two punch—It is a left jab and a right cross delivered with rapidity to the opponent's jaw almost as one punch.

Pacing oneself—Working according to a definite plan of action.

Parrying a punch—This consists in stopping the straight punch of an opponent by sharply striking his fist or arm with the palm of the open hand as the opponent is tossing the blow.

Pier Six Brawl—A rough contest, devoid of science.

Pillows—Large heavy training gloves. They weigh 10, 12, 14 and 16 ounces.

Rabbit punch—An illegal blow. It is a sharp punch to the base of the brain, and is very dangerous.

Reach—The distance from the tip of the middle finger of one hand to the other, measured when the arms are fully extended in opposite directions.

Right to the jaw—A blow that is delivered at short range straight from the shoulder to the jaw of an opponent.

Ring—See Squared Circle.

Sidestep—A movement to one side of an opponent to avoid a blow.

Solar Plexus Blow—A blow that lands over the nerve center in the diaphragm immediately below the ribs.

Spar—To make offensive or defensive gestures without coming into contact with an opponent's body.

Squared Circle—A boxing ring. It varies from 16 feet to 24 feet. It has four posts and an apron of at least one foot that extends beyond the ring ropes. The posts are connected with three heavy strands of ropes and the floor has a heavy mat or rubber composition to protect a fighter when floored.

Stance—The posture employed by a fighter. It is the position he assumes in the ring.

Straight left—A tantalizing punch that tends to knock an opponent off balance. It is delivered straight from the shoulder. It is called a left jab.

Swing—A blow delivered in a circular movement.

Technical knockout (TKO)—A term used in some states to signify that a bout has been halted by a referee because of an injury, or because a fighter is unfit physically to continue, or is so far outclassed, he has no chance to win. No count is made, or if it has been started, it has not been completed.

Technical draw—A decision rendered in California and Connecticut and several other States indicating that a fight could not be continued because of an accidental injury suffered by one of the opponents or both half of the bout has been completed, then the decision in those states is awarded to the one who is ahead on points. Otherwise it is called a "technical draw."

Uppercut—A punch delivered with an upward movement, with either hand, to the jaw or body.

Weigh-in—Taking the weight of the contestants on official scales. The weigh-in is supervised by officials and takes place on the day of the fight.

HISTORY OF THE LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT CLASS

The light heavyweight class came into being in 1903. It was fathered by Lou Houseman, Chicago newspaper man and boxing promoter. Houseman was managing Jack Root, who, after scoring many victories as a middleweight, had outgrown that division. Houseman conceived the idea that a grade should be established to include men between the middle class, then set at 158 pounds, and the heavyweights, with such big fellows as Jim Jeffries, scaling 216 pounds, as leader.

Sports editors throughout the country supported the Houseman proposition, which set the scaling mark for the light heavyweight division at 175 pounds. James Coffroth also lays claim to starting the division.

April 22, 1903—Jack Root and Kid McCoy met at Detroit, Mich., in a ten round bout, with the new championship title at stake. Root clearly outpointed McCoy and was awarded the decision.

July 4, 1903—George Gardner became light heavyweight champion by knocking out Jack Root in 12 rounds at Buffalo, N. Y.

November 25, 1903—Bob Fitzsimmons succeeded George Gardner as light heavyweight champion, winning a 20 round decision on points before a San Francisco club.

December 20, 1905—The title passed to Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, on a knockout of Fitzsimmons at San Francisco in 13 rounds.

O'Brien, although recognized as the light heavyweight champion, went on fighting heavyweights without attempting to defend the title up to the time of his retirement from the ring, in 1912.

May 28, 1912—Jack Dillon, known as the Giant Killer, claimed the light heavyweight title, but like O'Brien, devoted most of his time to meeting genuine heavies. But on October 24, 1916, Battling Levinsky, scaling below the 175 pound mark, defeated Dillon in 12 rounds on points, at Boston, and was recognized as king of the light heavyweight division.

October 12, 1920—Georges Carpentier of France, knocked out Levinsky in four rounds, at Jersey City, N. J.

Carpentier was light heavyweight champion of Europe, and by defeating Levinsky became world's titleholder of the class.

January 13, 1922—Gene Tunney outpointed Battling Levinsky in 12 rounds and took over the American title, which he lost on a point decision to Harry Greb in the old Madison Square Garden on May 23, 1922, in 15 rounds.

September 24, 1922—Battling Siki, Senegalese Negro, knocked out Georges Carpentier in Paris, in 6 rounds, winning the world's light heavyweight title.

February 23, 1923—Tunney outpointed Greb in 15 rounds in Madison Square Garden but relinquished his claim to the light heavyweight title by entering the heavyweight ranks.

March 17, 1923—Mike McTigue whipped Siki on points at Dublin, Ireland, in 20 rounds and became the light heavyweight champion of the world.

On May 30, 1925—Paul Berlenbach defeated McTigue on points in New York, in 15 rounds.

July 16, 1926—Paul Berlenbach was defeated on points in 15 rounds in Brooklyn, by Jack Delaney.

Delaney entered the heavyweight ranks in 1927, and the light heavyweight title was reclaimed by Mike McTigue.

October 7, 1927—Tommy Loughran became light heavyweight champion, by outpointing McTigue in 15 rounds in New York.

Loughran gave up his title in August, 1929, to join the heavyweight division. A tourney to determine Loughran's successor was arranged by the New York State Athletic Commission. In the final of this tournament, Jimmy Slattery outpointed Lou Scozza at Buffalo, on February 10, 1930, in 15 rounds.

June 25, 1930 — Maxie Rosenbloom clinched his claim to the light heavyweight championship by decisively outpointing Slattery in 15 rounds at Buffalo, and defeated him again on a 15-round decision in Brooklyn, August 5, 1931.

The National Boxing Association ignored the New York Commission's choice and after a tournament in Chicago declared George Nichols king of the grade on March 18, 1932.

November 16, 1934—Bob Olin became light heavyweight champion by outpointing Maxie Rosenbloom in 15 rounds in New York.

October 31, 1935—Bob Olin lost the title to John Henry Lewis on a 15 round decision at St. Louis, Mo.

John Henry Lewis resigned to enter the heavyweight class and in an elimination tournament, Melio Bettina and Tiger Jack Fox were the survivors. They fought in Madison Square Garden on February 3, 1939, Fox was stopped in ninth round.

September 25, 1939—Billy Conn defeated Melio Bettina, 15 rounds, Madison Square Garden, to win international recognition as world light heavyweight champion.

Jan. 13, 1941—Anton Christoforidis defeated Melio Bettina, Cleveland, O., in N.B.A. elimination tournament for N.B.A. crown.

June 4, 1941—Billy Conn retired as light heavyweight king to enter heavyweight ranks and fight Joe Louis for the title.

May 22, 1941—Gus Lesnevich defeated Anton Christoforidis, Madison Square Garden, 15 rounds, to decide U. S. supremacy.

August 26, 1941—Gus Lesnevich defeated Tami Mauriello, Madison Square Garden, 15 rounds, Mauriello being the leading challenger, following the knockout of Jimmy Webb, New York's champion. Webb was matched with Lesnevich but the knockout eliminated Webb.

The British and European boxers were inactive due to the European war, and in view of the superiority of the American light heavyweights over those of Continental Europe and England at the time, international recognition as world champion was given to Lesnevich and he became Conn's successor. He successfully defended his title against Freddie Mills in 1946, and Billy Fox in 1947.

July 26, 1948—Freddie Mills defeated Gus Lesnevich, London, 15 rounds, to become champion.

On May 23, 1949 Joey Maxim defeated Gus Lesnevich, 15 rounds, at Cincinnati, O., for American light heavyweight title.

January 24, 1950—Joey Maxim won the title by stopping champion Freddie Mills in ten rounds at London, England.

December 17, 1952—Archie Moore won the title by decisioning Joey Maxim over fifteen rounds at St. Louis, Mo.

On February 7, 1961, after the N.B.A. had lifted Moore's title, Harold Johnson kayoed Jesse Bowdry in 9 rounds at Miami Beach, Fla. to win the N.B.A. title. Meanwhile, Moore still recognized by every other boxing board, defeated Giulio Rinaldi of Italy in New York City on June 10, 1961.

However in February 1962, N. Y. withdrew its recognition of Moore and when Johnson beat Doug Jones of New York in fifteen rounds in Philadelphia on May 12, 1962, Johnson was given international recognition.

HISTORY OF THE MIDDLEWEIGHT CLASS

April 13, 1867—The first American pugilist to obtain recognition as middleweight champion was Tom Chandler, when he defeated Dooney Harris with bare knuckles in 23 rounds in San Francisco, for a $5,000 side bet.

July 17, 1872, George Rooke challenged Chandler. The latter ignored the defiance and the title passed to Rooke, who lost it to Mike Donovan. The retirement of Donovan in 1882, left the middleweight throne vacant until two years later, when George Fulljames of Toronto, Ontario, Canada, issued a challenge to any middleweight in the world.

Jack Dempsey, later to become known as "the Nonpareil," accepted the Fulljames challenge, and the men met at Great Kills, S. I., N. Y. on July 30, 1884. They fought with heavy driving gloves, and Fulljames was knocked out in the 22nd round.

From then on, Dempsey successfully defended the middleweight crown until August 27, 1889, when he was knocked out by George La Blanche, "the Marine," in the 32nd round of a battle at San Francisco. The knockout punch was a "pivot blow," subsequently declared foul, and the use of which was barred in this country and abroad. La Blanche was overweight in this battle and Dempsey was still recognized as title holder.

January 14, 1891, Dempsey lost the title to Bob Fitzsimmons at New Orleans by a knockout in 13 rounds.

Fitzsimmons, who found he could not continue to fight at 154 pounds and retain his strength, availed himself of the privilege then possessed by all champions, of altering weight standards to suit their own convenience, and named 158 pounds as the middleweight class limit.

It was at this weight that he met and knocked out his countryman—Dan Creedon, at New Orleans, on September 26, 1894 in 2 rounds.

This was Fitzsimmon's only defense of the middleweight crown, as his fight with Hall was at 163 pounds for Fitz and 167½ for Hall. Fitz entered the heavyweight ranks, and subsequently won the blue ribbon of the ring by knocking out James J. Corbett, in 1897, at Carson City, Nev. During the intervening years Fitz's battles were all fought at catchweights, but he continued to pose as middleweight king until after his victory over Corbett. Then he no longer made any pretense of being able to make 158 pounds, and Tommy Ryan was universally recognized as middleweight champion, having defeated the best men in his division.

Tommy Ryan, Kid McCoy and Philadelphia Jack O'Brien laid claim to the title and each had a host of supporters.

In 1907, Ryan retired after he had defeated all comers and had been generally recognized as the king of the division.

The best among the newcomers was Stanley Ketchel. He was awarded the honors by international scribes after he had whipped Mike Twin Sullivan at Colma, Cal., February 22, 1908.

September 7 of the same year, Ketchel was knocked out in 12 rounds at Los Angeles by Billy Papke.

November 26, 1908, Ketchel turned the tables on his former conqueror, knocking Papke out in 11 rounds at San Francisco.

October 15, 1910, Stanley Ketchel was shot and killed by a ranch-hand named Walter Dipley, at Conway, Mo.

Billy Papke claimed the title, and defended it against Willie Lewis at Paris, France, on March 19, 1910, winning on a knockout in three rounds. Cyclone Johnny Thompson outpointed Papke in 20 rounds at Sydney, Australia, on February 11, 1911, but by the following year Thompson had outgrown the middleweight class. Papke reclaimed the crown. His claim was disputed by Frank Mantell and a bout was arranged for Sacramento, Feb. 22, 1912, in which Mantell beat Papke in 20 rounds and laid claim to the title. He received considerable support from U. S. scribes but was not universally recognized. Other claimants were Jimmy Clabby, Mike Gibbons, Jeff Smith, Eddie McGoorty, Jack Dillon and Frank Klaus.

For two years the title was in dispute but after Papke had lost on a foul to Klaus in 15 rounds on March 5, 1913 in Paris, Klaus was acclaimed universally as the new champion.

December 23, 1913, Klaus was knocked out by George Chip, at Pittsburgh, in 5 rounds.

Al McCoy then became middleweight champion by knocking out George Chip before a Brooklyn club in one round, on April 6, 1914.

In 1915 the weight for the middleweight class was set at its present limit of 160 pounds.

November 14, 1917—McCoy lost the title to Mike O'Dowd, who kayoed him in 6 rounds, in Brooklyn.

May 6, 1920—Johnny Wilson took a 12 round decision over O'Dowd in Boston. The verdict was protested as unfair by O'Dowd's backers, and was severely criticized by some sport critics. But Wilson claimed the title and was recognized.

March 17, 1921, he clinched his claim by decisively defeating O'Dowd in a 15 round battle at New York, being returned winner on points.

July 27, 1921—Johnny Wilson was awarded a decision on a foul in the 7th round of a bout with Bryan Downey at Cleveland, Ohio. A singular situation then arose, for the members of the Cleveland boxing commission refused to abide by the referee's verdict, claiming that Wilson had lost by a knockout. The press did not support the stand taken by the commission.

August 31, 1923—Johnny Wilson was dethroned by Harry Greb who outpointed him in a 15 round battle for the middleweight championship at the Polo Grounds.

December 3, 1923—Greb eliminated Bryan Downey from the title-claiming list by decisively whipping him in 10 rounds at Pittsburgh, Pa., whereupon Downey retired from the ring.

Harry Greb remained champion for a period less than two weeks short of three years.

February 26, 1926—Greb was outpointed by Tiger Flowers at New York, in 15 rounds, Flowers thus becoming the first Negro to hold the middleweight title.

December, 1926—Mickey Walker succeeded Flowers, when he was given a ten round decision over the clever Negro at Chicago, Ill. Walker held the championship crown until June 19, 1931, when he quit the class.

Two elimination tournaments were staged —one by the New York Boxing Commission —the other by the National Boxing Association, the object in each case being to select a new titleholder.

Gorilla Jones came out on top in the N.B.A. tourney, and Ben Jeby was okayed as champion by the New Yorkers.

Gorilla Jones went to Paris, France, where he fought Marcel Thil, European middleweight champion.

June 11, 1932—Jones lost on a foul to Marcel Thil in the eleventh round. Thil was at once recognized as world's champion by the N.B.A., and the International Boxing Union. But the New York Boxing Commission refused to concur in this decision, and insisted that Ben Jeby was champion.

Thil added lustre to his laurels by whipping both the British champion, Len Harvey and the German champion, Eric Seelig. By so doing, Thil undoubtedly established himself as the world's outstanding middleweight, having defeated every champion in that class, except the New York commission title holder.

August 9, 1933—Ben Jeby was knocked out in 7 rounds by Lou Brouillard, at New York City, the latter thus acquiring what the New York Commission designated as the middleweight title.

October 30, 1933—Brouillard was outpointed in 15 rounds by Vince Dundee, in Boston.

September 11, 1934—Dundee lost a 15-round decision to Teddy Yarosz in Pittsburgh, Pa.

September 19, 1935—Yarosz was outpointed by Babe Risko in 15 rounds, in Pittsburgh.

July 11, 1936—Freddy Steele outpointed Babe Risko in 15 rounds, in Seattle, Wash. It should be noticed that in all of these five battles nothing more than the American middleweight championship could have been at stake, as Thil held the world title.

Brouillard had lost to Thil on a foul in 6 rounds at Paris, France, on February 15, 1937. Misled by a story published in the Paris Soir to the effect that Thil had retired, THE RING MAGAZINE listed Fred Steele as world's middleweight champion. The retirement story was denied by Thil, and consequently THE RING then supported Thil in his claim that he was still the world's middleweight titleholder.

Marcel Thil came to America and was matched with Fred Apostoli. In order to protect Steele from the possible danger of losing the title with which they had endowed him, the members of the New York Boxing Commission refused to sanction the Thil-Apostoli bout, unless both principals signed an agreement stipulating that no championship was at stake, no matter what the weight. Absurd as it may seem, this was done.

September 23, 1937—Apostoli defeated Thil in 10 rounds at the Polo Grounds in New York, on the Carnival of Champions card, but did not claim the crown, because of the agreement he had made with the French champion.

Prior to this, July 11, 1936, Babe Risko had lost to Freddy Steele in Seattle in 15 rounds in an N.B.A. title match and the officials of the National Boxing Association tagged Steele the champion.

Freddie also had gained the New York support, hence, though Apostoli had properly gained the world championship by defeating the real crown wearer at the weights, he was prevented from gaining the title because under compulsion of the New York Commission, he had to sign an agreement which kept him from claiming the championship if he beat Thil.

The New York Commission then tried to arrange a Steele-Apostoli fight for the title, to decide international supremacy, but failed.

An overweight match was arranged in which Apostoli came in one and a half pounds over the limit (by agreement), and in that bout, January 7, 1938, he stopped Steele in the ninth, after Freddy had been given a rest on a claim of foul. The bout was held in the Garden.

Steele refused to give Apostoli another chance at the weight.

July 26, 1938—Al Hostak knocked out Steele in one round to win the championship of the N.B.A., at Seattle.

Nov. 1, 1938—Al Hostak lost title to Solly Krieger, Seattle, Wash., in 15 rounds, decision. (N.B.A. middleweight title.)

June 27, 1939—Solly Krieger knocked out by Hostak in 4 rounds, at Seattle. (N.B.A. middleweight title.)

October 2, 1939—Fred Apostoli was knocked out by Ceferino Garcia, 7 rounds, Madison Square Garden. (For New York version of world title.)

July 19, 1940—Al Hostak knocked out by Tony Zale, Seattle, 13 rounds (N.B.A. title match.)

On the other side of the picture, Fred Apostoli had been okayed as champion by the New York Commission which dethroned Steele because he refused to meet Apostoli.

May 23, 1940—Ceferino Garcia was defeated by Ken Overlin, Garden, 15 rounds. (For New York's version of world title.)

May 9, 1941—Billy Soose defeated Ken Overlin, Garden, 15 rounds. (For New York version of world title.)

Therefore at the time there were two title holders, an N.B.A. champion, Tony Zale, and the other, Billy Soose, backed by the New York Commission as world title-holder. Neither, however, was recognized internationally.

But in November 1941, Soose voluntarily gave up his claim to the crown because of weight difficulties, and entered the light heavyweight division. Zale was then matched with the outstanding contender, Georgie Abrams, three times victor over Soose, and on November 28, 1941, the Zale-Abrams fight in Madison Square Garden definitely decided the world championship with Zale the winner. He successfully defended his title on July 26, 1946, when he knocked out Rocky Graziano in the sixth round.

On July 16, 1947 Rocky Graziano knocked out Tony Zale in Chicago in six rounds to win the crown.

June 10, 1948—Tony Zale knocked out Graziano in three rounds at Newark to regain the title.

September 21, 1948—Marcel Cerdan stopped Tony Zale at the Roosevelt Stadium. Zale was unable to come out for the twelfth round.

June 16, 1949—Jake LaMotta stopped Marcel Cerdan at Briggs Stadium, Detroit, to win the title. Cerdan was unable to come out for the tenth round.

February 14, 1951—Ray Robinson knocked out Jake LaMotta, 13 rounds, to win the title, at Chicago, Ill.

July 10, 1951—Randy Turpin defeated Ray Robinson on points, 15 rounds, to win the title, at London, England.

September 12, 1951—Ray Robinson stopped Randy Turpin, 10 rounds, to rewin the title, at New York, N. Y.

December 18, 1952—Ray Robinson retired undefeated as champion.

An elimination tournament followed with Randy Turpin, Charley Humez, Bobo Olson and Paddy Young named to compete for the vacant crown.

June 9, 1953—Randy Turpin outpointed Charley Humez, 15 rounds, London, England. (European title.)

June 19, 1953—Carl (Bobo) Olson outpointed Paddy Young, 15 rounds, New York City. (American title.)

October 21, 1953—Carl (Bobo) Olson outpointed Randy Turpin, 15 rounds, New York City. (Olson universally recognized as world champion.)

Dec. 9, 1955—Ray Robinson knocked out Carl (Bobo) Olson in the second round Chicago, Ill.

Jan. 2, 1957—Gene Fullmer won title by decisioning Ray Robinson, 15 rounds, New York, N. Y.

May 1, 1957—Ray Robinson won title for fourth time by knocking out Gene Fullmer, 5 rounds, Chicago, Ill.

Sept. 23, 1957—Carmen Basilio won title on a split decision, 15 rounds, from Ray Robinson, New York, N. Y.

Mar. 25, 1958—Ray Robinson won title for fifth time, on a fifteen round split decision, from Carmen Basilio, Chicago, Ill.

Aug. 28, 1959—When the N.B.A. vacated Robinson's title, Gene Fullmer and Carmen Basilio met at San Francisco, with Fullmer stopping Basilio in 14 rounds and gaining N.B.A. recognition.

January 22, 1960—Paul Pender won the title by a split decision over Ray Robinson in fifteen rounds at Boston, Mass. Recognized by N. Y., Mass. and most world bodies as world championship bout.

July 11, 1961—Terry Downes won the title by stopping Paul Pender after nine rounds in London, England.

April 7, 1962—Paul Pender regained the title by winning a unanimous fifteen round decision over Terry Downes, Boston, Mass.

Oct. 23, 1962—Dick Tiger won the WBA title by winning an unanimous fifteen round decision over Gene Fullmer at San Francisco, Calif.

November 9, 1962—It was announced that the New York Athletic Commission, the British Board of Boxing Control and the European Boxing Union had withdrawn recognition from Paul Pender and henceforth recognize Dick Tiger as world champion. On November 12, Pender filed suit in New York City against the Commission for the return of his title and the reversal of their act.

HISTORY OF THE WELTERWEIGHT CLASS

The welterweight class came into being about 1880. It was established to bridge the gap between the lightweight and middleweight divisions, with a scaling mark first set at 142 pounds, and later raised to 145. American records show Paddy Duffy as the first champion of the grade, in the early eighties. When Duffy retired, the title was in abeyance several years, until fought for by Mysterious Billy Smith and Danny Needham, in 1892. The lineup of champions in this division follows:

Dec. 14, 1892—Mysterious Billy Smith knocked out Danny Needham at San Francisco, 14 rounds.

July 26, 1894—Tommy Ryan outpointed Mysterious Billy Smith at Minneapolis, Minn., in 20 rounds.

March 2, 1896—Kid McCoy knocked out Tommy Ryan at Maspeth, L. I., in 15 rounds.

(McCoy and Ryan both outgrew welter class, and Mysterious Billy Smith again claimed the title.)

Jan. 15, 1900—Rube Ferns won from Mysterious Billy Smith on a foul, at Buffalo, in 21 rounds.

Oct. 16, 1900—Matty Matthews outpointed Rube Ferns at Detroit, Mich., in 15 rounds.

May 24, 1901—Rube Ferns knocked out Matty Matthews at Toronto, Canada, in 10 rounds.

Dec. 18, 1901—Joe Walcott knocked out Rube Ferns at Fort Erie, Canada, in 5 rounds.

April 30, 1904—Dixie Kid won on a foul from Walcott at San Francisco, in 20 rounds.

(Decision was disputed. Dixie Kid went abroad, outgrew welter grade. Walcott was again recognized as champion.)

Oct. 16, 1906—Honey Mellody outpointed Joe Walcott at Chelsea, Mass., in 15 rounds.

April 23, 1907—Mike (Twin) Sullivan outpointed Honey Mellody at Los Angeles, Cal., in 20 rounds.

August 31, 1915—Ted Lewis outpointed Jack Britton at Boston, Mass., in 12 rounds.

March 17, 1919—Jack Britton knocked out Ted Lewis at Canton, Ohio, in 9 rounds.

Nov. 1, 1922—Mickey Walker outpointed Jack Britton at Madison Square Garden, in 15 rounds.

May 20, 1926—Pete Latzo outpointed Mickey Walker at Scranton, Pa., in 10 rounds.

June 3, 1927—Joe Dundee outpointed Pete Latzo at Polo Grounds, New York, in 15 rounds.

On Aug. 10, Servo signed to meet Ray Robinson for the title and after two post-

The New York Commission attempted to get an elimination under way with Robinson to draw a bye. None of the contenders, however, would agree to fight Ray except Tommy Bell. Whereupon the N. Y. Commission and the N. B. A. agreed to recognize the winner of a Robinson-Bell bout staged in Madison Square Garden on December 20, 1946 as the world champion.

Robinson gained the title via the decision route in 15 rounds.

HISTORY OF THE LIGHTWEIGHT CLASS

1855—John Moneghan, an Irishman from Liverpool, England, came to America and claimed the lightweight championship. He is credited with being the first to claim this title. On December 18, 1855 he beat Little Jim Hart in 45 rounds, 51 minutes, at Island Pond, Canada, for the title.

1856—July 19, Jim Hart beat Moneghan, 10 rounds, 14 minutes, at Beverly, Mass. Hart never claimed the title, or defended it, and when he retired from competition, Moneghan again reigned as champion.

McAuliffe was the last of the bare-knuckle champions, and the first under Queensberry rules. He retired in 1896.

McAuliffe was undisputed lightweight champion of America, but never held the world title, his battle for the world crown, with Jem Carney of England, on Nov. 16, 1887, having resulted in a 74 round draw. He was succeeded by Kid Lavigne of Saginaw, Mich. Other title battles were:

HISTORY OF THE FEATHERWEIGHT CLASS

John Keating claimed the Featherweight Championship of America in the early 1860's, but he declined to meet Nobby Clark of England in a fight for world honors. Jimmy Elliott, later American Heavyweight Champion, was substituted, but lost to Clark.

May 28, 1860, Nobby Clark beat Jimmy Elliott, 34 rounds, 1 hour and 2 minutes at Palisades, New Jersey. Nobby Clark was never beaten in America, and he returned to England and retired from the game.

Dick Hollywood and John Keating then claimed the title, but Hollywood gave Keating several terriffic beatings in championship fights in the early 1860's. Hollywood then retired, and the title was claimed by Tommy Kelly (the original Tommy Kelly, not the one who boxed George Dixon in 1888).

Oct. 7, 1868, George Seddons beat Tommy Kelly, 96 rounds, lasting 1 hour and 39 minutes, at Portmouth, N. H., for the championship.

George Seddons outgrew the class, and eventually boxed Arthur Chambers for the lightweight championship in which he was beaten, and retired. In the early 1870's the championship was claimed by Tommy Kelly, and later by John Keating and Long Tom Ryan.

In the early 1880's the Featherweight Championship was claimed by Jack Keenan, until 1885, when he was beaten by Young Mitchell (John Herget). Mitchell outgrew the class, and Harry Gilmore of Canada, claimed the title in 1887, but he, too, outgrew the class after a time. Then came the era in which Ike Weir, Dal Hawkins, Cal McCarthy, and George Dixon contended for the title.

Two ounce gloves were partly beginning to supersede bare knuckles, and the Queensberry rules were coming into vogue during the late Eighties, when Dal Hawkins and Freddy Bogan fought 75 rounds for the featherweight title at San Francisco in 1889. The fight, held indoors, was halted by darkness, and resumed the day following, with Brogan scoring a knockout in the fifteenth round.

Brogan returned to Australia and Hawkins claimed the title, but both had by then outgrown the class which then had a limit of 118 pounds.

March 31, 1889—Ike Weir and Frank Murphy fought to a draw, at Kouts, Ind., 80 rounds. (Designated as world title bout.)

On July 30, Billy Murphy and Frank Murphy fought a draw of 27 rounds and then Frank returned to England, refusing to fight Weir again for the right to meet Billy Murphy. Hence the Police Gazette arranged for a championship match between Australian Billy and Weir which the latter lost.

January 13, 1890—Billy Murphy, New Zealand, knocked out Ike Weir, Ireland, at San Francisco, in 14 rounds.

The Americans contention was that neither Weir nor Murphy had a right to a world title claim but only to the British Empire title.

In America, George Dixon, of Boston, and Cal McCarthy, of Troy, N. Y., each of whom had graduated from the bantamweight class which at the time was recognized at 110 pounds, were the leading contenders. When Dixon stopped McCarthy at Troy in 22 rounds the ringside weight was 115 pounds and he gained recognition as the American titleholder.

April 25, 1891—Ike Weir and Johnny Griffin fought at Nantucket, Mass. The bout was stopped by police in round 4.

(Griffin had claimed title during Billy Murphy's absence in Australia.)

Dixon on July 28, 1891, knocked out Abe Willis, featherweight champion of England, in five rounds, and thus became the world champion of the class.

Sept. 6, 1892—George Dixon knocked out Jack Skelly at New Orleans, in 8 rounds, for the world featherweight championship.

Tom O'Rourke, Dixon's manager, then gradually raised the weight limit and stipulated 120 pounds for a title match between Dixon and Solly Smith at San Francisco, October 4, 1897, Smith getting the referee's decision at the end of twenty rounds.

Smith then made a match with Dave Sullivan which was fought at Coney Island, N. Y., September 26, 1898, Smith breaking his arm and being compelled to quit in the fifth round.

Dixon challenged Sullivan and they met in the Lenox A. C., New York, November 11, 1898, and Dixon regained his title by stopping Sullivan in the tenth round, Sullivan's seconds entering the ring to prevent a knockout.

Dixon retained the title until January 9, 1900, when he was knocked out by Terry McGovern at the Broadway A. C., New York, in the eighth round. The weight was 118 pounds

Nov. 28, 1901—Young Corbett knocked out Terry McGovern at Hartford, Conn., in 2 rounds.

(The weight was 126 pounds, nevertheless the bout was billed as being for the featherweight championship. Corbett could never make the feather limit, and did not attempt to do so. When he and McGovern both competed in the lightweight class, Abe Attell claimed the featherweight championship.

Attell gained the vacant title in matches with George Dixon, having drawn with him, 20 rounds, on Oct. 20, 1901, at Cripple Creek, and decisioning him, 15 rounds, Oct. 28, 1901, at St. Louis.

April 30, 1908—Abe Attell knocked out Brooklyn Tommy Sullivan at San Francisco, in 4 rounds in a non-title bout.

February 22, 1912—Johnny Kilbane outpointed Abe Attell at Vernon, Cal., in 20 rounds.

June 2, 1923—Eugene Criqui knocked out Johnny Kilbane at Polo Grounds,, New York City, 6 rounds.

July 26, 1923—Johnny Dundee outpointed Eugene Criqui at Polo Grounds. New York City, in 15 rounds.

(In 1925, when Dundee outgrew featherweight class, an elimination tourney to determine his successor was won by Louis (Kid) Kaplan.)

Jan. 2, 1925—Louis (Kid) Kaplan knocked out Danny Kramer, in Madison Square Garden, New York City, in 9 rounds.

(By 1927 Kaplan outgrew the class. An elimination tourney made Benny Bass leading contender.)

Sept. 12, 1927—Benny Bass outpointed Red Chapman at Philadelphia, Pa., in 10 rounds, Chapman being the N. B. A. champion.

Feb. 10, 1928—Tony Canzoneri outpointed Benny Bass in Madison Square Garden, New York City, in 15 rounds, to clinch world title.

Sept. 28, 1928—Andre Routis outpointed Tony Canzoneri at N. Y. C., in 15 rounds.

Sept. 23, 1929—Battling Battalino outpointed Andre Routis at Hartford, Conn., in 15 rounds.

(By 1932 Battalino outgrew the class. An N.B.A. elimination tournament was won by Tommy Paul of Buffalo.)

May 26, 1932—Tommy Paul outpointed Johnny Pena at Detroit, Mich., in 15 rounds. (For N.B.A. title.)

Oct. 13, 1932—Kid Chocolate knocked out Lew Feldman in New York, N. Y., in 12 rounds. This bout was recognized by the New York Commission as for the featherweight championship because Paul had previously lost to Feldman. The N.B.A. had not sanctioned the Feldman-Paul fight as for the crown. Chocolate later relinquished his claim to the title.

Jan. 13, 1933—Freddie Miller outpointed Tommy Paul at Chicago, Ill., in 10 rounds in an N.B.A. championship fight which New York refused to recognize.

Miller proceeded to clean up the cream of the world's contenders. He traveled all over Europe and beat all rivals, losing only two fights out of 34 and engaged in two draws. He lost only to one outstanding champion in Europe, Maurice Holtzer of France in an overweight bout.

May 11, 1936—Miller lost to Petey Sarron, Washington, D. C., in 15 rounds.

October 29, 1937—Henry Armstrong knocked out Sarron, Madison Square Garden, in 6 rounds, to win world title.

1938—Henry Armstrong retired as feather weight champion.

The New York State Commission, recognizing Mike Belloise of New York and Joey Archibald of Pawtucket, R. I., as the outstanding contenders, arranged a match for the St. Nicholas A. C. of New York and Archibald won the fight and recognition.

Oct. 17, 1938—Joey Archibald won decision from Mike Belloise, 15 rounds.

May 20, 1940—Joey Archibald lost to Harry Jeffra, 15 rounds, Baltimore, Md.

May 12, 1941—Joey Archibald beat Harry Jeffra, 15 rounds, Washington, D. C.

Sept. 11, 1941—Chalky Wright knocked out Joey Archibald, Washington, D. C., 11 rounds.

Pete Scalzo, on Dec. 5, 1938, knocked out Archibald in 2 rounds in an overweight match, and thereafter, tried desperately to get Archibald in a title bout but was unsuccessful. When he refused to meet Scalzo, the N.B.A. declared Scalzo the champion and vacated Archibald's title on May 1, 1940, and when Archibald fought Jeffra in Baltimore, only New York and Maryland recognized it as for the crown. But there could be no doubt that Archibald was champion and Jeffra, when he won, became successor to the crown.

As a result of this dispute the N.B.A. had Scalzo as its champion and when Scalzo was knocked out by Richard Lemos at Los Angeles, in 5 rounds, July 1, 1941, Lemos received N.B.A. recognition. On Nov. 18. Lemos lost the N.B.A. title to Jackie Wilson Wright in 1941 was the world champion.

Nov. 20, 1942—Willie Pep defeated Chalky Wright, Madison Square Garden, 15 rounds, decision. On January 18, 1943, Wilson lost the N.B.A. crown to Jackie Callura of Canada. The N.B.A. crown passed from Callura to Phil Terranova, by a knockout in 8 rounds on August 16, 1943, and Terranova lost it to Sal Bartolo on March 10, 1944 in 15 rounds in Boston.

Willie Pep was recognized as the international champion. Pep joined the Navy on June 16, 1943 and was honorably discharged on February 15, 1944. He defended his title against Chalky Wright in the Garden on September 29, 1944 and won in 15 rounds. He then joined the Army. Thereafter Pep successfully defended the crown against Sal Bartola (twice), Chalky Wright and Phil Terranova.

Oct. 29, 1948—Sandy Saddler scored a four round knockout over Willie Pep at Madison Square Garden, New York, to win the world title.

Feb. 11, 1949—Willie Pep regained the title by winning a 15 round decision over

Sandy Saddler at Madison Square Garden, New York.

September 8, 1950—Sandy Saddler rewon the title by halting Willie Pep at the Yankee Stadium, New York, N. Y., Pep being unable to answer the bell for the eighth round due to injury.

Saddler was inducted into the Army in 1952 and the N.B.A. recognized Bassett as "Interim Champion."

Following an auto accident in which he was injured in 1956, Saddler relinquished the title in 1957.

After an elimination tournament, with Hogan (Kid) Bassey and Cherif Hamia as finalists, Bassey won the vacant title by stopping Hamia, 10 rounds, on June 24, 1957, at Paris, France.

March 18, 1959—Davey Moore won the title by knocking out Hogan (Kid) Bassey at the end of the 13th round, at Los Angeles, Calif.

HISTORY OF THE BANTAMWEIGHT CLASS

No authentic, continuous records of the bantamweight division during London Prize Ring days were ever kept, but it is known that Charley Lynch was American champion in 1856 when he went to England, where he won and lost several battles. He claimed the world's bantam title when he defeated Simon Finighty in 43 rounds. Lynch returned home and retired soon afterwards. He was born in New York, weighed 112 pounds and was five feet, four inches in height. The title then lapsed, until claimed in 1887 by Tommy Kelly, the "Harlem Spider." Championship bouts were staged as follows:

During the period from 1870 to 1890 there was much confusion with a number of claims made to the American and World titles. Those whose claims received the most credit were George Siddons in 1870, Tommy Kelly of Boston in 1870, Dick Hollywood in 1871 Tommy (Spider) Kelly of New York in 1887, Hughey Boyle in 1888, Chappie Moran of England in 1889, Cal McCarthy in 1889, Spider Kelly again in 1889, Tim Murphy in 1890, Fred Brogan of Australia in 1890 and then George Dixon in 1890.

May 10, 1888. Tommy Kelly drew with George Dixon at Boston, in 9 rounds. (The weight was 105 pounds, and Dixon's manager, Tom O'Rourke, claimed the bantam crown for the colored lad at that mark, which was afterwards advanced to 112 then to 115 pounds, and finally to the present scaling of 118 pounds.)

June 27, 1890. George Dixon stopped Nunc Wallace at London, England, in 18 rounds. (This was for the world's bantam championship, Wallace scaling 113 against Dixon's 112 pounds.)

Oct. 23, 1890. George Dixon outpointed Johnny Murphy at Providence, R. I., in 40 rounds.

March 31, 1891. George Dixon stopped Cal McCarthy at Troy, N. Y., in 22 rounds.

July 28, 1891. George Dixon knocked out Abe Willis at San Francisco, in 5 rounds. (In the following year Dixon outgrew the bantam grade and entered the featherweight division.)

Sept. 15, 1894. Jimmy Barry knocked out Casper Leon at Lamont, Ill., in 28 rounds. (With this victory, Jimmy Barry claimed the bantam championship, vacant since Dixon relinquished the title in 1892.)

Dec. 6, 1897. Jimmy Barry knocked out Walter Croot at London, England, in 20 rounds. (This bout gave Barry the world's title. Croot died after the knockout, but Barry was exonerated by a coroner's jury.)

Sept. 12, 1899. Terry McGovern knocked out Pedlar Palmer at Tuckahoe, N. Y., in 1 round. (This victory over England's champion gave McGovern the world's title, Jimmy Barry having retired undefeated. In 1900 McGovern vacated the bantam title and joined the featherweight ranks.

March 18, 1901 Harry Harris outpointed Pedlar Palmer at London, England, in 15 rounds. (This was an international match, with the world's bantam title at stake, McGovern having entered the featherweight division. Harris also became a featherweight in the year following.)

Jan. 23, 1902. Harry Forbes knocked out Danny Dougherty at St. Louis, in 4 rounds. (Forbes had beaten most of the crack bantams, and his claim to the American title was universally recognized. But in 1903, he beat Andy Tokell in 10 rounds in Detroit, thus winning the world crown, Tokell being the British champion.

Aug. 13, 1903. Frankie Neil knocked out Harry Forbes at San Francisco, Cal., 2 rounds.

Oct. 17, 1904. Joe Bowker outpointed Frankie Neil at London, England, in 20 rounds. (Bowker, British champion, won the world's title, but outgrew the bantam class the same year. Both Digger Stanley of England and Jimmy Walsh of Boston, claimed the title. One was recognized in the U. S. the other in England.)

Oct. 20, 1905. Jimmy Walsh outpointed Digger Stanley at Chelsea, Mass., in 15 rounds. (Walsh claimed the bantamweight title after beating Stanley, England's champion. By 1907 Walsh had outgrown the class.)

In 1908 Kid Murphy claimed the U. S. championship. It was not until 1910, when Johnny Coulon beat Jim Kendrick, British champion in 10 rounds and stopped him in 19 rounds, March 6, 1910, that the international title was at stake and Coulon was accepted as the title holder since he had whipped Kid Murphy three times previously in U. S. title bouts.

June 9, 1914, Kid Williams knocked out Johnny Coulon at Vernon, Cal., in 3 rounds.

Sept. 10, 1915. Johnny Ertle won from Kid Williams on a foul at St. Paul, Minn., in

5 rounds. (Ertle claimed title, but as decision was a disputed one, his claim was not generally recognized.)

Jan. 9, 1917. Pete Herman outpointed Kid Williams at New Orleans, in 20 rounds. (Herman was recognized by entire press as bantamweight titleholder, and Ertle's claim disallowed.)

Dec. 22, 1920. Joe Lynch outpointed Pete Herman, in Madison Square Garden, in 15 rounds.

July 25, 1921. Pete Herman outpointed Joe Lynch at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, N. Y., in 15 rounds.

March 21, 1924. Abe Goldstein outpointed Joe Lynch in Madison Square Garden, in 15 rounds.

Dec. 19, 1924. Eddie (Cannonball) Martin outpointed Abe Goldstein in Madison Square Garden, in 15 rounds.

March 20, 1925. Charlie (Phil) Rosenberg outpointed Eddie (Cannonball) Martin in Madison Square Garden, in 15 rounds. (Rosenberg was deprived of his title by boxing commission when he was unable to make weight for a scheduled championship bout with Bushy Graham.)

On June 24, 1927, in Chicago, Bud Taylor beat Tony Canzoneri to win N.B.A. recognition. Taylor vacated the N.B.A. title on August 21, 1928.

On May 23, 1928 Bushy Graham outpointed Corp. Izzy Schwartz in fifteen rounds for the N. Y. recognition as world champion. Graham outgrew the class without ever defending the title, and with Taylor having given up his claim, the Brown-Gregario fight was for worldwide recognition.

June 18, 1929. Al Brown outpointed Vidal Gregario at New York City, in 15 rounds. (This was the outcome of an elimination tourney ordered by the New York Boxing Commission, to determine a successor to Rosenberg, and Al Brown thereby became champion.)

June 1, 1935. Baltazar Sangchili outpointed Al Brown at Valencia, Spain in 15 rounds.

June 29, 1936. Tony Marino knocked out Baltazar Sangchili at Queensboro Club, New York City, in 14 rounds.

February 20, 1938. Sixto Escobar outpointed Harry Jeffra at Puerto Rico in 15 rounds.

Sixto Escobar retired in 1940. Georgie Pace and Lou Salica were the outstanding contenders. Pace was the N. B. A. champion and Salica had the support of N. Y. and California. They fought and Salica won. By conquering Tommy Forte, he gained international recognition.

Aug. 7, 1942. Lou Salica was outpointed in 12 rounds by Manuel Ortiz, Hollywood, in title bout, Ortiz gaining the title.

In 1943, Ortiz successfully defended his title eight times.

In 1944, Ortiz successfully defended his world crown four times.

In 1945, Ortiz went into the Army and after his dishcarge, he defended his title successfully three times, all in 1946. His victims were Luis Castillo, whom he knocked out in the 13th round; Kenny Lindsay, whom he stopped in five and he kayoed Jackie Jurich in 11 rounds.

On January 6, 1947, Ortiz lost his title to Harold Dade in a decision route in 15 rounds in San Francisco.

Ortiz regained the title on March 11, 1947 by winning a 15 round decision from Dade at Los Angeles.

May 31, 1950—Vic Toweel won the title by defeating Manuel Ortiz over fifteen rounds at Johannesburg, So. Africa.

Nov. 15, 1952—Jimmy Carruthers won the title by knocking out Vic Toweel in one round at Johannesburg, So. Africa.

Jimmy Carruthers retired as undefeated champion on May 16, 1954, shortly after successfully defending his crown against Chamrern Songkitrat at Bangkok, Thailand.

Becerra announced his retirement on August 30, 1960 after being stopped in the eighth round of a non-title bout by Elroy Sanchez in Juarez.

The National Boxing Association and the European Boxing Union arranged eliminations to decide Becerra's successor. On October 15, 1960, Alphonse Halimi of France gained the decision, in London, over Freddie Gilroy of Ireland, to win the European title and in Los Angeles on November 18, 1960, Eder Jofre of Brazil knocked out Eloy Sanchez of Mexico in the sixth round to win the American title.

Though the winners were to clash for the world championship, Halimi refused to accept Eder and because of his refusal to fight the Brazilian, a match was arranged with Piero Rollo, champion of Italy, sanctioned by the Italian Federation, as a title bout. Rollo was stopped in the tenth round at Rio de Janeiro, March 25, 1961, and Jofre was acknowledged world title holder by the N.B.A., New York and the South American Federation and Ring Magazine.

On May 30, 1961 Halimi was outpointed by Johnny Caldwell of Ireland who was given recognition by the European Boxing Union.

January 18, 1962 — Eder Jofre gained international recognition by knocking out Johnny Caldwell in the tenth round at Sao Paulo, Brazil.

HISTORY OF THE FLYWEIGHT CLASS

The flyweight class was created in England during 1910, when it was given official recognition, with the scaling mark set at 108 pounds. Prior to this the smallest of the small battlers had to do the best they could against the 118 pounders of the bantam division. America followed suit the same year by recognizing the flyweight grade. The first championship fight at the weight brought together Jimmy Wilde of England, and Zulu Kid, of the U. S. A. Battles staged were as follows:

Dec. 18, 1916—Jimmy Wilde knocked out Zulu Kid, at London, England, in 11 rounds.

Feb. 11, 1921—Johnny Buff outpointed Frankie Mason at New Orleans, in 15 rounds.

(This was for American flyweight title.)

Sept. 14, 1922—Pancho Villa knocked out Johnny Buff, at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, in 11 rounds.

March 1, 1923—Frankie Genaro outpointed Pancho Villa at Madison Square Garden, New York City, in 15 rounds.

June 18, 1923—Pancho Villa knocked out Jimmy Wilde at Polo Grounds, New York City, in 7 rounds.

(Villa was recognized as world's flyweight champion, although he had lost a decision to Frankie Genaro. Villa died in July, 1925, and Genaro claimed the title.)

August 22, 1925—Fidel La Barba outpointed Frankie Genaro at Los Angeles, Cal., in 10 rounds.

(La Barba was recognized as world's flyweight champion, but temporarily retired from the ring in 1927.)

Dec. 16, 1927—Corporal Izzy Schwartz outpointed Newsboy Brown at New York City, in 15 rounds.

(Schwartz was recognized as flyweight champion by the New York Boxing Commission, but conditions in the class became completely confused, and did not become stabilized until the commission staged an elimination tourney in the beginning of November, 1929.)

Feb. 6, 1928—Genaro gained N. B. A. recognition by outpointing Frenchy Belanger, 10 rounds, at Toronto, Canada.

Mar. 2, 1929—Emile (Spider) Pladner kayoed Genaro in one round at Paris, France, in a bout advertised as for the world title.

Mar. 20, 1929—With Pladner having defeated Izzy Schwartz, recognized by the New York Commission; Genaro, recognized by the N. B. A.; and Johnny Hill, the European champion, the International Boxing Union officially recognized him as the world champion.

Apr. 18, 1929—Frankie Genaro won from Pladner on a foul, 5 rounds, in Paris, France, in a bout advertised as for the world title.

March 21, 1930—Midget Wolgast outpointed Black Bill at New York City, in 15 rounds.

Dec. 26, 1930—Frankie Genaro and Midget Wolgast fought a draw at New York City, in 15 rounds.

(Genaro was the National Boxing Association champion in the flyweight class. Both claimed the title.)

Oct. 26, 1931—Young Perez knocked out Frankie Genaro at Paris, France, in 2 rounds.

(The bout was staged at the title limit, and Perez was recognized by the I. B. U. of Europe as world title holder.)

Oct. 31, 1932—Jackie Brown knocked out Young Perez at Manchester, England, in 13 rounds, and Brown was recognized throughout Europe as title holder.

Sept. 16, 1935—Filipino Small Montana outpointed Midget Wolgast at Oakland, Cal., in 10 rounds.

(Bout advertised as being for world's flyweight championship, and Montana claimed the title. This, however, was erroneous, as only the American title was at stake.)

Sept. 8, 1935—Benny Lynch knocked out Jackie Brown at Manchester, England, in 2 rounds and Lynch was generally accepted as world title holder.

Jan. 19, 1937—Benny Lynch outpointed Filipino Small Montana at London, England, in 15 rounds to gain international recognition

June 29, 1938—Lynch retired from the class, after his fight with Jackie Jurich, in Paisley, Scotland, because he was far overweight and was ruled out by the British Board of Boxing Control.

September 22, 1938—Jackie Jurich went to England to fight Peter Kane for what the British recognized as a world title bout, though Jurich was not the U. S. champion at the time. He was defeated by Kane, in 15 rounds.

In America, the dispute between Jurich and Montana as to the U. S. championship, was decided on March 3, 1939, when Montana was knocked out in the 7th round at Hollywood. Then on October 4, Jurich again beat Montana, this time in 10 rounds at Oakland, and Jurich became the undisputed U. S. title holder of the flyweight division.

On September 22, 1939, when Jurich drew with Little Dado who had beaten Montana at the flyweight limit on November 30, 1938. Jurich claimed the title as Dado no longer could make the weight.

Dado following his victory over Montana, was matched to fight Enrico Urbinati of Italy for the vacant world title, but the outbreak of World War II cancelled out this match and the N.B.A. gave him it's backing as champion although Montana still claimed the title.

Kane's record was so far superior to that of Jurich or Montana, that he was generally recognized as world champion, especially because only three months before Lynch's retirement, he had fought Lynch a draw in 12 rounds, at the weight.

When the World War started, Kane was forced into temporary retirement after he had given up the flyweight title to enter the bantam class. Thus in 1941 and 1942 the title of world flyweight champion was vacant.

On June 19, 1943 Jackie Paterson knocked out Peter Kane in one round in Scotland to gain international recognition as world champion.

In 1946 Paterson successfully defended his title when he defeated Joe Curran in 15 rounds on July 10.

On Oct. 20, 1947, Rinty Monaghan defeated Dado Marino in London in 15 rounds to win N.B.A. recognition as title holder after Paterson had failed to go through with contest he had arranged with Marino for the title. Paterson however, was still recognized as world champion by the British Board.

On March 23, 1948, Monaghan stopped Paterson at Belfast in 7 rounds to win the crown.

With Rinty Monaghan retired, on April 25, 1950 Terry Allen won the vacant crown by defeating Honore Pratesi over 15 rounds at Harringay Arena, London, England.

August 1, 1950—Dado Marino won the title by outpointing Terry Allen over 15 rounds at Honolulu, Hawaii.

May 19, 1952—Yoshio Shirai won a fifteen round decision over Dado Marino to gain the title, Korakuen Stadium, Tokyo, Japan.

Nov. 26, 1954—Pascual Perez defeated Yoshio Shirai, Korakuen Stadium, Tokyo, Japan, 15 rounds. Major John Sullivan, referee.

April 16, 1960—Pone Kingpetch won the title by a split fifteen round decision over Pascual Perez at Bangkok, Thailand.

Oct. 10, 1962—Fighting Harada won the title by knocking out Pone Kingpetch in 2:59 of the eleventh round at Tokyo, Japan.

HISTORY OF JUNIOR TITLES

ON APRIL 29, 1946, in Boston, Tippy Larkin, of Garfield, N. J., defeated Willie Joyce, of Gary, Indiana, in a twelve round bout which the Massachusetts State Athletic Commission recognized as for the Junior Welterweight Championship of the World and for which the winner, Larkin was presented with a belt.

Although junior divisions are not generally recognized, a history of this synthetic division is in order because of the many queries received concerning this class and the probability that it may be revised.

When the first New York State Athletic Commission under the Walker Law was appointed in 1920, it inherited a set of rules adopted by the state legislature which provided for junior classes in boxing. These were a junior flyweight class with a limit of 109 pounds, junior bantam division with a limit of 115 pounds, junior featherweight, 122 pounds, junior lightweight, 130 pounds, and a junior welter class with a limit of 140 pounds.

No records exist of any junior titleholders except those of junior lightweight and junior welterweight. In 1930, ten years after taking office, the New York Boxing Board abolished these weight divisions and a few years later all other states followed. Listed below are the champions as they then were recognized up to the discontinuation of junior classes.

sedentary life and moved out into sports writing, and eventually, into the sports editorships of the New York Press, The New York Sun and the Evening Telegram.

Still restless, Fleischer left the newspaper business for The Ring Magazine and a life as a publisher and globe trotter. He has flown around the world on boxing missions, more times than he remembers. He is an especially frequent visitor to Japan and Thailand, and to England, where there is a British edition of The Ring Magazine.

Fleischer is the author of 53 boxing and wrestling books, in addition to "The Ring Record Book and Boxing Encyclopedia." His "Pictorial History of Boxing" has won universal acclaim as the outstanding work in its field.

His "Fifty Years at the Ringside," an autobiography, also has had a strong sale in the United States and Great Britain.
